Kidnap Money Recovered

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Discovery of the $75,000 ransom money cleared up a major mystery in the puzzling Evelyn Ann Smith kidnaping case yesterday.

The missing cash, bundled in a man's work shirt with a shiny pistol lying on top, was found near the Superstition Mountains yesterday. The "hiding place" was less than 10 feet from a road over which dozens of officers had traveled since Friday.

About 100 yards away is a ranch house near which Daniel J. Marsin, an unemployed Phoenix welder, was arrested shortly after the ransom was paid by Mrs. Smith's husband, Herbert.

Marsin, 41, was identified by Mrs. Smith as her abductor. Police continued the search for a rifle and binoculars the kidnaper was reported to have used.

Meanwhile, Marsin waited in jail for a preliminary hearing on a charge of kidnaping tomorrow. Marsin's attorney, John J. Flynn, has said "lots of answers will be given" at that time.

The questions to which Flynn referred and the sudden discovery of the payoff money prompted County Atty. William P. Mahoney to call this "the most fantastic kidnaping case in American history."

He said he believes the intricate planning that went into the kidnaping would link Marsin to the crime. Last night the FBI was accused of having delayed a description of the kidnaper.

Thomas told the City Council that FBI agents had tried to "run the whole show" and had scoffed at police for detaining Marsin at all.

"They told city officers that the suspect had nothing to do with the crime," asserted Thomas. He said the federal agents delayed gaining a description of the abductor by bringing the victim into Phoenix for questioning. The case, added Thomas, is "very definitely a bona fide kidnaping."

Cow Elk Takes Off After Game Agents And Calf

A cow elk, unhappy with having her home disturbed, recently challenged three intruders to a duel in no uncertain terms.

Accompanied by Dean Higinbotham, Weyerhaeuser Timber Company forester, Bob Macer and Bob Corbett of the Oregon State Game Commission staff were in the process of ear tagging a calf elk when its irate mother let them know that she definitely disapproved of such goings on.

The tagging was being done as part of a program being carried out in the state to mark big game animals to determine their movements. Since there are numerous elk bearing their young on the Weyerhaeuser land near the Millicoma River, the company readily agreed to let the game men work in this area.

After one of the youngsters had been banded, it let out a piercing call that alerted the cow and brought her charging down the hill into the midst of the three interlopers. To add to the confusion, the calf, instead of running to mother, making a hasty retreat.

Fortunately, the maternal instincts of the elk did not surpass her fear of man, and she stopped short of actual contact with the
