STOCKS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market went through a lot of irregularity Thursday with the tone lower, but the pace of business was moderate in the late afternoon.

Prices spread out over a range of around 2 points in either direction, but most changes were small.

Business came to an estimated two million shares. That compares with 2,380,000 shares traded Wednesday when the market was mixed.

GOP, Demos Differ On Job Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Republicans Thursday hailed a million-job gain in employment as indicating a business uptrend but Sen. George (D-Ga) said he wonders if the country is out of the economic woods.

Sen. Williams (R-Del) said "the Democrats will have to change their slogan" in view of a report on the employment picture issued Wednesday by the Commerce and Labor departments.

"They can't run in November on the 'fear of depression' slogan they used against the Republicans in 1952," he said in an interview. "The Republicans are in and there isn't any depression, so they'll have to change their tune."

The two departments reported that employment increased by nearly one million from May to June and that, contrary to the pattern set over the last 14 years, there was almost no increase in unemployment.

It is possible for both employment and unemployment to jump in the same month because the government, for statistical purposes, counts as out of work only persons who are looking for jobs. Thus a person who is idle but isn't looking for work doesn't show up in the statistics.

The traditional upturn in both employment and unemployment in June is attributable to the fact that many students join the labor force for summer jobs.

The figures issued Wednesday showed an employment rise from 61,119,000 in May to 62,096,000 in June. Unemployment rose from 3,305,000 in early May to 3,347,00 in early June. The 42,000 increase was less than the usual seasonal increase in the number of jobless.

Huge Indian Canal Opened

NANGAL DAM, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru Thursday opened India's new concrete and tile-lined Nangal canal system, longest irrigation network in the world. He predicted projects like it would "revolutionize the whole face of rural India within the next seven or eight years."

Nehru pressed a button opening the gates of Nangal Dam, 225 miles north of New Delhi in the Himalayan foothills. Waters of the Sutlej River gushed into the canals, which include one channel 240 miles long.

India is building a sprawling, 327 million dollar hydroelectric and irrigation project embracing the Nangal system and nearby Bhakra Dam without any foreign financial help.

Construction work on the Bhakra project is under the supervision of 66-year-old American dam builder Harvey Slocum. When finished, the 680-foot Bhakra Dam will be the second highest in the world, topped only by U.S.'s 726-foot Hoover Dam.

Nehru paid tribute today to Slocum, a salty engineer credited with building the Grand Coulee and Shasta dams in the United States.

Anti-Red Group Organized

NEW YORK (AP) — The Committee for One Million, organized to oppose admission of Red China to the United Nations, Thursday announced it has a million signatures on its petition.

The announcement was made by Charles Edison, former governor of New Jersey and onetime secretary of the Navy, and Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), both members of the organization's steering committee.

They quoted a sworn affidavit by the secretary of the committee, Marvin Liebman, that "the one millionth individual signature to the petition circulated by this committee was counted under my personal supervision."

The petition declares that admission of Red China would violate the U. N. Charter because she has proved herself a foe of peace and freedom—principles set forth in the charter.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat had some of its recent gains shaved on the board of trade Thursday, losing a few cents in what brokers described as a normal technical reaction after a substantial upturn.

The rest of the market, which has not shared the recent strength in wheat, also turned downward. An exception was July soybeans, up several cents at various times on short covering. Dealings were active in this month.

A promising crop outlook for corn, oats and soybeans depressed most of the contract in those grains. There was a little selling prior to issuance of a government crop report Friday.

Wheat closed ¾-1 ¾ lower, July 2.03 ½-¾, corn ¼ lower to ½ higher, July 1.59 ⅛, oats ¼-⅜ lower, July 71 ¾-⅞; rye ¾-1 ¾ lower, July 1.02 ½, soybeans 1 cent lower to 5 ½ higher, July 3.80 ¾-3.81, and lard 5 to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower, July 15.75.

Wheat Allotment For Washington Announced

SPOKANE (AP) — Acreage allotments for 1955 for Washington state's wheat growing counties were announced Thursday by State Agricultural Stabilization and Archie M. Camp, chairman of the Conservation Committee.

