'Fun Week' Ends Saturday

A "bang-up" fun week, sponsored by the Klamath Merchant's Association, that has drawn fun-loving crowds downtown each day since Monday, will wind up Saturday with a grand parade down Main Street of fancy duds, both Western and old-time.

Thursday's relay wheelbarrow race gave honors to the tough-winded merchants on the North side of Main Street. The race, with Queen Darlene Winebarger and Princess Marcella Wilson, Fort Klamath, winding up in the final lap that ended at Balsiger's Motor Company was run in 10 minutes 2 seconds, from second street.

Merchants on both sides of the race course admitted they had "some" outside wheelbarrow shovers.

Today's burro race with hot rod herders will be run this afternoon. Several hundred gaily costumed dancers gathered on Seventh Street last night to dance for two hours to the strains of Tommy Odem's "Western Rhythmic Masters."

Tickets for the pony rides Saturday will be available in all stores that have given them during the rest of the week. The ponies will be at Fifth and Pine. Children must be accompanied by adults.

Ribbons are still available on the spotted Sheldahl pony, red saddle and bridle, that will be given away Sunday night, July 4, during the night roundup show at the fairgrounds.

Merchants are in charge of the parade that will move down Main Street, Monday, July 5 at 10 a.m. Parade entries have been coming in, in increasing numbers and this year's spectacle is expected to be the largest ever seen during a Fourth of July celebration.

A large number of floats are being entered by Klamath Falls business establishments and out of town organizations and individuals.

All entries must be on Klamath Avenue by 9 a.m. Members of the Klamath Kurstone Kowpokes will be on hand to give positions. The parade will form near the Copeland Lumber Company and march the length of Main Street.

In the line of march in addition to the floats, will be several former queens of Klamath Basin rodeos and roundups, numerous pioneers, marching units, music, old-time cars owned by Julian E c c k e s, Queen Darlene and her princesses, members of riding groups, and individuals.

A spectacular fireworks display, also sponsored by the Merchant's Association will follow the roundup program at the fairgrounds Sunday night, July 4.

Weather For Fourth Told

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clearing weather west of the Cascades and showers on the east side is the forecast for the Sunday-Monday double holiday.

Temperatures are expected to be below normal. Even the "clearing Sunday and Monday" forecast for the west side, said the forecast at the Weather Bureau in Seattle, is expected to be only a lull between a couple of storm systems that give promise of showers Saturday and again Tuesday.

State Chief

there had been no indictment in that case.

"By that very statement, Mr. Alderson has proven something I have known all along. He knew when he presented the Pig case to the county grand jury that Pigg acted in self defense. I know that two hours after Pigg shot Roy Durham that he made a statement to the district attorney which showed Mr. Alderson he didn't have a case against him. Mr. Pigg repeated his story on the witness stand. The jury quickly freed him.

"There can be no doubt," the judge added, "that Mr. Alderson got trying a man he knew he could not convict because he was afraid of public opinion."

Judge Holman told the Herald and News that he will confer with Judge Vandenberg before coming to Klamath Falls. Over long distance telephone from Oregon City he said Friday morning that he wanted to find out from Judge Vandenberg when the circuit court room here would be available.

Dr. Earle, whose office is in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is one of the leaders representing the Presbyterian Church in the World Council of Churches. Recently he was featured speaker at the Oregon Synod and next week will serve as speaker for the California Synod meeting.

Helicopter Saves Day

SALEM (U) - It took a helicopter to turn the trick, but three initiative measures will be on the November ballot in Oregon.

The purpose is to establish daylight saving time in the summer for Oregon, to repeal the state milk marketing control act and to ban commercial fishing in coast streams south of the Columbia River.

In addition there will be five measures referred to the people by the 1953 Legislature.

The helicopter saved the day for the milk measure. Elmer Deetz, the Canby dairyman who sponsored the initiative petitions, found he still was waiting for signatures to be validated in Portland in mid-afternoon Thursday.

The petitions had to be filed at the Capitol in Salem by 3 p.m. Deetz arranged for a McMinville crop duster to fly a helicopter to the outskirts of Portland where the signatures were validated. Deetz and his attorney drove to the city outskirts.

There the attorney, Norman Easley, got into the helicopter, flew to Salem, and filed the 38,000 signatures just before the deadline.

The other two initiative measures were filed earlier with a safer time margin.

Measures referred to the people by the Legislature are:

Proposal to convert a domiciliary hospital, approved for the Portland area in the 1952 general election, into a general hospital for treatment of the mentally ill.

Proposal to increase from 8 to 10 per cent the number of voters' signatures needed to place a constitutional amendment on the ballot.

Proposal to eliminate the 6 per cent limitation on the state, substituting a limit of 6 mills, plus bonded indebtedness and interest thereon, unless authorized by the voters.

Proposal to let members of the Legislature fix their salaries.
