

THIS OPTICAL INSTRUMENT in the physics department optics laboratory was of extreme interest to visiting high school students on the campus Friday and Saturday for Duck Preview. More than 1200 students visited Oregon for the two-day event. Planned for them were guided tours of the campus with special exhibits and demonstrations held by several

Police Hold Man In Girl's Death

PORTLAND (AP) — Wey Him Fong was back in custody Friday as police continued their investigation of the death of Diane Hank, 16-year-old high school girl who disappeared in early January.

Both Fong and his Caucasian wife, Sherri, are charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor by serving the girl drinks at their home, where she spent the night before she disappeared.

The girl's body was found beside a road near Washougal, Wash., late in February.

Mrs. Fong also is charged with moving the girl's body from the Fong home without the coroner's permission.

Bond is set at $25,000 each.

Business Outlook Said Good

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Top men of business Friday found the economic outlook "encouraging" but the Washington political scene—as reflected by the Army-McCarthy dispute—little short of "deplorable."

Economists took a back seat temporarily as 100 industry leaders, members of the Business Advisory Council of the Commerce Department, talked over the fate of another member, Secretary of the Army Stevens.

Stevens was expected to arrive later in the day, with Mrs. Stevens, to join his council colleagues during a brief respite from his day-after-day testimony before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

The Army secretary was sure of a rousing welcome on arrival. He is a former chairman of the blue-ribbon organization of industrialists which advises the government on business matters, and his tribulations were the topic of every lobby conversation.

"This crucifixion of Bob Stevens has offended everyone here," said Sidney Weinberg, a vice chairman of the council and senior partner in Goldman, Sachs & Co., New York investment house.

Other council members, speaking to reporters but unwilling to be named, called the televised battle between Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), "outrageous," "lamentable," and "an unfortunate spectacle."

Although the council is largely Republican in political sympathies, some members said they felt Stevens was the victim of an administration attitude of "ap-

Many Happy Returns Of The Days

This is the best anniversary our U. S. Savings Bonds ever had

BORN in days of trouble, in May 1941, and out of our faith in America, Savings Bonds have become today the greatest nation-wide savings program in history. They did their vital share for defense and for victory and for stabilizing our economy. But they have done another great thing for us.

They have been buying for us, as individuals, things we need for our own security, happiness, and betterment.

- On the roads, new cars bought by Bonds
- On the hills and in the valleys of America, new homes
- On the farms, new equipment for better crops
- In colleges, sons and daughters getting extra education
- And all over America, new independent businessmen, thanks to the start given by Bonds

Today, we still own more U. S. Savings Bonds than ever before—thirty-seven billion dollars worth!

Last year we bought 22% more Bonds than the year before, setting a seven-year sales record! At year's end, three-fourths of all matured E Bonds were still being held at interest by their original owners.

So, this is truly a happy anniversary for America's happiest habit—the Bond-buying habit.
