WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to rise to new high marks Friday with the railroads giving the list a kick ahead.

Friday marked the 10th advance in the last 12 sessions, with the market probing into new high ground on average for the past 24 years.

Gains in many areas of the list were quite good, running to between 1 and 3 points. Losses in key sections were in the fractions and scattered.

Trading perked up as prices got better, and business came to an estimated total of 2,100,000 shares for the day. Thursday it stood at 1,880,000 shares.

States Favor Rail Rate Cut

SEATTLE (AP)—Washington and Oregon favor the railroads' plan to cut transcontinental "class rates" on miscellaneous freight, spokesmen for the two states told an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner Thursday.

Bartlett Burns, of the Washington Public Service Commission, and Clifford W. Ferguson, director of rail transportation in Oregon, outlined their views on opening sessions of an ICC hearing on proposed revision of Western rates.

Idaho was slated to explain its stand Friday.

Ferguson said while his state had "little opposition" to the class rate reduction, it was concerned over any proposal to cut present commodity rates which he said apply to about 90 per cent of Oregon's shipments.

Both men said their states will oppose a proposal for a uniform rate structure applied to freight moved only in the West. Utah has taken a stand for this plan at earlier hearings.

Under the plan, the ICC would extend to the Mountain States and the West Coast mileage class rates previously placed in effect east of the Rockies.

While the plan would cut some 30 million dollars from the region's freight bill, opponents contend railroads would try to raise the commodity rates to make up the lost revenue.

Lumber, grain, livestock, farm produce and metals come under the commodity rates, which are generally lower than the class rates.

Ferguson argued a mileage rate "would be ruinous to Oregon's economy." He said the ICC should continue the present rate scale.

Burns offered an alternate proposal suggesting a rate between reductions under the uniform plan and the railroad plan.

Burns also called for a study of class rates east of the Cascades in the two states. He said rates generally are "reasonable" west of the Cascades but said he was convinced they are too high on the east side.

Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains sold off early and then bounded back on the board of trade Friday. Dealers were active both when the market was going down and when it was recovering.

Wheat fell nearly 3 cents on the early decline. Selling was based on belief next Monday's Agriculture Department crop forecast will raise estimated winter wheat production from a month ago.

Later, wheat made up all its loss and went above the previous close. Fall of Dien Bien Phu in Indochina brought some covering in wheat, as did uncertainty regarding Secretary of State Dulles' speech Friday night.

Other cereals followed the action of wheat.

Wheat closed 1/4-3/4 higher, May 2.02 1/4-1/2, corn 1/4 lower to 1 cent higher, May 1.53 1/2, oats 1/2 to 3 cents higher, May 1.25 1/2, soybeans 1 cent lower to 3 cents higher, May 3.94 1/4, and lard 5 cents lower to 45 cents a hundred pounds higher, May 18.75-18.80.

Nazarenes Plan Bigger School

Increasing numbers in attendance at Church of the Nazarene resulted in organization of a second church Sunday school on April 25.

The new school is held at the corner of Quarry and Acosta, two blocks west of Highway 97 a short distance north of the junction of old and new highways on the road to Bend. So far a church has not been organized.

This addition is the answer to a much-felt need by the pastor of the first church, the Rev. Wesley Crist, and will serve residents in Chelsea, Pelican City, Wocus, Shipington and other north suburban areas.

Nineteen were present the first Sunday; 41 the second Sunday, May 2.

It has not been indicated yet whether this second (numerically) Nazarene church school in Klamath Falls will be called Second Church, North Suburban, Pelican City, Chelsea, or some other name. For the present, it will be identified by location, according to the Rev. Crist.

Mrs. Louella Ford of Tacoma, Washington, has done the spade work in canvassing and super-collecting in this new work. She has been assisted in calling by Mrs. James King, Mrs. Jack Murray, Mrs. Jack Jones and Mrs. David Hopper Sr.

Helpers in getting the property ready for the Sunday crowds were Mrs. Walter Clary, Mrs. Arlie Barnes, the Rev. Crist, Bill Stewart, Mel Olson, Jack Murray and Marvyn Murray.

The Copco story is a story of the West
Tomorrow... and a last frontier

SINCE this country was founded, Americans have pushed westward until now the fertile valleys, mighty forests and other rich natural resources of this area remain as one of the last frontiers for expansion.

We still hang out the welcome sign for the pioneer...and our slogan might well be TOMORROW UNLIMITED. That is where COPCO serves as a partner. For behind the untilled land, the timber reserves, the potential industrial sites and our unequalled scenic wonders are the great rivers which supply the power for progress.

COPCO has been developing these water resources since 1920. Already $112,000,000 has been invested in power plants and distribution facilities with which to provide modern, efficient electric service...and our blueprint for progress calls for still more and more additions and improvements.

The story of our area has just begun. In partnership with the communities it serves, COPCO will continue its pioneer role of producing electricity from our natural resources... power for new industries, new jobs, bigger payrolls and a better life for all.
