

Giant Heavyweights Ready For Main Bout

Weiser, Al Moore Bout Off

Tonight's main event of an outstanding boxing card will feature two giants with plenty of ring know-how and a difference of opinion to settle.

Big Bill Mathis, who claims only a lucky punch prevented him from racking up a kayo over Joltin' Jimmy Byrne in their last meeting in a recent Portland main event, will attempt to substantiate his claim in tonight's headliner of the best boxing card ever lined up in the Armory ring.

Byrne, on the other hand, doesn't think that the punch was lucky and will be gunning for his second straight knockout in two tries against the big San Francisco Negro, who will scale in for the fight around the 230-235 pound mark when both heavyweights enter the ring.

Both fighters own outstanding ring records, and have fought several big names in the ring record books.

Byrne, of course, will have to be given the nod in tonight's scrap, because of his win over the giant colored lad from the Bay Area in their Portland fight.

Mathis could very well end the fight in short manner with his heavily loaded fists, and both he and his opponent realize that fact, so the battle should be marked with lots of hard blows and some sharp defensive work.

In Byrne's two other fights in the local ring he posted quick two round knockouts over both opponents, and made a hit with local fans even though they would like to have seen the fight go a longer distance than it did.

The Portland bell-ringing heavyweight, also was a little displeased in the fact because he wanted to make a hit with the local fight fans, but when he hit his ring adversaries they wouldn't be around very long to fight back.

Mathis is a very tough fighter, and is known to come in swinging everything except the kitchen sink. The huge Californian has a tremendous left hook, as does Byrne, and will attempt to show the gallery and ringside fans just what he can do with the potential power in his pet punch tonight.

In the semi-windup, Al Moore, the crowning sensation of the last Byrne fight, will be unable to fight in tonight's card, because of injuries suffered in a fight Wednesday night.

Ralph Weiser will probably meet a substitute in the six-round semi.

In one of two special six-rounders that Promoter Mack Lillard has signed for tonight's supporting card, rough and tough Darrell Harrington will get a stiff test in another battle that has been in the making, when he meets Eddie Brown.

Brown and Harrington have met before with the fight ending in a draw after Harrington was nearly knocked out by the Beatty Baiter. Brown was very disgusted when the judges gave the draw decision, and will be out tonight to settle the argument once and for all.

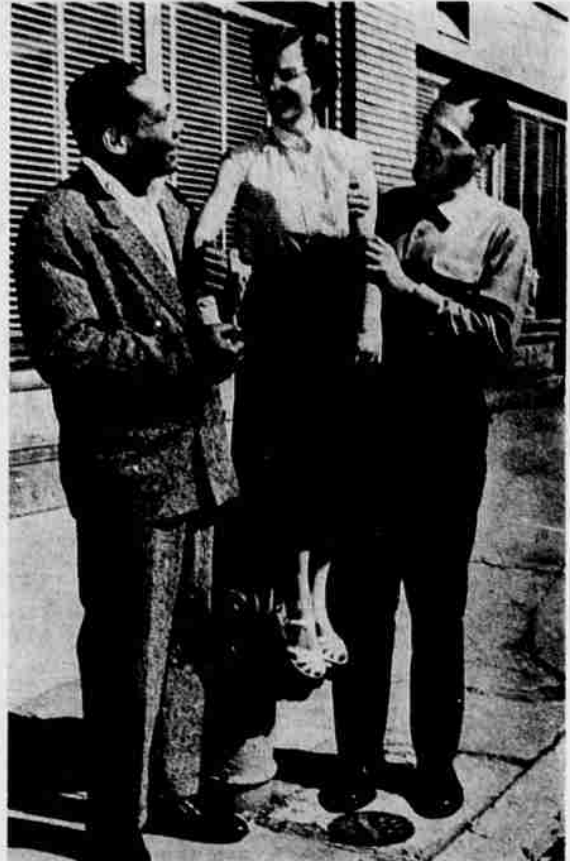

Rudy Carlson and Bobby Barney will get the other six round special spotlight when the two pugilists meet in a prover for little Barney.

