

Bonanza Girl Chosen U. N. Youth Delegate Alternate

BONANZA — A Bonanza High School junior, Velda Rodgers, was selected by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges of Klamath and Lake counties as an alternate to participate in the United Nations Youth Pilgrimage this summer. Following are excerpts from a speech given by Miss Rodgers before a gathering of the Klamath and Lake lodges in Klamath Falls: The United Nations is more than ing built for other refugees left homeless after the Korean war. Present day wars and communism appear as co-partners of destruction in poverty stricken areas. Communism has little to gain in poverty stricken areas, except the minds of men to be used against the free world. Where poverty could not bend the minds of men to the will of communism, narcotics were used. This weapon was brought to the attention of the U.N. and corrective measures were taken by the U.N. on a world wide basis.

Through the Food and Agriculture Committee the U.N. has been able to save many people from communism. Modern machinery and improved methods of farming have been sent to areas stricken by wars and economic misfortunes. Seed and food were included in the program to give the needy people a new outlook on life.

But, a new outlook on life must be given direction if it is to grow and continue through self motivation. People must understand one another and most of all must understand themselves. To this problem, education is the only solution.

The U.N. has built elementary schools and colleges in which it has furnished books and supplies for learning the fundamentals and democratic ideals. The Food and Agriculture Committee of the U.N. is working hand-in-hand with the Education Committee to supply food to undernourished students so they will not be handicapped, in learning, by hunger. In many areas girls have been allowed to attend school and the general status of women has been raised by the Economic and Social Council of the U.N. To me, the education of today will, in the future, be the greatest defender of our four freedoms, namely: freedom of speech, freedom to worship God in one's own way, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Yet the most frequent criticism heard about the U.N. is that it is a do-nothing organization. Although it is a very slow moving organization at the present time, the fruit it will bear in future years will increase in quantity and quality as the children of today become the guiding light of tomorrow, turning poverty stricken areas into prosperous regions. Democratic organization, humanitarian service, and future planning for a just social order—that is what the U.N. means to me.

The U.N. has done more than just settle disputes between nations to avoid wars. Its work has been in varied fields and encompassed the entire globe. It has improved health through sanitation programs. Sewage and drainage systems have been installed, garbage dumping at random has been stopped, and serums have been sent to needy areas for various types of diseases.

At the Bermuda Conference of 1943 the U.N. adopted a policy to help the many thousands of homeless people throughout the world. This policy is still in effect today and caring for many Korean orphans. In addition, homes are bea plan for world-wide association. It is a living organism which grew from the experiences of many nations during the second world war.

Like all living things, it grows through the activity of doing things beneficial to mankind.

The needs of each member of the United Nations body indicate clearly to us the things which cannot be attained by individual nations working by themselves.

The peace, security, and freedom of each nation depends upon the success of the international organization we call the United Nations.

Spud Growers Vote To Hold Marketing Order Hearing

TULELAKE—With only one dissenting vote, potato growers last night voted to accept the proposed draft of the Northern California marketing order. This vote makes possible the holding of a public hearing on the draft. Changes in the order may be made up to and through the hearing, stated W. J. Kuhrt, chief of bureau of markets, Department of Agriculture for California, who presented the draft. The meeting was held at the Tulelake Growers Association office.

The date for holding the public hearing has been tentatively set for between June 1 and 10. Growers were of the opinion that most crops would be planted by that time and a larger turnout of farmers would be able to attend.

The revised order as accepted last night included the following changes from the original rough draft:

Article II, Section A. (1) An industry board is to be known as the Northern California Potato Advisory Board is hereby established, consisting of nine members, to assist the director in the administration of this marketing order. Seven of said members shall be producers and two shall be handlers.

Article II Section A. 5. Producer representation on the board shall be districts as follows:

District 1 shall be represented by two members and their alternates and shall include the Tulelake area.

District 2 shall be represented by two members and their alternates and shall include the Butte Valley area.

6. Handler representation on the board shall be by districts as follows:

District 1 shall be represented by one member and his alternate and shall include the Tulelake area.

District 2 shall be represented by one member and his alternate and shall include the Butte Valley area.

7. In the event of substantial changes in the localities or areas which Northern California potatoes are produced or handled, or changes in the quantities produced or handled in various areas, the board may recommend and the director approve establishing, abolishing, or modifying the districts of representation and the membership thereof is such establishment, abolition or modification necessary to provide equitable and proper representation for all areas included under the terms of this marketing order.

The original draft called for only seven board members and was to be composed of producers only. At the meeting held two weeks ago it was recommended that this be changed to seven producer board members and two handler members. A copy of the corrected marketing order as accepted last night will appear in the Herald and News at a later date.
