

Burdette Has Bad Habit Says Birdie

By JACK HAND
(For Gayle Talbot)

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — The spitball, outlawed in the majors many years ago, still pops up in the dugouts as a topic of conversation. Birdie Tebbets, the Cincinnati manager, was talking about the illegal pitch as he waited for the exhibition game to start yesterday at Doubleday Field.

"I'm not saying that fellow Lew Burdette at Milwaukee throws a splitter, but if he doesn't he misses a lot of opportunities. He spits on his hand, spits on the glove and then rubs the ball in it. He rubs the sweat off his brow, rubs a wet spot on his pants.

"He is a young fellow with great possibilities. He is going to be around a long time and I hate to see him get into bad habits. I think he is just extremely nervous and doesn't realize what he is doing."

Tebbetts, nearing the end of his first year as a manager in the majors, has started some of baseball's purists with his strategic moves. He came up with a four-man outfield one day in St. Louis and a five-man infield in a bunt situation. He defends both moves as entirely logical.

"We used the fourth man in the outfield against Stan Musial in St. Louis. There were two out and, if Musial had doubled, he would have represented the tying run. He struck out. So it didn't make any difference that I had my shortstop playing left center.

"Branch Rickey actually originated the five-man infield on the bunt situation. We used it against the Giants in Cincinnati, with a man on second base. The left fielder came in to play third and I had my first baseman and third baseman in so close they could shake hands with one another.

"What happened? Johnny Antonelli hit to the second baseman for an error and we finally get beat on a fly ball, just what I was trying to avoid. But I'll use it again if the opportunity presents itself."

Cincinnati has been having its troubles lately because the "big" hitters, men like Gus Bell and Jim Greengrass, haven't been coming through. The left-handed pitching, supposedly the strength of the Reds' staff, hasn't measured up while the right-handers, Corky Valentine, Art Fowler and Bud Podbielan, have done better than expected.

Burdie sees the National League as a three-team race right down to the wire with New York and Brooklyn in the favored spots.

Late Rally Gives Bill's 3-0 Victory

Bill's Place won their second straight game in the Men's Softball Association playoffs last night at Conger Field by edging Suburban in the last inning by a 3-0 count.

Cal Bonney and Gus Gestvang tied into a pitching duel over the first six innings of play, and with the score tied at nothing to nothing. Going into the last of the seventh inning Bill's opened with Bonney's single.

With Bonney on first Rex Young promptly parked one of Gestvang's pitches for a home run to give Bill's Place a 2-0 lead. After the excitement of Young's home run had died down, Cecil Hendricks unloaded a n o t h e r o n e of Gestvang's pitches for a four base blow to put the finishing touches on the scoring.

In the other game played last night, Roundup walloped the Klamath softballers by a 11-4 score, eliminating Kelpine from the tournament.

Tonight, Round-up meets Suburban in a do-or-die game with the winner meeting Bill's Place tomorrow night and the loser being eliminated from the playoffs. Game time is 7:30.

McCloud finished out the regular season of the Northern California League by dumping the league champion Weed ball club by a 16-10 score at Weed.

Although they were out hit 18-14, the McCloud nine collected their hits at the right time to hand Weed their second loss of the season.

In other league games, Hill climbed into a tie for third place with their win over Tulelake by a 9-3 margin, while Yreka sent Dunsuir down to the 500 mark with a 19 win. The other contest ended with Scott Valley leading Mt. Shasta by a 11-6 score.

Yreka and McCloud will play a make up game next week at Yreka to take care of the game that was rained out earlier in the season.

Grid Pros Hold Edge Over College Stars

By TOM BRANAGAN
CHICAGO (AP) — For the 20th time, a "dream team" of college football players takes Soldier Field August 13 for the annual charity game with the professional champions.

Opposing this collection of the finest material the colleges graduate this summer will be the Detroit Lions, two-in-a-row champions of the National Football League and 24-10 victors over a similar group of collegians last summer.

Jim Tatum, who coached Maryland to a national championship in 1953, has the job of directing this year's assemblage of All-Stars.

He was allotted only three weeks to prepare the squad for the pros, which means, of course, that his boys will be at a disadvantage. However, lack of experience may be offset somewhat by rules which require the Lions to play both ways, offensively and defensively, something that, unlike the collegians, they aren't accustomed to.

The Lions are expected to enlarge on a record of 12 victories for four professional teams against six for the college boys. Two games ended in ties.

Tatum has a squad of 53-odd standouts of 1953 — ranging from such backfield aces as Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia and Bob Garrett of Stanford to linemen like Don Dononey of Michigan State and Art Hunter of Notre Dame.

All-Star players originally were selected in nationwide vote of football fans but now they qualify either by (a) gaining berths on the first or second teams chosen in the "Players All American," an all-star team announced by the Chicago Tribune after a poll of college players, or (b) being selected by the head coach, his assistants and Arch Ward, sports editor of the Tribune, which sponsors the event.

Proceeds after expenses and a cut for the pros are distributed among worthy charities.

Many of pro football's past and present greats are All-Star alumni. In just a few of the annual game's big moments:

Sammy Baugh, for years the game's outstanding quarterback with the Washington Redskins, passed to Garry Tinsley for the touchdown that gave the collegians their first victory, 6-0 over Green Bay Packers in 1937.

Otto Graham, now the Cleveland Browns' veteran field general intercepted one of Baugh's passes and returned it 97 yards for a TD as the collegians beat the Redskins 7-7 in 1943. Graham was All-America at Northwestern.