Barney, the Sprague River knockout artist, has posted two straight knockouts over his opponents in the local ring and Carlson will prove to many that Barney will have to work to deck him.

In the four round opener, Billy Sunday returns to the Armory to meet another Bay Area fighter in Buddy Clearwater.

Clearwater is known throughout the Frisco boxing circles as a top prelim fighter, and should give Sunday a good battle for top spot after the judges' votes are decided.

The first bout will get underway at 8:30 and the remainder of the program will follow. Doors will open at 7:30 and tickets will be placed on sale then.

WITH THE HELP OF A FIRE PLUG, Eva Morey, employe of the Herald and News, can talk on the same terms with the two big giants, that are the featured fighters in tonight's main event of the Armory boxing card. Jimmy Byrne, right, and big Bill Mathis, are the good size pugilists seen with little Eva.

Oregon Tech Drops 9-6 Contest To PSC

Portland State College turned in a 9-6 win over the invading Oregon Tech Owls yesterday afternoon on the winners home field.

The Owls and Vikings were all tied up going into the sixth inning when the PCS team scored four runs off two Owl pitchers to sew up the win.

Big Ray Carrow walked two men and hit another to fill the bases. Coach Art Kirkland called on Glen Marcum to relieve the fading righthander, and the first man to face him lined a pitch back through the box striking the Owl pitcher on the knee allowing one Viking run to cross the plate.

With the bases still jammed, the next Portland State hitter singled to centerfield, and the ball got away from the outfielder allowing three more runs to score before Marcum could get the third out.

Tech scored once in the first inning, and twice more in the second off Portland Pitcher Jerry Koskela, who went the distance, even though he gave up 14 hits to the visitors from Southern Oregon.

The rest of the Owl runs came one at a time in the third, sixth and eighth innings.

Every Owl hitter except Don Vest entered the base hit column for the visitors. Larry Jeter, Gary Dorn, Lew Emerson and Lee Oliver all collected two hits for the afternoon's action.

Big Don Porter, the Viking's basketball ace, collected two safeties in four times at bat, and Dale Stewart banged out two hits in the same number of official trips to the plate.

The same two teams met this afternoon, and Kirkland was going with his ace left-hander Ron Wright against the home-standing Vikings.

Boxscore:

Oregon Tech	6	14	2
Portland State	9	9	1

Carrow, Marcum and Joslyn; Koskela and Stewart.

Portland Protests LA Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The methods of winning a ball game are various and sundry, but Manager Clay Hopper of Portland may have dug up a new one.

Los Angeles beat Hopper's Portland team Thursday night, 4-2, but the hawk-eyed Hopper saw an ineligible Los Angeles player active in the bullpen and entered his protest.

John Pramesa, former Chicago Cub catcher, was warming up Al Evans, also a catcher, who went in the game for Hal Meek in the seventh inning. Meek sustained a split finger.

It is up to president Clarence Rowland of the Pacific Coast League to interpret the rule, which says players on the disabled list must remain out of play at least 10 days. Bill Sweeney, manager of Los Angeles, predicted after the game that Hopper would not be sustained in the protest.

Los Angeles won the game, four-nil at least, by scoring four runs in the sixth on two bunts that went for hits; two walks, a single by the ever-singling Max West, who came up again as a pinch hitter, and a long sacrifice fly by Dixie Upright. Bob Alexander, young right hander, had allowed only two hits up to that point. West has hit six times in 11 tries in clutch situations.

Ed Basinski, former violinist in the Buffalo symphony orchestra, made the fielding play of the game. The Portland second baseman robbed Bud Hardin of a hit in the fourth by diving at his sizer with catlike agility, spinning around for a recovery throw that nipped the speeding Hardin. It was one of those impossible stops that Basinski comes up with now and then.

