

Republican Solons Defend Present Foreign Policies

By MARION BURSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today it would be "a senseless ostrich attitude" to ignore what he called foreign policy mistakes of the Truman administration.

"Unless we do keep those errors firmly in mind," the chairman of the GOP Policy Committee said, "we are apt to fall into the same global trap — so cleverly baited by Communists who talk peaceful coexistence, but who give no factual evidence of good faith."

Ferguson, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a statement he felt compelled to comment on Democratic complaints concerning Republican criticism of the Asian policies of former President Truman and his secretary of state, Dean Acheson.

Ferguson's comment came in the wake of a Senate speech yesterday in which Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) gave this as a summary of current GOP foreign policy: "Speak loudly and carry a feather duster."

ACCUSATION

Mansfield accused the administration of seeking to run foreign affairs on a "diplomacy of bluster and retreat," but Sen. Cooper (R-Ky.) challenged him to show "just what the failure is" in the government's Asian diplomatic moves, or to say what a Democratic administration would have handled differently.

Mansfield referred to Secretary of State Dulles' unsuccessful missions to London and Paris to line up support for an anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia, and he declared:

"We can do nothing or worse than nothing if we cling to the illusion that . . . 11th-hour flights to foreign capitals are a substitute for carefully cultivated, carefully maintained cooperation with friendly nations; that strong words, even massive ones, equate with a strong policy — that they take the place of genuine strength and conviction."

DEFENDER

Cooper, a former delegate to the United Nations, said the administration could have moved to intervene in Indochina, but that the Democrats were against that, or it could have abandoned Indochina to Communist conquest and has not done so.

The third possibility, he said, was to "try to build up sources of strength to try to prevent future aggression." That is what the administration has done, Cooper added.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, told Mansfield foreign policy is a matter on which public figures "constantly rise above narrow partisanship," and he added: "I hope it will not become a partisan issue."

Mansfield replied that the Democrats do not "like to be kicked around or knifed in the back." He said the Democrats had tried to cooperate but had been faced with "bickering and back biting."

BIPARTISAN POLICY

Ferguson, taking a different view of the same picture, said the contention of "certain Democratic spokesmen that bipartisan foreign policy is endangered by blunt criticism of past blunders . . . is wholly untrue."

He said Eisenhower administration "desires bipartisanism in the development of our foreign policy" but "intends to continue to deal from strength, not weakness."

Quoting approvingly from Vice President Nixon's speech in Milwaukee June 26 in which Nixon described the Truman-Acheson policy in Asia as one "characterized by weakness and surrender of principle at the conference table," Ferguson said:

"We have entered an extremely delicate period of international diplomacy in which the future of the free world very likely hangs in the balance. We must not make any mistakes."

"Therefore, it becomes a matter of utmost importance to look back carefully, and to discuss where the United States foreign policy went wrong in the past."

"In this we are not questioning the motives of our predecessor administration's foreign relations, but the methods and, of course, the sorry results."

"In seven short years, such policies contributed to the loss of 600 million persons to communism helped lead us inexorably into the Korean War and encouraged Red China to fan the flames of the Indochina conflict."

Circuit Judges Ralph M. Holman and David R. Vandenberg

Judge Holman Hears First Cases On Klamath Bench

Judge Ralph Holman of Oregon City went on the bench in circuit court here Friday morning and was immediately bombarded with a series of motions, objections and demurrers by counsel for defendants he is to try.

The Clackamas County jurist's first action was to assume jurisdiction in the case of Tobe C. Carter, twice indicated for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

It had been reported that the state supreme court held that Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg should try this case because District Attorney Frank Alderson had filed his motion for a change of judge too late for it to be valid.

Defense Attorney U. S. Balentine, who argued against Judge Holman trying the case, he told the court that he had filed a demurrer to the first indictment and Judge Vandenberg had sent it back to the grand jury. He also said that the purpose of Alderson's motion for a change of judges was to deny his client the constitutional right of a speedy trial. He also pointed out that before Alderson asked for a judge change, Carter was in court ready to plead to the charge against him and ask for a speedy trial.

In ruling against Balentine, Judge Holman took the position that when Judge Vandenberg sustained the demurrer and sent the case back to the grand jury, the transaction as far as Judge Vandenberg was concerned was completed and that the second indictment was a new and different action.

Judge Holman also said that he had a general assignment from the state supreme court to try cases in Klamath County and therefore had the authority to deal with any judicial matters that were brought before the court.

When Judge Holman asked Carter if he was ready to plead to the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, on advice of Balentine, he stood mute and refused to plead. The court then entered a plea of not guilty for him.

The judge said the case would be tried sometime in August.

Objections to Judge Holman presiding in the case of Andrew J. Bushman, indicted for a sex crime, also was overruled by the court. Defense Attorney Joe O'Neill said he had never been officially notified that a change of judge had been ordered in the case.

At the noon recess, Judge Holman was listening to arguments on a demurrer filed by Attorney George Proctor in the case of Robert Wayne Kirk charged with burglary.

Hardy Truck Driver Saves Lives Of Trapped Family

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP)—The cold, courage, determination and hardihood of Francis Krch saved the lives of four persons July 4 but no one ever would have known about it if they had waited for Krch to tell the story.

He had to get his load of pipe delivered.

This, it was learned here Thursday, is what happened:

As Krch was approaching Christochina Bridge, 180 road miles north of here, he saw a car disappear over the side of the bridge. Stopping quickly, Krch saw below the wheels of the car showing above the water.

