To Make You Blush

Girls who blush naturally can bring any audience to attention. Nothing is so provocative, so beguiling as a blush, but for those of us who blush only when we would rather not, DuBarry has created a totally different cosmetic cream to bring a delicate faint flush to your cheeks and to tint your face with the rosy radiant bloom of youth. The name of this new product suggested itself — it's bloom.

If you've ever had trouble applying rouge (and who hasn't?) your problems are over as the day you find Bloom. Quick as a wink, you can stroke it on your cheeks as casually as if you were using hand lotion or a powder puff. No danger of blotching, no streaks, no lines of demarcation or a hard artificial look. It's demure, but very, very exciting.

Did you ever look in the mirror and discover you were "healthier" on one cheek than the other? This usually happens about noon on the day you presided at the 10 o'clock garden club meeting or entertained an important morning caller. With a blush that puts the rouge pot to shame, you touch up the offending cheek and vow to be more careful when you apply tomorrow's "war paint."

Rouge carefully does more to bring out the color of your eyes, the texture of your skin and your bloom of health than any other basic cosmetic. Wrongly used, it detracts faster from your good looks. Properly applied, it creates a complexion that looks natural and lasts all day.

According to the West Coast Oil Information committee, cream rouges of the popular type that flow easily into the skin are about 50 per cent white oil and 20 per cent petrolatum. These products of the oil industry give cosmetics the stable, uniform base materials they need. Some animal oils, such as that of whales, or lanolin (from sheep) may be added, plus coloring matter and perfume. It isn't as easy as it sounds, however. Bessy's Dairy Dishes

By BESSY, The Basin Bossy
You know, there were no cows like me—or bulls like Buster—in America 500 years ago. Oh, a bunch of she - buffalo you might call cows, but nothing you could get your hands on for milk.

Then, history tells us, in 1611 there were some cows brought to Jamestown, and in 1624 some were brought to Plymouth Rock. By 1650 the New England colonies had ceased to import butter and dairy products, and began to export instead.

All of this to show you how important this oft taken-for-granted milk is. That's why dairy dishes are important—they are in demand by everyone.

So here's this week's dairy dish:

SPINACH CHEESE SQUARES
Take 2 cups cooked spinach, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk, 1 cup grated American cheese, 2 slightly beaten eggs, hard-cooked egg wedges. Drain spinach well and chop. Melt butter, add minced onion and cook over low heat until tender. Add flour and seasonings and blend. Add milk and cook 'til sauce boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Add cheese and stir until blended. Combine sauce, beaten eggs, spinach. Turn into a buttered 8-inch square pan. Set in shallow pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 d. F.) for about 30 minutes or until firm. Cut into serving squares. Garnish with hard-cooked egg wedges if desired.

This will serve six, and make any Popeye's barnacles lick their chops. Serve it with pickled beet salad, hard rolls, butter, prunes, whip and, of course, milk. It's a dish calculated to appease any appetite, you can take it from me, Bessy.

Wonderful Idea For New Dessert

COFFEE BAVARIAN is a wonderful idea for a new and different dessert. It is easy to make with rice as a base. The recipe comes from the Rice Consumer Service.

This recipe calls for two cups of cooked white rice. For perfectly cooked rice put 1 cup uncooked white rice, 2 cups cold water and 1 teaspoon salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn heat as low as possible. Do not remove lid or stir rice while it is cooking. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn heat off. The rice is now ready to use. However, leave the cover on the saucepan to keep the rice warm if you are not ready to use it immediately. For extra fluffy, tender, separate grains, allow the rice to steam for an additional 10 minutes, with heat off, but without removing lid.

Makes 3 cups.

2 cups cooked white rice
1/2 cup cold water
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream

Add the milk to the rice and cook over a low heat until the milk is absorbed, about eight minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour the cold water into a saucepan and sprinkle the gelatin over the water. Allow to stand 5 minutes. Slowly add the coffee and stir until the coffee dissolves. Add the sugar and salt. Place the saucepan over low heat and stir until the sugar dissolves. Add the rice and mix well. Cool. When the mixture begins to thicken, whip the cream and add the rice mixture to the whipped cream and gently mix. Turn into a greased mold or into greased individual molds, or into compotes. Chill until ready to serve. Serve within 24 hours. If the dessert is molded, chill until firm, then dip mold into hot water. Remove and place a serving plate over the mold. Invert mold and plate together and lift mold from the plate. Garnish with whipped cream or maraschino cherries or both. Makes 6 servings.
