Farmer Tries To Sell Opium

KANSAS CITY (AP)—U. S. narcotics agents said a one-armed Kansas farmer told them he tried to sell opium because the drought ruined his 160-acre pasture.

Officers who arrested Lawrence H. Bowman, 41, said they found a pound of opium worth $60,000 in his possession. Bowman, of Burlington, Kan., was being held in jail today in default of $2,500 bond.

The agents said Bowman's alleged accomplice, Elwyn Earl Slane, 34, a printer, was arrested in Burlington with 30 grains of opium in his possession. The two men will have a hearing in federal court Friday.

The agents quoted Bowman as telling this story:

In 1946 he smuggled opium into the United States from Japan, where he was stationed as a Marine. He kept the drug at home. He lost his right arm below the elbow in a threshing machine accident three years ago.

This summer his 80 head of Hereford cattle ran out of pasture and he had no money to buy feed, so he decided to sell the opium.

Guided by information from Slane, the farmer came to Kansas City and tried to sell two ounces of opium to a man, who turned out to be a federal undercover agent.

Neither Slane nor Bowman is an addict or has a record of selling narcotics, the agents said.
