

Father's Day 1954

FATHER'S DAY REPRESENTATIVE FOR 1954

Preview of Father's Day gift-opening scene is shared by Mrs. McNamara, standing; next to her, Mary, 11, and a 7th grader; in chair, Catherine, 9, 4th grader; on arm of sofa in front of Mary, Michael (Mike) 1 1/2; head of the household; and next to him, Patricia, 6, who enters the 1st grade this fall. Seated on the floor (l to r), Margaret (Molly), 8, in the 3rd grade; Jim 13, 8th grader, holds Daniel (Danny), 5 months; and next to them is 3 year old daughter Ann. The older five will go to Sacred Heart Academy.

The new Oregon and Klamath Falls residents, John and Janet McNamara were both reared in Minneapolis.

AT THE IOOF RECEPTION ... honoring Herbert Munsell, committee members are ready to serve refreshments to the many members of all branches of Odd Fellowship who were "hosts" for the event in Fremont Auditorium June 5, occasioned by the election of Munsell to the high office of Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Oregon. The local member of the organization was elected at the 79th annual session in Grants Pass, after many years of work with various groups in the order.

From the left, standing, Sylvia Tilton, Ada Tilton, Mae Anderson, Effie Redkey, Cordelia Cantrall, Isabelle Foster, Kate Hogue, Lucille Wirtz and Ellen Wade. Seated, Elizabeth Ramsby, Committee chairman, Harriet Estes, not in picture.
A varied entertainment program preceded the serving of refreshments.

WOMEN OF DECISION ... and "quick ones" ... are Mrs. Harold Tonseth, left, and her daughter, Mrs. F. Cecil Adams, shown in front of the Adams home, 1968 DelMoro, as they were leaving last Wednesday for the airport to board a plane for San Francisco, New York and Nova Scotia.

The trip to the East Coast and Canada, just an idea 24 hours before—is a birthday gift to Mrs. Tonseth, who will celebrate her 80th birthday anniversary in August.

Barton Adams, contacted by telephone, before plans were definite, made East Coast arrangements for his mother and grandmother; and will meet them in New York. He is on leave from the Marine Corps, and will drive his mother and grandmother through the countryside around her girlhood home in Nova Scotia.

Barton will have served four years in the Marine Corps this November—and hopes to enter Stanford this fall if his application for release is accepted.

CAMP FIRE GIRL THEME AT SHOWER

CHLOQUIN — Mrs. Bob Mathis and her daughter, Mrs. William Wampler, were co-hostesses last Thursday evening at a cleverly arranged stork shower for Mrs. Glen Kircher. Many of the guests were former members of a Camp Fire Girls group led by Mrs. Roy Glenger, Mrs. Kircher's mother.

Plans for the evening were based on familiar Camp Fire terms and Indian names the girls had used years ago. Indian symbols were used for room decorations; refreshments were served in Indian baskets lined with foil; and tiny Indian dolls surrounding an attractive outdoor scene, were used as centerpiece on the main table.

Points for games during the evening were paid in macaroni wampum, which was strung on yarn.

Mrs. Kircher was assisted in opening her gifts by her sister, orite.

Also, possibly in the hobby category, is John McNamara's keen interest in "building things" — and he recently completed a fire-escape (really an outside stairway) leading from an upstairs window of their large two story home in the Weyerhaeuser Townsite.

We feel that John McNamara logically represents all fathers to be honored tomorrow on the day set aside for them.
