

MELBA SPIERING puts Mrs. Merle West under the dryer in her new location at 1146 Pine Street. Melba, who operates Melba's Salon of Beauty, has moved from the Esquire Building, also on Pine. The new salon, opened Tuesday, is gay with color, has comfortable chair and offers all types of beauty service. Mrs. Spiering has been in business in Klamath Falls for several years. She is assisted by Pat Sellers, who is well known to many women customers in Klamath Falls.

Contractor's Case Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says the government prosecuted a former Army engineer on influence peddling charges without having "one scintilla of evidence."

Declaring the case "the most deplorable I've ever listened to," Judge James W. Morris Tuesday ordered the acquittal of Robert E. Bowen, 36, formerly of Spokane, Wash.

Bowen had been charged with agreeing, while an Army engineer in Germany, to accept money from an architectural group for obtaining Army contracts. The government rested its case after a German architect, Friedrich Spiehl, testified there had been no such agreement.

Defense attorneys then moved for acquittal.

The government earlier had dismissed charges that Bowen posed as a government employee in Germany after he left the Army in mid-1951.

Bowen was indicted when he came to Washington to tell a grand jury of his claim that there was "a great conspiracy to sabotage the U. S. defense program in Europe."

End Of Farm Props Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) urged the Senate Wednesday to scrap the present system of rigid farm price supports which, he said, "has failed."

"It has failed despite the fact that the government now has about 6 1/2 billion dollars tied up in price supports," he said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery. "By the end of this year the figure will probably rise to around 9 billion dollars."

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, is supporting the Eisenhower administration's proposal to replace the present system with a system of flexible supports for basic crops. The administration recommended supports ranging between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, a legal standard for farm prices said to give producers a fair return in relation to their costs. The House has voted for flexible supports between 82 1/2 and 90 per cent of parity. But the Senate Agriculture Committee has voted 8-7 to continue the present rigid 90 per cent props for basic crops.

Senate debate on the farm bill is now scheduled to start Monday.
