Hoover To Be Honored With Party

WEST BRANCH, Iowa, (AP)—This little town where former President Herbert Hoover was born wore an air of tense expectancy today as it put the finishing touches on preparations for his 80th birthday celebration. The former president will arrive here tomorrow for the biggest birthday party Iowa has ever seen. Both West Branch and the state of Iowa will help honor on a distinguished son who rose in the best American tradition from humble beginnings here to the nation's highest office. The formal program will be held in the 28-acre state park which now surrounds the tiny white cottage where Hoover was born, second son of Jesse Clark Hoover and Hulda Minthorn Hoover, in 1874.

There'll be a parade and speeches by Gov. William S. Beardsley, Dr. Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa, and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will fly out from Washington to represent President Eisenhower. The state's birthday presents will include an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the university and a book of cartoons, "As Ding Saw Hoover," published by Iowa State College in collaboration with newspaper cartoonist J. N. (Ding) Darling. But for Hoover, the highlight of the day may well be his visit to his birthplace.

The humble cottage, restored, now looks much as it did when the Hoover family lived there. It has white curtains of a pattern and material similar to the ones Hoover's mother used. The rag rug on the floor is of the same pattern as one his grandmother made. The high chair Hoover used as a baby sits beside the dining table and in the bedroom is a bureau his uncle made. The cupboard — another family piece — holds a deep glass dish with a maple leaf pattern which was owned by Hoover's mother. Also on display are some blacksmith tools, found when the house was restored, which might well have belonged to his father.

A boyhood friend of the former president, Fred Albin, 81, of West Branch, recalls that young Hoover's meals sometimes were "slimmer than the devil for a while" after his father died when Herbert was 4. But there'll be nothing about the old fashioned picnic dinner to be served at noon tomorrow for Hoover and his guests to recall those days of hardship. Mrs. Albertus Swalls, one of 40 women who will cook and serve the dinner, said the menu will include: Fried chicken, corn, potato salad, tomatoes, apple sauce, pickles, bread and butter, coffee and milk, ice cream and cake.

Witnesses Wind Up Northwest Meet

PORTLAND (AP)—The four-day Northwest district assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses ended here Sunday. One of the features of the convention was a mass baptism of 300 persons in the Sandy River at nearby Viking Park Saturday. A crowd of 9,439 attended the final session. Total attendance was reported at well over 25,000.

NORTHWEST NAZARENE COLLEGE MELODIIONS will be presented in sacred concert at First Church of the Nazarene, corner of Garden and Martin Streets, Tuesday, August 10, at 7:30 p.m.

Nazarene College Singers To Appear Here Tuesday

The Melodions of Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho, will be presented in a sacred concert at First Church of the Nazarene, located at Martin and Garden Streets, Tuesday, August 10, at 7:30 p.m. The personnel which make up the melodions are Joe Michel, Monrovia, California; Velta Jones, Bend; Wayne Aller, Nampa, Idaho; Joy Tink, Rockford, Illinois. They are students at Northwest Nazarene College, a four-year liberal arts college located at Nampa, Idaho. The concert will consist of a variety of musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental. Included will be mixed quartets, mixed trios, piano, violin and trumpet solos and many other combinations. A highlight of the program will be the presentation by Joe Michel of his story of "Life Behind the Iron Curtain." Michel, who was born in Yugoslavia, spent several years in Russian concentration camps. He came to this country in 1948 after escaping from his imprisonment. He has an interesting story of hardship and torture at the hands of the Communists. Accompanying the group as sponsor will be the Rev. Ellwood R. Tame, field secretary of the college.

Studebaker Demands Cut

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—CIO United Auto Workers local officials were expected to meet today to decide what to do about a Studebaker Corp. demand for lower wages within 60 days. Harold J. Vance, Studebaker president, and Paul G. Hoffman, board chairman, said Saturday the auto company cannot continue to operate except under labor conditions which make its labor costs competitive with the major producers in the automobile industry. They notified the UAW that its contract would be terminated in 6 days, implying that the plant would close unless lower wages could be negotiated. Studebaker's average wage is estimated at $2.37 an hour, with $2.07 for the Big Three — Ford, General Motors and Chrysler. Packard, which will be merged with Studebaker if stockholders of both companies approve next week has an average wage of $2.08. Studebaker's contract - termination notice came less than two days after a UAW meeting at which workers rejected the union's recommendation of a voluntary pay cut. William Ogden, former president of the Studebaker local, said the workers are afraid Studebaker wants to discontinue contract provisions which "have nothing to do with its competitive situation."

