

Ike Aide Criticizes Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—A White House aide's criticism of Democrats in Congress raised a question today whether President Eisenhower himself may be getting ready to toss a few political bricks.

If he does, it will be a sharp departure from the be-kind-to-Democrats role he has played consistently since taking office 16 months ago.

Shanley, one of the President's key aides, was something quite new. Speaking off the cuff to a meeting of the Wine and Spirits Wholesalers Assn., Shanley accused Democrats in Congress of throwing "important roadblocks" in the path of the administration's legislative program. It was the first time anybody high on the White House staff has sounded off so bluntly against the Democrats.

In doing so, Presidential Special Counsel Shanley reportedly had Eisenhower's approval. And that touched off speculation that the President may be getting set to speak out himself, perhaps with an eye to the coming congressional elections.

Eisenhower has said that unless the Republicans enact what he terms a dynamic and progressive program, they won't deserve to win in the November elections. But so far he has refrained from cutting loose at the Democrats.

One obvious reason is that his program can't be put across without their cooperation, so closely is Congress divided. The President also has said he plans no barnstorming campaigning in behalf of individual Republicans, but indications are he will travel around the country to plug for a workable Republican majority in the next Congress.

In his speech Shanley also suggested that former Vice President Alben W. Barkley and other Democrats are trying to ride to victory in November on Eisenhower's coattails. Barkley is bidding for election to the Senate seat now held by John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican who is seeking re-election. Shanley did not mention him by name. Barkley said in New York that if Shanley's statements "had reference to me it is utterly preposterous."
