

Two Quit Positions At KUHS

The formal resignations of two members of the high school faculty, Bob Hendershott, head football coach, and Lido Botti, English and Journalism, were accepted by the high school board in joint session Monday night with the elementary board.

Hendershott who has also been assistant track coach, has accepted a position with the New York Life Insurance Company and Botti goes to the Portland school system.

Two teachers received appointments. Clara Shepard was re-elected as home making instructor in the high school and Roderick Groshong, Newberg, will be assigned to a 7th grade position and boys' sports in the elementary system.

It was announced that the annual faculty luncheon for the high school will be June 3 in the high school cafeteria.

Plans for the proposed new gymnasium were discussed. It is probable that the Klamath County Library, that will be torn down as the building of the new wing progresses, will be used this year as classrooms.

Bids will be called for in the near future on the stage and one classroom at the Payless elementary building. Plans for the improvement are being drawn by Howard Perrin.

Salary schedules tentatively adopted for teachers in the spring, were approved by action of the joint boards.

Members of the state board of education, Mrs. Lucille O'Neill, S. E. Brogotti, Mrs. Brogotti and George C. Huggins were present for the meeting.

Brogotti, who is also president of the state school board association, spoke on the functions and activities of that organization.
