Take it from me girls... stay Smart and Healthy

By BESSY, The Basin Bossy What do we hear on Fall fashion's? I'd swear I heard the boss' daughter and the Mrs. working over nothing less than tweeds, with Fall shades of brown and orange predominating once again.

Now, there's nothing I like better than tweeds. And they certainly give that Autumn-time warmth needed to offset the chill of football afternoons and harvest-mooned evenings.

Frankly—except that the boss' kids gotta' head back to school once again—I'm looking forward to the tweed-clad gals again.

With the short-hair fad with us in ever-strengthening circles, we came upon some interesting talk about hair styles in the current "Good Housekeeping." Thought it would be worthy of mentioning here, since you gals seem to like them so well.

Here's what the GH Beauty Clinic has to say: Short hair should be long enough not to look boyish!

It should be long enough to cope with a growing-out Italian cut; It should be long enough to make the most of fine, straight locks; And long enough to arrange in a gracious adult way.

Now, those are truly wise thoughts... just as wise as the thoughts you should have about your own good health. Good looks aren't in just the hair or the makeup or the "perfect" figure. They're also in the "real you" deep inside. And how good the real you is depends on your health. Milk is a sure way to keep "real you" in there pitching.

Black Angus Awards Won

Dale West's Black Angus cattle from his ranch near Merrill continue to carry off blue ribbons wherever shown.

Their latest conquests were at the Western Aberdeen Angus Breeders Futurity in Santa Rosa and the fair just finished at Ferndale, California.

At the futurity show Bardolier DW 2401 carried off honors as the reserve champion bull in the senior bull calf class and his half sister Arica Erlata DW was named reserve champion in the senior yearling female division.

The West entries accounted for four blue ribbons out of the 12 classes exhibited and of the 10 animals shown from his herd seven were won out of a possible 42.

A long distance telephone call from Royal Campion, West's herdsman last night, said that at the Ferndale Fair just closed the West entries won every class but one, including two grand champions and one reserve champion.

Campion will show the stock at several other California fairs before returning home, West stated.

JETS TAIPEH, Formosa — The Nationalist Chinese Interior Ministry's Tainan agency declared Friday that Soviet MIGs transferred more than 80 MIG 15 jet fighter planes to Red China last month.

MONEY DUE LOS ANGELES — A Manila night club operator seeks recovery of $10,000 he says is due him on a promissory note signed by band-leader Xavier Cugat. A suit was filed yesterday in behalf of Ted Lewin by Ben Peskay, film producer, to whom Lewin assigned the note for collection. Lewin's attorneys attached funds due Cugat from Ciro's Night Club here.

Army Postpones Camp Adair Sale

WASHINGTON — The Army has agreed not to take any action toward disposing of buildings at Camp Adair, Ore., until Congress reconvenes next year, Sen. Gordon (R-Ore) said Thursday.

The senator said this would give Oregon and local communities time to work out agreements for transfer of title on facilities at the camp.

The Army recently had ordered quick disposal of facilities remaining at the camp site.

LOYALTY BONN, Germany

— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government may face the immense task of conducting new loyalty tests for 70,000 government employees as a result of the disappearance of security director Otto John, German officials said Friday.

S. Africans Protest New House Law

SOPHIA-TOWN, Union of South Africa — The earnest young black man stepped to the truck platform and began speaking: "Sons and daughters of Africa..."

The crowd of 2,000 black Africans at the outdoor mass meeting thrust out clenched right fists, thumbs up.

"Africa may buy!" they chanted. It means: Africa, come back! The young man spoke of Africans "suffering today under the heel of Fascists," fighting their way to "freedom in our lifetime."

He shouted they should be digging South Africa's gold riches for themselves and their children — not for big mining companies.

"We will take our rightful place among the peoples of the world," he said, "and rule for the benefit of the people."

The speaker was Duma Nokwe.

youth secretary in the African National Congress, largest native political group in the Union of South Africa. Last year he visited Moscow and Peiping as a guest of the Communists.

His audience stood on a street corner lot in this town Alan Paton wrote about in "Cry, the Beloved Country." About 60,000 natives live here, many six or more to a room, many in small corrugated iron shacks. Johannesburg in its boomtown growth has surrounded Sophiatown. Whites call it the "black spot" because it is encircled by white areas.

The Congress Party had called the meeting to protest a law which will move the black population from Sophiatown to a segregated area 10 miles out of the city. The move is part of Prime Minister Daniel Malan's apartheid policy—one of complete separation of races. The government is putting up housing units in the new area, and providing water, sanitation system and roads. The move will be gradual. The government calls it a slum clearance project. Some natives own property in Sophiatown now. They can rent, but not own in Meadowlands, the new area.

The Sophiatown meeting gives a hint of what is happening in South Africa today. People of colored skin, outnumbering whites 4 to 1, are demanding racial equality.