He swiftly attached a chain to his truck and threw the chain over the side of the bridge to the auto. Then, after tying down his air horns to attract attention for any other travelers, he descended the chain to the overturned car in the river.

As he reached the car, he called and was answered by its occupants, who it developed were standing in the vehicle with their heads just above the water, holding two young children in their arms. The lower side door of the automobile had opened as the car hurtled from the bridge and a suitcase had jammed in the opening, preventing the door from closing.

Krch reached down through the narrow opening and took a baby from its mother's arms, then climbed up the chain to the bridge. Down he went again, this time pulling the mother through the small opening with much difficulty. She, too, was hauled safely to the bridge, where other passersby had gathered.

Krch made a third trip down the chain and saved a 4-year-old child. Then, with great difficulty and almost paralyzed by the 36-degree water, managed to work the father through the narrow opening.

The man and his family were taken to a roadhouse at Christochina and were reported in good physical condition after treatment for shock. Little was learned of their identity except that they were from Fairbanks and the man was an employee at Ladd Air Force Base by the name of Drummond.

Krch left immediately after. His load of pipe was needed for the Haines-Fairbanks pipeline.

Details of the story had to be learned from the passersby who happened on the scene.

BOB McVAY

KFJI Staffer To Resign

After serving nearly three years on the staff of radio station KFJI, Bob McVay has announced his resignation effective August 1. He has been commercial manager, program director and sports editor.

McVay entered radio work here after finishing his schooling at UCLA in Los Angeles.

He leaves to become assistant manager of KSDA, a new 250-watt station which will operate on 1400 kilocycles at Redding to serve the Shasta Dam area. The station will be operated by Rowland Dow, California radio and advertising agency man.

With his wife and three-month-old daughter, McVay stated he plans to leave Klamath Falls in about two weeks.

STOCKS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market displayed a mixed to lower trend throughout most of Friday's session, but in the late afternoon the steels and motors sparked a recovery.

Prices remained thoroughly mixed with gains running to around 2 points and losses seldom going past a point.

Volume was moderate at an estimated two million shares. That compares with 2,080,000 shares traded Thursday in a mixed market.

Grains

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains generally headed lower on the board of trade Friday although corn had a firm tone and July soybeans enjoyed occasional flashes of strength.

What again suffered from mild selling pressure on reports more cash grain was being offered on the open market at major terminals as well as new crop soybeans. Expansion of the harvest dealers sank prior to issuance of a government acreage report.

July soybeans rose on short covering as cash beans were expected to be shipped from Chicago next week. Corn's relative steadiness appeared based mainly on firm cash prices.

Wheat closed 1 1/2 lower. July 2 1/2-3/4, corn unchanged to 1/2 higher. July 1 1/2-1/4, oats 1/4 lower. July 1 1/2, rye unchanged to 1/4 higher. July 1 1/2-1/4, soybeans 1 1/2 lower to 4 cents higher. July 3 1/2-3 3/4, and lard unchanged to 45 cents a hundred pounds higher. July 16.20.

Jury Probes Death Of Young Heir

CHICAGO (AP)—The first round in the expected legal fight for Montgomery Ward Thorne's two-million-dollar fortune opened today as coroner's officials investigated a pathologist's report hinting he was slain.

Dr. Harry Leon, in a report yesterday, said the 20-year-old mail order heir died violently of alcohol and drug poisons, and that someone else probably injected the drugs into his veins.

Thorne died "by undue means," Dr. Leon said in his report to coroner Walter E. McCarron. "This definitely was not a natural death," he said.

The possibility of foul play is under consideration by McCarron. "There is definitely something wrong in this case," McCarron said. "It appears from the physician's report that a second party, expert with the needle, may have administered drugs into the veins of Thorne before he died."

Thorne's body was found in his one-room apartment June 19. The coroner's office has started a search for all persons who may have seen him between 1 a. m. and 5 a. m.

Dr. Leon said the position of fresh needle marks on the youth's arm indicated another person made them shortly before his death.

Asked directly, "Was Thorne murdered?" Dr. Leon replied, "That is up to the coroner's jury to determine."

A coroner's jury, at five emotion-packed hearings since the youth's death, have heard several witnesses, including his mother, Mrs. Marion Thorne. The inquest is to be resumed Wednesday. Mrs. Thorne's attorneys have said they intend to present "surprising evidence."

Nine days before his death, Thorne rewrote his will to remove his mother as chief beneficiary and to leave three quarters of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Regen, 18, and her mother Aileen. Miss Regen says she and Thorne were to have been married in December, after Thorne's 21st birthday, but Mrs. Thorne denies this.

Probate Judge Charles G. Beidel of Kane County was summoned to Chicago to preside over today's hearing on a proof of Thorne's heirship in a petition filed by the Regen's lawyer. The hearing will concern only the youth's right to the fortune left by his father Gordon C. Thorne, who died in 1938.

The man behind the switch...

At any time of the day or night, the flick of a switch brings you light, warmth, power for your appliances . . . all the comforts made possible by electricity. And behind the switch stand the men and women of COPCO who bring the power to you.

Take the COPCO lineman . . . a symbol of service and safety. He keeps the "hot stuff" humming through the power lines. If lightning, a falling tree, the impact of a storm breaks a line, he is on instant call. His job is often dangerous, but don't call him a hero. To him, danger is all in a day's work and he likes his work. He knows that power is essential to progress.

The lineman is just one of the army of COPCO employees who develop the power, transmit it to you and then stand behind the switch to make sure that it is always at your service.
