Oregon Lakes Get Kokanee

Ten of Oregon's lakes are due to receive almost one million kokanee this year according to chief liberation biologist Reino Koski of the Oregon State Game Commission.

Commission hatcheries at Oakridge, Wizard Falls on the Metolius River, and Enterprise are raising the fish which will be released as fingerlings and fry, varying in size from about one-half inch to three inches.

Kokanee were established in Suttle and Wallowa lakes many years ago and since have been placed in eight lakes. In some cases they have been planted as forage fish for other species but in all areas have grown into good sized catchable fish.

The kokanee is the landlocked form of the red or sockeye salmon and is referred to also as yank and blueback.

Lakes due for releases of kokanee are Odell, Summit, Crescent, Woahink, Blue (Jefferson County), Suttle, Big Cultus, Big, Wallowa, and the Rock Creek lakes in Baker County.

Dynamite Blast Injures Workers

TOKYO (AP)—A dynamite stick exploded in the midst of a fist-swinging brawl between strikers and temporary employes yesterday injured 50 persons at the Omi Silk Co.

Strikers were storming barricaded gates of the company plant near Osaka.

Six thousand workers, mostly teen-age girls, struck June 4 in protest against compulsory attendance at Buddhist services, union leaders said.

Company comment was not available.

The newspaper Asahi reported these additional complaints:

Dates were banned under threat of discharge.

Cosmetics were banned, on and off the job.

All personal letters were opened and read before delivery.

Shopping trips required permission of seven supervisors.