Elroy Hirsch, the "crazylegs" end, wheeled 68 yards for a touchdown in a 16-0 victory over the Los Angeles Rams in 1946. He now stars for the Rams.

Padres, Stars Go After Flag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific Coast League pennant race may be settled this week in Hollywood's Gilmore Field.

San Diego and Hollywood open a five game series Tuesday night and as they square away for the last time this season, Hollywood has a 4 1/2 game lead. If Lefty O'Doul's Padres are going to do something to prevent Hollywood from winning its third consecutive pennant, this week is the time to do it. No halfway job will suffice, however. San Diego is just about faced with the job of sweeping the series or thinking about next season.

The schedule favors Bobby Bragan's Stars, who have eight games left with Seattle and five each with Portland, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento. Of its remaining games, Hollywood plays 18 at Hollywood and five more across town with Los Angeles.

San Diego must oppose Oakland eight times, San Francisco four times, and there are 10 against Sacramento, five against Los Angeles and five against Seattle. The Padres play 12 of their 33 remaining games away from home.

Hollywood hasn't been out of first place since it took over May 20. It has beaten off seven challengers, the last one a week ago in San Diego, where the Padres could have been in the driver's seat if they had won the final game. They took the series, three games to two. The season record for the team shows 14 Hollywood victories and five for San Diego.

Lino Donoso, the fireball Cuban, cranks up for the Stars Tuesday night. He will be opposed by Bob Kerrigan. Donoso hasn't been in action since July 17, when he underwent an appendectomy in Oakland. Although he joined the Stars late he has a 15-3 record and was the club's moustache. It is a day and a night dual between these two southpaws shapes up as a natural, provided Donoso really has his strength three weeks after surgery.

President Bob Cobb of Hollywood expects this series to draw 40,000 or more. If it does it will be tops for the Stars, who, although leading the league, have been outwined at home by the seventh place Los Angeles club.

Hydroplanes Crack 17 World Records

SEATTLE (AP) — Seventeen world records were set here Monday by limited class hydroplanes on a measured mile-course on Lake Washington.

Bill Wiget of Concord, Calif., set records in three classes—C service runabout, 69.176 m.p.h.; C racing runabout, 63.579 m.p.h.; F runabout, 63.811 m.p.h.

Eleven-year-old Jimmy Benson of Seattle got his name in the books with a 27 m.p.h. run in his JF runabout, the smallest class on the lake.

George Mattucci of Oakland retook the record for the 7 litre and 208 cubic inch classes. Driving Mixmaster, the 266 owned by Howard Johnson of Los Angeles, Mattucci broke loose with an average of 131.478 m.p.h. roughly 70 m.p.h. faster than the old mark.

He eclipsed the 7 litre (404 cubic inches) record in California Kid, co-owned by Johnson and Lon Graddi. His speed was 116.720 m.p.h. nearly 14 miles over the old record.

Other new marks and times included: A racing hydro, Jack Leek, Tacoma, 61.969.

Motor Lodge Playoff Winner

Gino's Motor Lodge won the Women's Softball playoffs last night at Conger Field by trouncing Midland by a 21-4 score in one of the two scheduled games.

The first game between Malin and Midland was awarded to Midland when Malin was unable to field a full team.

Pitching by Mickey Hayman and two home runs, one each by Pat Barron and Mickey Hayman helped the motor lodge's ball club to the win over the Midland nine.

The Klamath Falls All-stars are practicing for their trip to Portland and the state tournament where they finished in second place last year. A traveling squad of 13 players and manager, Bob Malin, will leave later in the week for their first game which will be Friday evening.

DEFENDING CHAMP Denny Todd was surrounded by two pretty court lassies when the Moose All-City Tennis Tournament came to an end. Shown with Todd, who successfully defended his junior men's crown, are Marg Shreeve, left, runner-up in junior women's singles and Lillian Mahan, the division's champion. The week-long tournament drew to a close last Sunday with the finals of each division being played.

Roy Mack Continues Sales Talk

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Roy Mack gets a chance to put his cards on the table today at a meeting with two wealthy Philadelphians seeking to buy the Philadelphia Athletics baseball team.

Harzy Syk, a drug chain executive, joins with financier Albert M. Greenfield in talks with the executive vice-president of the A's.

Syk and Greenfield head a group of some 16 civic leaders seeking to keep the A's franchise from passing to out-of-town interests.

Arnold Johnson, a Chicago businessman, has offered to buy the team and move it to Kansas City. Estimates of Johnson's offer have ranged as high as $12 million dollars.

Syk said he didn't believe Johnson had offered that much for the team, adding: "We're prepared to make a fair offer for the Athletics, not a fantastic one." Syk said he expects a full financial report from Roy at today's meeting.

Roy, his brother and partner, Earle, and their dad, Connie Mack, Sr., are neck-deep in financial troubles. After 54 years of operating the Athletics, the family faces sale of the club or possible bankruptcy. Earle says there isn't a dime in the till and the Mack's are done in Philadelphia.

The answer to the A's "stay or move" problem rests with Roy who has an option to buy stock owned by Earle and Connie, Sr. They have said they want to sell their shares. Roy says he wants to retain control of the club or make some deal to stay in baseball.

Syk originally said if he bought the club, he would want complete control but yesterday indicated that if Roy wants to stay as a minority stockholder and a member of the board of directors, that might be arranged.
