Carl Cook Visits KF

Carl Cook, Marine veteran of two wars, a long-time member of the Klamath Falls police force and always interested in work with always interested in work with people, especially boys, stopped off in Klamath Falls Wednesday on his way to Portland for a reunion with an old Marine buddy. He is thying his own plane, and is accompanied by his regular co-pilot—Patty, a cocker suaniel, Patty now has 35 hours in the air.

Carl lives in Oceanside, California, where he operates the Hi Hi guest ranch for boys. The boys guest ranch for boys. The boys who live at Hi Hi are for the most suest ranch for boys. The boys who live at Hi Hi are for the most part permanent, year-round residents coming from homes that have been bruken by death or separation. He is assisted by his mother, 83-year-old Mrs. Alice Cook — who, he says, is the most active member of the team. "Our motto," he says, is "keep em busy — everything that boys love to have around them — and I'm proud to say they're all happy." Carl plans to stop again in Klamath Falls on his way back from Portland on Priday, and he hopes to meet fathers and mothers of the young people he worked with while he was here. "I've seen a lot of the kids themselves," he says, "and I'm sorry to say I didn't know them all. They've grown up, But I're happy to say they all know me. That makes me feel wonderful."

VERA CRUZ, Mexico IP —Mexican federal authorities confiscated the nets and catches of three U.S. shrimp boats Wednesday on charges of fishing in Mexican waters. They were ordered to post bond of 5,000 pesos ($400) each to cover any fines that may be levied by the navy ministry in Mexico City later. Graduated
