Buildings At TL Fair Rise

TULELAKE — Actual construction of buildings on the Tulelake-Butte Valley fairgrounds is under way this week with steel framework for three major, clear-span buildings going up.

Two cattle barns, 70 by 100 feet, to accommodate 150 head of animals each, will be finished before fair time this fall in addition to a livestock judging arena with auction stand, holding pens and bleacher capacity for 368 persons.

A 16-unit comfort station of red-wood construction, that will include a lobby rest room with couch and comfortable chairs is nearing completion. Gibbons and Zick, Alturas have the contract on the frame building.

The steel buildings will have no uprights except at the solid corners to provide the maximum of usable space.

Bleachers will not be installed this year to permit the auction arena to be used for indoor exhibits. The auction will be held in one of the cattle barns, according to William Whitaker, secretary-manager of the fair.

The auction building will be made available for public auctions, smokers, and other public meetings, during the rest of the year.

These buildings are of Butler Steel and are being put up by the Butler Steel and Construction Company, Chico.

Bids on electrical wiring in the buildings to be finished this year will be opened at 7:30 p.m., July 21.

A 1500-foot loop water line, tying into the city mains at two sides of the fairground to improve pressure, will be installed before fall, plus the sewer system.

Bids will be opened in the near future on a tractor and power mower for lawn care. Some 28 acres of lawn are already seeded and irrigated. When completed there will be 35 acres under grass.

Over $3,000 in state money will be offered in premiums this year, in addition to local prizes offered by the Bank of America, the Tulelake Reporter, Tulelake Rotary Club and others.

The only addition to classes will be an open class in agricultural products for senior exhibitors. This class in the past has been restricted to juniors.

A $50 prize is to be offered for a "farm family booth" in which everything grown on one farm will be exhibited.

Inquiries on room for community exhibits are being received and interest appears greater this year than ever before.

The premium book, printed by the Tulelake Reporter, is expected to be off the press by August 2.

SHIPS
TOKYO (U) — Japan Friday appeared ready to permit a Hokkaido shipyard to repair and build ships for Russia. Kyodo News Service said.
