Foss Wins Primary By Big Margin

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Ten years ago a droll six-footer named Joe Foss stirred the nation with his exploits in the tense and critical air war over Guadalcanal Island.

Senator To Run For Governor

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Ernest W. McFarland has entered the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of Arizona.

McFarland served in the Senate from 1940 to 1952 and became majority leader. He was defeated for a third term by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

Foss today carried the same warrior's flare for action that won him the Medal of Honor into the fight for the South Dakota governorship.

Unlike some of his touch-and-go aerial battles, this is a fight the handsome veteran is almost certain to win. His victory Tuesday in the state Republican primary virtually assured him election in this GOP citadel.

Foss downed 26 Jap planes as a Marine pilot, matching Eddie Rickenbacker's World War I total. He came home to Sioux Falls to a luncheon parade with 50,000 lining the streets to welcome him.

After his wartime ordeal, few things ruffle Joe. He is in politics because he likes people, likes all the handshaking and storytelling that go with stumping—and likes the future of South Dakota.

Earnest in his politicking, he has a natural waggishness that is hard to submerge. His comely wife June says he has a dual personality.

"Most of the time he's a clown and a storyteller—but when he's serious, he's a different man," she says.

Foss is serious about the problems of government and the farmers. He is no spellbinder but speaks easily and decisively.

Now 39 and the father of three, he is no stranger to the state's bread and butter industry. He was born on a farm a few miles from here and it was there where he first acquired the marksmanship that made him a scourge of the Pacific fighting.

He tried unsuccessfully for the governor's nomination four years ago when he offered little more than his wartime appeal. With two terms in the State Legislature behind him, he piled up a margin so big in Tuesday's election that opponents conceded four hours after the polls closed.

Foss' Democratic opponent for the governorship is Ed G. Martin, 62, Chamberlain rancher.
