Like Objects To Funds Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP)—House budget cutters ran into White House opposition Tuesday in their attempt to make a whopping cut in an appropriation bill.

Led by Rep. Taber (R-NY), the self-styled economy bloc faced an administration-backed drive to restore an estimated 100 million dollars cut from the bill by the Appropriations Committee.

The $1,355,188,979 recommended by the committee is $765,770,188 less than President Eisenhower asked. The bill carries funds for a number of activities in the fiscal year which begins July 1. It is a "supplemental" bill—that is, one carrying funds in addition to those provided in the regular departmental money bills. The Senate has yet to act on it.

Specifically, Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) told newsmen, the President wants the House to override the committee's refusal to provide $2 million dollars for the federal aid airport program and 7 1/2 millions for ship construction.

Others who attended a White House conference Monday said the President was dissatisfied with the committee's rejection of his request for $5 million dollars for grants to states for hospital construction. Administration leaders may move to restore all or part of this fund.

Martin predicted that the House, in acting on the committee's recommendations, would put back into the measure all or most of the airport and ship construction money.

Taber and Rep. Cleveland (R-Ohio), subcommittee chairman in charge of shipbuilding and airporth, said they would oppose any proposals to increase the funds in the bill. Cleveland called the shipbuilding project a waste of public funds.

There reportedly was no White House disposition to challenge the committee's cut of $528,400,000 from the $1,100,000,000 requested by the President for military public works construction. The committee's cut in this project was less severe than it seemed, since it approved the use of unobligated funds voted in previous years to offset in part the cut in new cash.

Dionne Girls Hold Reunion CALLANDER, Ont. (AP)—Quintuplet Marie Dionne, home after eight months in a Catholic cloister, says she will spend the summer with her family and "after I have regained my health, I will decide whether or not to return to the sisters."

Marie talked with reporters Monday after a joyous reunion with her four quintuplet sisters and the other Dionnes. She left the Quebec convent of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament last Wednesday.

She departed, she said, because she was ailing, had lost her appetite and was haggard. She added, however, that her break with the cloistered life might not be final.

Since the 20-year-old girl had not taken her final vows, she was free to leave the order at any time and can return if she chooses.

KF Research Projects Reported

Two announcements of research projects in the Klamath area, brand new to the public, were made by Klamath County Chamber of Commerce President George P. Davis today.

Davis told delegates to the Pacific Northwest Plant Food Association in session here this week that Stanford Research Institute has recently been employed to make researches in the Klamath Basin on the possibility of a frozen foods industry.

"This technical survey of the feasibility of manufacturing products from potatoes, carrots and possibly other agricultural produce is being financed by Klamath County and California Oregon Power Co.," the president remarked.

Findings of the institute will be presented to the chamber, and if such a plant is begun in the county, it will employ approximately 120 people.

Davis pointed out that a frozen food industry would primarily assist the potato farmer in upgrading and stabilizing his markets. The selection of the frozen food industry for research was made from a list of three possible areas of research, one of which will be done in addition to the county and Copco's undertaking.

This research project will be undertaken by Stanford Research Institute at the expense of individual pulp paper manufacturers to determine the feasibility of establishing a pulp mill.

The chamber president said that original plans were to conduct research from Eugene north. These pulp paper manufacturers have since been induced to start research in Klamath Falls.

"We have the makings of an excellent location for a pulp mill," Davis stated, "with one of the largest stands of jackpine or lodgepole pine on the coast."

A third area for possible research is in connection with the hardboard operation recently begun in Klamath by Weyerhaeuser Timber Co.

Davis said that it will require research to determine what products may be made from the hardboard manufactured by Weyerhaeuser. This field of research is still a possibility for the future.

Accused Man Requests Aid A 32-year-old teamster, who was grazed by a bullet fired by Acting Mayor Don Kenyon, asked for additional time to employ an attorney when he was arraigned Tuesday before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor on a burglary charge.

The accused prowler, Allen Virgil Wharton, was reported to have been surprised last Saturday morning in an attempt to break into Kenyon's automobile. The car was parked in a garage at the rear of Kenyon's home.

Kenyon told police he was awakened by the prowler moving about the garage. The city councilman and acting mayor grabbed a gun and ran out of his house. When the prowler started to run, Kenyon opened fire. The man was finally captured after a chase through alleys, yards and over hedges. When examined at police headquarters, it was discovered Wharton's right hip had been grazed by a bullet.

Judge Van Vactor gave Wharton until Thursday to decide whether he wanted a preliminary hearing. He was ordered held in the County jail when unable to post $2,500 bond.

Judge Levels Vagrancy Fine A 64-year-old Malin farmhand, who said he "got riled" when somebody stole his kitchen stove, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was fined $100 Tuesday in District Judge D. E. Van Vactor's court.

Before sentence was passed, the defendant, Henry Johnson, on advice of his attorney, W. O. Brickner of Merrill, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. He had been in liberty under $250 bond since his arrest last week.

According to state police, Johnson menaced residents of Malin with a gun. The defendant told Judge Van Vactor he had been drinking heavily for two weeks. "I got riled up, judge," he explained, "when somebody walked off with my kitchen stove."

Laborer Held For Grand Jury

A 52-year-old laborer, accused of molesting a 7-year-old girl in a downtown theater July 18, was ordered held for the county grand jury Tuesday by District Judge D. E. Van Vactor.

Bail for the defendant, Henry John Zehe, was set at $5,000 cash. Arthur Bryant of Bly took the witness stand at a preliminary hearing for Zehe and told how he observed the defendant molesting the little girl for half an hour.

"I finally walked down the aisle of the theater to where they were sitting," Bryant testified. "When I asked him what he was doing, the man took a swing at me. I hit him in the face and knocked him against the stage. Then he ran up the aisle and out into the street."

Bryant then said he chased the child molester, whom he identified as Zehe, along Main Street. "I grabbed him in front of the Western Union office," he added. "I took him back to the theater and held him until police arrived."

Zehe was remanded to the county jail when he was unable to post bail.

Benson Names Safety Week

In accordance with Secretary of Agriculture Benson's memorandum naming July 25 to 31 as "1954 National Farm Safety Week," the supervisors of the Peoria Valley Soil Conservation District have gone on record as favoring the program. The supervisors believe that the well-being and safety of farm people goes hand in glove with the safe use of our soil and water resources.

Statistics show that: 1. The number of fatal accidents to farm workers is greater than in any other occupation in the United States. (3800 persons were killed while working on their farms during 1953.)

2. Motor vehicles are responsible for the greatest number of accidents to farm people. (they caused one fourth of all deaths and injuries.)

The local conservation district supervisors pledge themselves to follow good safety practices on their farms and on the highways. They ask for the cooperation of their neighbors in this "National Safety Drive."
