

WAITING FOR CHOW at the Rafter MD Ranch was this bunch of contestants and spectators during the annual queen contestants' outing. The Marshall Pooles and Bob Moiso, co-owners of the ranch, hosted the group.

BOSS STOCK MEN Hank and Bobby Christensen, of Eugene, will be on hand for the biggest Fourth of July Roundup ever staged in the Klamath Basin. Their stock has been signed up for the big show and they promise rough horses, tough steers and the best in every event. Hank's the business manager while Bobby takes care of the stock and arranges for transportation.

Oregon Labor Meeting Opens

ASTORIA (AP)—The Oregon State Federation of Labor convention opened here Monday with an estimated 400 delegates expected to attend the five-day session. Several union councils held their annual conference Sunday. The Council of Retail Clerks re-elected Gordon Swope, Portland, secretary-treasurer, and Irene Pruess, Coos Bay, vice president. Other officers will be named at the October meeting at Pendleton. The Building and Construction Trades Council re-elected a slate of officers including: Clell Harris, president; David C. Cameron, vice president; Volney Martin, secretary-treasurer; John Gillard, guard; and H. H. Harrison, conductor. All are from Portland.

Colonel Named To Trustee Board

CAMP CLATSOP (AP)—Col. Robert L. Irving, Portland, has been elected to the board of trustees of the Oregon National Guard Assn. The organization, meeting here during the summer training period, also heard talks by Maj. Gen. Thomas E. Rilea, adjutant general of Oregon, and Maj. Gen. Harold G. Maison, commanding general of the 41st division.

EXPERTS AT WORK! Here Catherine Dearborn, ex-queen of the Klamath Basin Roundup, and Bob Moiso, co-owner of the Rafter MD ranch, put the finishing touches to a bit of calf roping during the annual queen contestants' trip at the ranch. In the background, Nancy Gentry,

IT'S A LONG WAY UP, is what Nancy Gentry of Chiloquin seems to be saying to her horse as she prepares to mount. Nancy was one of the queen contestants who put on the roping show at the Rafter MD Ranch for all those present.

Pilot Killed In Crop Dust Crash

LA GRANDE (AP)—A crop dusting plane crashed after striking a power line here Saturday, killing the pilot, Louis E. Coffey, 37, of Baker.

Coffey, manager of the Oregon Trail Skyways at Baker, was employed by the Blue Mountain Air Service, a crop dusting firm, at the time of the accident.

The widow and two daughters of Baker, and his mother, Mrs. Ernie Taylor, Lewiston, Idaho, survive.