Archbishop Sees Unity

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, said here yesterday that Britain and the United States are united as a free people "to defend freedom in a sorely distressed world." "We trust each other," the Most Rev. Geoffrey F. Fisher added. "We stand for the same great facts of human society, in which men can live in freedom. We passionately believe in Democracy." The archbishop and other dignitaries of the Anglican church were here from throughout the world for the Anglican Congress. Formal sessions yesterday were brief but many of the 600 delegates were guest speakers at churches in the Twin Cities and other Minnesota communities. Dr. Fisher, preaching to about 1,100 persons at the Cathedral Church of St. Mark here, said democracy rests on a fundamental piece of unrealism that works, "more or less." "It is either lunacy or an astonishing piece of trust that Christianity is true," he added.

Naval Flier 'Borrowed' New Name

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A decorated Navy officer was free by court-martial verdict there today of any official misconduct in flying through two wars and putting in 14 years service under another man's name. The mother of the man whose name he used said she was glad. Lt. Cmdr. Edwin Stanley Conant, veteran of Gen. Chennault's Flying Tigers in China, of Navy service in World War II and of Korean combat, was acquitted at the end of a one-day trial yesterday. He said he planned to continue his Navy service under the name of Conant — borrowed from a former college friend — but that his two children probably would resume using the name of Perry.

They are living with their grandfather, William R. Perry, who testified his son was John Francis Perry, born in 1912 in San Francisco. The son had used the identification of Edwin Stanley Conant, born in 1915 in San Diego County, in entering the Navy as an air cadet in 1940. He had been dropped from an Air Force flying school and needed new papers to enter the Navy training. Mrs. Stanley P. Conant said at the family's Lakeside home that the two were very good friends while attending San Diego State College. Perry borrowed her son's name and birth information, she said, and both men are now interested in law, a fact which led to the court-martial when the California State Bar noted identical names and other information on applications for registration as students. The Lakeside Conant is studying law at Loyola University, Los Angeles. Officer Conant was planning a correspondence course in law. The court-martial accepted legal opinion there was nothing wrong in using an assumed name with no intent to defraud.

Polio Victim Back In Movies; Rated As "Tops"

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Phyllis Thaxter is back in Hollywood and making her first picture since two years ago, when she contracted polio. Phyllis is a brown-haired girl with a sensitive face. One of Hollywood's finest young actresses, her eyes seem to have even more depth of feeling since her physical ordeal. I watched her work in "Women's Prison," in which she plays an inmate. She is a nice girl who is badly treated by the prison officials. She did a tense scene which showed her being dragged from the visiting room by three tough female guards. She reacted with a realistic impression of hysteria. Yet she was bright-eyed and cheerful immediately after when she sat down for a chat. "Yes, it was quite an experience," she remarked, speaking of her illness. "But now I'm completely well, thank heaven. Sometimes when I'm tired, I ache down my back and in my calves. But I understand that is common with people who have recovered from polio." Two years ago, she finished up a contract at Warners, where she had appeared opposite Burt Lancaster in "Jim Thorpe, All American" and Gary Cooper in "Springfield Rifle." She was pregnant, and she and her husband took their daughter for a vacation on an island in Maine. Phyllis fell suddenly ill. Her legs were stiff, and she couldn't move her neck muscles. She was rushed off the island and to a hospital in Portland. At first it was feared she had spinal meningitis. But doctors tapped her spine and discovered she had polio. Phyllis said the effects of the disease left her within a week. But doctors did not allow her to resume normal exercise and activities because of the baby. She remained hospitalized for 2 1/2 months. She was stricken when she was 4 1/2 months pregnant. The birth and the baby were normal and Phyllis was able to return to her acting work three months afterward.
