AFL Council To Hold Policy Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — The AFL Executive Council, top policy-making body of the 10-million-member labor group, convenes today to consider a plan for settling jurisdictional disputes between rival AFL unions.

The council approved the plan in outline at a winter meeting in Florida but decided to review a written draft at the Chicago meeting.

Fights between rival AFL unions over the right to represent workers on particular jobs long have plagued the AFL and employers, particularly in the construction industry.

The plan is admittedly an incomplete solution of the problem, but it has been described by AFL President George Meany as a step forward.

The proposal, applying only to unions willing to accept it in advance, would establish a system of mediation of disputes between AFL unions, with a final step of arbitration. That means the subscribing unions would agree to let a neutral work out a binding solution of any job-right problems.

Those unions unwilling to go would have disputes settled by regular AFL machinery. This has not worked out well in the past, because the larger unions have often disregarded AFL council and convention decisions on job disputes.

A number of major AFL unions are reported unwilling to go along with the new plan, preferring to rely on their strength to battle out jurisdictional fights as they go along.

Approval of the plan at today's council meeting would bring it up for consideration tomorrow at a special meeting of presidents and other top officials of the AFL's 110 unions.

This meeting can either approve or reject the plan, vote it into effect immediately or refer the whole problem to next fall's AFL convention.

The council will start its regular quarterly meeting here next Monday to study and consider resolutions on such problems as unemployment, pending legislation in Washington, and Eisenhower administration policies.

Also to be considered next week will be the pending "no raiding" agreement between the AFL and CIO. This is similar to the AFL's own "peace" plan for intra-AFL rivalries.

Two Thugs Commit Suicide When Cornered By Police

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Two desperate gunmen committed suicide yesterday when they were cornered by police who sought them for critically wounding a detective in a movie theater.

Police Chief Howard G. Young said one of the fugitives, James Pollard, 26, of Stonington shot himself in the head as Young closed in on him in an apartment house attic.

Police said the other gunman, Clarence Rydstrom, 21, of Waterbury shot himself to death in a taxicab an hour later as police surrounded him with drawn guns.

Shot in a downtown movie was Detective Ralph Palma, 30. He was killed by two bullets in the chest as he wrestled with the pair.

Pollard and Rydstrom had been hunted all over the city's center yesterday in connection with a holdup Monday in Middlebury, where two bandits tied two women and escaped with $1,400 in cash, jewelry and bonds.

Palma, two other detectives and several state troopers went to the movie theater on a tip the fugitives were there.

Palma went into the seats and there was a scuffle. Suddenly two shots blazed and many of the 200 patrons dived under their seats.

The state troopers and other detectives said they held their fire lest stray bullets hit the patrons.

The fugitives escaped, but a short time later Pollard was trapped in the apartment house a few blocks from the theater. Rydstrom, meanwhile, had caught a cab.

Hundreds of police and thousands of spectators gathered outside the house. A squad of patrolmen fired tear gas bombs into the apartment, shouting to Pollard over loud speakers to come out. But there was only silence from the inside.

Chief Young stripped off his jacket and put on a gas mask and went in. He searched every room and was climbing the attic stairs when he spotted Pollard.

He yelled for Pollard to come out and then heard a shot. It was the shot, apparently, that went through Pollard's temple. But Young said he fired anyway to be sure Pollard wasn't firing at him.

This was 4:40 p.m. An hour later a taxicab company dispatcher telephoned police and said "Cab 23" appeared to be in trouble.

Police put out a citywide pickup for the cab. It was spotted near an intersection about a mile away from the apartment house.

The cabbie, John Casapullo, 28, said that when Rydstrom saw the police cars he reached for his gun. Casapullo said he stepped on the brakes and jumped out. The cab rolled into a parked car.

Police said Rydstrom put the revolver to his head and fired as they converged on the cab.
