Neutral Team Accuses Reds

MUNSAN (AP) — Swiss and Swedish members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission today accused the Communist Czech and Polish members of blocking "satisfactory" policing of Red-held North Korea.

In a letter to the U.N. Command, the Swiss and Swedes said they "decline any responsibility for the state of affairs resulting from the nonoperation of Czechoslovak and Polish colleagues."

The letter answered one from the U.N. Command accusing the Reds of preventing investigation of U.N. charges that the Reds are violating the Korean armistice by bringing men and equipment into North Korea.

The four-nation supervisory commission is charged with policing the rotation of soldiers and war material into both North and South Korea.

The letter to the U.N. Command was signed by Swedish Maj. Gen. Paul Mohr and Swiss Brig. Gen. Ernest Gross.

The two neutrals called for a new look by the Military Armistice Commission at the "whole problem of supervision and especially of investigations concerning alleged violations of the armistice agreement."

"Under the present circumstances," the two neutrals declared, "the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission will not be in a position to operate as was probably intended by the signatories of the armistice agreement."

Rep. Coon Urges Changes In Farm Parity Program

WASHINGTON — Sam Coon this week urged that grain for feed be made available to Eastern Oregon ranchers at a price they can afford to pay, and declared that fruit, vegetable, seed and livestock growers need "fair and reasonable" protection from foreign competition.

In a statement submitted to the House Agriculture Committee, the Eastern Oregon congressman spoke strongly in favor of the two-price, or domestic parity program for wheat, which would allow wheat for feed to sell at a free market price, and asked the committee to go on record favoring reasonable tariff protection.

Rep. Coon also declared that cattlemen in general do not want direct price supports, urged a self-help program for dairymen, supported the administration's program for wool, spoke for increasing overseas markets for surplus, and favored research to find new users for excess crops and lands.

"Many fruit, vegetable and seed crops, along with livestock, need fair and reasonable protection from overseas competition if the farmers that grow them are to survive as free and independent operators," Sam Coon declared.

"America is powerful and strong, and our farms are efficient and productive, but we are not powerful enough, or efficient enough, to bring the standard of living to the level of the world up to the level of our own."

"It is generally agreed," he said "that cattlemen do not want direct price supports, or any other undue interference or control," but would welcome a program making grain available for feeding at a reasonable price, and approve of measures designed to relieve surplus conditions, such as the purchasing of beef for the school lunch program.

The congressman declared that while many wool men would favor a higher tariff as their first choice, the program as proposed by the administration would encourage efficiency and insure that a vital industry survives.

He praised the self-help program men as being better than arbitrary support reductions that have been recently made.

"While some of our crops need protection from foreign competition," Coon went on, "other crops are in need of foreign markets in order to dispose of their full production. This involves some consideration of interest. It may take years of effort to work out a balanced arrangement in this connection."