Onkand was forced to share the top spot because of his loss to Seattle 7-6 in a game marked by 19 hits and eight pitchers in action. Vern Kindsfater wound up the winner, although Gene Bearden and Van Fletcher came to his aid in the ninth. The winning blow was delivered by George Schmees, a home run, in the eighth inning. Marino Pietretti pitched Sacramento to a 6-1 decision over San Francisco. The little right hander is unbeaten and has won five straight. The win catapulted the Sacs into a first place tie with Oakland.

Hollywood's ace right hander, Mel Queen, won his sixth straight victory as he pitched a 2-1 decision over San Diego.

Victoria Providing Surprise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With one week of the schedule completed, Western International League standings have a familiar look with Victoria providing the main early season surprise.

The Tyees won the pennant in 1952 but skidded to last place in 1953. They've won five of eight starts this season and after Thursday night's 8-7 decision over the Salem Senators are tied with Spokane only half a game behind the front-running Solons.

Victoria and Spokane aren't the only threat to the leaders, however. Kgotted in third place are Yakima and Vancouver one game back, and Lewiston, Wenatchee and Edmonton are at their heels a game and a half out.

The Victoria-Salem game went 11 innings with the Tyees pulling it out on Milt Martin's single scoring Armando Sanchez, who ran for Steve Mesner after the latter had walked. Victoria sent the game into overtime with a three-run rally in the eighth. It was the Tyees' fourth straight win.

Spokane kept pace with a 10-8 triumph over Calgary; Vancouver drubbed Tri-City 15-4; Edmonton clipped Lewiston 4-1 and Yakima edged Wenatchee 4-3.

The scorer counted 22 bases on balls in the wild affair at Spokane. The teams played on even terms until the sixth inning when Calgary pulled ahead with a four-run outburst. Spokane scored two runs in the bottom of the inning, two more in the seventh and added an insurance run in the eighth.

In the slugfest at Vancouver, the Capitanos banged out four home runs and Rube Johnson got one for the Braves. Bob Wellman, sent to Vancouver from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, hit a pair of two-run four-masters. A rnie Hallgren and K Chorlton lifted one apiece out of the park.

A Yakima home run won the ball game at Wenatchee.

Herman Lewis circled the bases in the seventh inning to snap a 3-all tie and even the series at two wins apiece. Yakima scored twice in the fifth inning and once in the sixth but Wenatchee tied the game with a three-run rally in the bottom of the sixth.

Bannister Shy After Mile Run

OXFORD, England (AP) — Roger Bannister, the master miler who crashed the four-minute barrier, drew back into his shell of shyness Friday while the athletic world acclaimed his feat of the century.

The quiet, 25-year-old medical student shattered the world record with a dazzling 3:59.4 clocking in the blustery cold here Thursday night and thus won the race to the peak of trackdom's Mount Everest—the four-minute mile.

Talking with reporters afterwards, the speedster called the four-minute mile overrated and predicted others will follow him. He said he thought he had it licked at the 600-yard mark.

"As I neared the end of the third lap for the first time I felt really confident I could do it," he said.

"When I got to that last bend, I wasn't thinking of anything in particular. I just couldn't think. I saw the tape faintly ahead, put everything into getting there and that was the last I knew about it."

That's how the slim, six-foot one-inch speedster broke G under Haegg's record of 4:01.4 that had stood since 1925. His quarter-mile clockings for the four-lap track were 87.5, 60.7, 62.3 and 58.9.

Although, the slight 157-pounder was unimpressed by his great effort, he did acknowledge that the 15-mile-an-hour wind in the It-fley Road track might have cost him two seconds.

"I think the 3:56 mile is within reach," he said. But he didn't say he'd be the one to do it.

Immediately ahead lies a year of military service for Roger. He gets his medical degree in a few months. But before he joins the service, he will run for Britain in the Empire Games in Vancouver, B.C., and the European championships during the summer.