Whitman County, the state's biggest wheat producer, must cut its wheat acreage by 34,192 acres under the new allotments. It was allotted 349,642 acres for wheat next year, compared with 383,834 seeded to wheat this year.

Lincoln County, the next largest producer, must cut its acreage 40,202 acres, from 321,869 this year to 281,667 next year.

Camp said the total reduction in Lincoln and some other counties is larger than that for Whitman because the committee considered the average acreage over the last ten years, as well as acreage trends in the various areas in figuring the cuts.

SEATTLE (AP) — The Washington State Game Commission will ask the Pacific Flyway Council to approve a 90-day duck season for 1954 and restore a two-day duck possession limit.

The commission, meeting here Wednesday, voted to present the request at the council's meeting at Klamath Falls, Ore., July 20.

Recommendations presented to the Flyway Council will be submitted to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service which will establish a pattern for use by states in setting their seasons. The Klamath Falls meeting will cover the state of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico.

Police Hunt Killer Of Small Girl

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Moving swiftly to crack the brutal kidnap-murder of little Judith Ann Roberts, 7, homicide detectives grilled more than 30 men and still held seven for further questioning Thursday.

Lt. Chester Eldredge, head of the homicide bureau, said however that his men were without a "definite" suspect.

The police dragnet still had about 40 men listed for rounding up and questioning, all known sex perverts and child molesters. The body of blue-eyed Judith Ann was savagely beaten and ravished when found Wednesday a few blocks from Miami's city hall at Dinner Key.

"We will work around the clock until this vicious killer is in jail," said Eldredge.

A report that the FBI was calling signals in the case was denied by Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Miami office. He pointed out that the FBI lacked jurisdiction because the body was not taken across state lines and there was no ransom demand.

Homicide detectives kept watch on spectators at a funeral home Thursday as services were held for the child.

Her mother, Mrs. James Roberts interrupted the service at one point with the anguished cry:

"She went through all that pain and agony. May God have mercy on her soul."

Rabbi Shmaryhy Swirsky, who officiated, told the family that while Judith Ann's life had been cut short, she had brought happiness to those who knew her.

"Why did this terrible thing happen to my child?" Mrs. Roberts cried as they left the chapel for Mt. Nebo cemetery where burial took place.

Dr. Ben Sheppard, county medical examiner, said the cause of death was strangulation. A length of sash cord was twisted tightly around her neck, he said.

Cool Weather Over Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the southern half of the country had hot mid-summer weather Thursday but it was a little on the chilly side in Midwest and northeast areas.

Temperatures dropped into the low 50s over Midwest sections early Thursday. The 55 reading at Chicago was near the minimum temperature record for July 8. It was cooler in other Midwest cities, with a 51 at Detroit and Madison, Wis.

The cool air extended from the northern plains eastward over the Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley to the Atlantic coast. It also was on the cool side in the far northwestern states.

But it was hot again from western Tennessee westward to Oklahoma and over the southeast desert region and along the Southern California coast. Los Angeles Wednesday had the hottest day of the year with a top of 96 degrees. Other hot spots included Oklahoma City and Little Rock, Ark., with 103 and Memphis with 101. The day's highest reading was 115 at Needles, Calif.

Service Station To Be Expanded

An expansion program that will tie in with the new Town and Country Shopping Center on South Sixth Street is planned by Dean Miller, owner of the Jay Hawk Petroleum bulk distribution plant which adjoins the new development.

The same type of California construction will be carried out in a modern retail service station that will replace the present buildings. The upright fuel tanks of 35,000 gallon capacity are to be buried.

A special truck stop is being built for refueling in the rear with semi-circular drive to permit speedy entrance and exit.

Miller plans to have the business in operation by October. The present plant was built four years ago.

Ft. Klamath Parade Float Sponsored By Businessmen

second consecutive year, the Fort Klamath Business Association sponsored a community entry in the Klamath Falls annual Roundup Parade, held Monday, July 5; last year, the trophy cup for first prize in its division was awarded to the Fort Klamath community float, and this year's entry, was also given a loving cup.

Leading the unit were Eagle Scout Wynn Hescock and Boy Scout Lawrence Kendall, both of local Scout Troop 34, carrying a banner identifying the entry, lettered by Lefty Wild Eagle Wilder as follows—"Fort Klamath Transportation, 1823 - 1954."

Riding bareback at the head of the procession was Lefty himself, with his long black braids, headband, buckskin jacket and leggings, representing an Indian brave of old; following him in line was his wife, Genie, in soft gray beaded buckskin dress and headband, carrying on her back a make believe Indian baby in its Te-Kash (papoose board), and riding a horse which pulled a laden genuine Indian travois, fashioned by Lefty from poles across which was stretched a large tanned elk hide; this typified the ancient mode of transportation used by Northwestern Indians after the advent of the horse, brought by the Spaniards from the south between 1650 and 1750; prior to that time, transportation was by canoe or afoot. The travois is still used by Indians east of the Cascades, including the Warm Springs, Umatilla, Yakima and Walla Walla tribes.

Behind the travois came three uniformed riders, representing soldiers of the Modoc War garrison which was stationed at Old Fort Klamath; they were Timothy Keneally, color bearer, carrying the stars and stripes; Bill Nicholson, with an authentic Modoc War musket which has been handed down by his forebears to Raymond S. Loosley; Patrick J. McAuliffe Jr. was the third "soldier."

In contrast with the olden days, present day transportation was portrayed by a 1954 convertible supplied by Ballard and Bennett, with Joan Loosley at the wheel, her passengers including Linda Pope, Marie and Patsy Nicholson, Fort Klamath; Margie Wright, daughter of Mrs. Mary Wright, Chiloquin.

Bringing up the rear, Boy Scouts Douglas Van Wormer and Richard Nicholson carried a large lettered identification banner similar to that carried by the two scouts at the head of the unit.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Mrs. Elizabeth M. Loosley, Mrs. Loren L. Miller, Sr., and Mrs. Harold L. Wimer. The committee wishes to extend special thanks to Robert Ballard (Klamath Falls) for use of the convertible; to Mrs. Mary Wright and Francis Kirk, Chiloquin, for the horse used to pull the travois, the latter had spent much time training the animal to walk between shafts in order to become accustomed to the travois in the unit. Also thanks to Howard Holliday, Klamath Falls, for use of the saddle horse for Lefty.

Early Potato Prices Told

Early potato prices started lower this year than last but finished considerably higher than a year ago, according to reports from the USDA.

In 1953 the first potatoes shipped from the Bakersfield, California, area brought $3.10 to $3.20 per hundred, but dropped to a low of $1.10 to $1.25 by the end of the season.

This year with the Bakersfield harvest about over prices that started at $2.50, climbed to $3.50 by mid-May, and following several ups and downs, finished the season at around $2.50 to $2.60 a hundred.

The first local potatoes of the season appeared on the Portland markets the past week. These spuds, Round Reds, started off at $2.50 a lug. The first Portland potatoes last year wholesaled at around the same figure.

Early reports indicate that the potato crop in Washington looks good, digging of this Red variety is expected to start this weekend.

Park Board Holds Meeting

Mostly routine business was brought before the city park and recreation board Wednesday afternoon.

Mayor Paul Landry announced that the city would advertise for contracts on a sprinkler system at Veta Memorial Park in the near future. The first development in some time.

Further development of the park was almost halted a few months ago when the park board received notification that new surveys being made for the West side by-pass would put most of the park into use.

In mid-June, Mayor Landry received a letter from R. H. Baldock of the state highway department with a statement to the effect that only a very minor portion of the park would be used by the state highway department for the by-pass, according to current plans of the department.

The sprinkler system, when installed, will be the first step by the park board in some months towards completion of the new park, located on Main by Link River bridge.

City Park and Recreation Director Bob Bonney introduced the description of an area set aside by Eldorado Heights promoters for a park in that district. The Eldorado Heights development is located north of Pacific Terrace.
