National Forest Receipts Told

PORTLAND (AP) — The value of timber cut in 18 national forests in Oregon and Washington was announced Thursday at $33,966,677 — 10 per cent less than the previous year.

J. Herbert Stone, regional forester, said the decrease reflected lower stumpage prices. The second highest cut in the history of the forests — 2,400,000,000 board feet — was reported for the year ending June 30.

Stone said grazing, land and power uses added $310,872 to net receipts for the Northwest region.

STORM — PUNTA ARENAS, Chile (AP) — The port of this southernmost city of the western hemisphere was strewn with wreckage Friday as a result of a three-day winter storm. Ten small ships were blown high on the beach by frigid winds and the rough waves of the Strait of Magellan.

Judge Gives Morals Case Sentence

Russell Anderson, 36-year-old construction worker, who police say served as a procurer for his wife, Florence, who acted as a prostitute, pleaded guilty late Thursday in circuit court to contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Circuit Judge Ralph M. Holman sentenced Anderson to nine months in the county jail.

According to city police, they had Anderson and his wife under surveillance for several months. They said they arrested Anderson after they caught Mrs. Anderson in bed with Carl Zumwalt, logging camp cook. They said Anderson's 12-year-old son was in the same room with them.

Zumwalt and Mrs. Anderson also were arrested on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. They were charged jointly. Both were freed after a writ of habeas corpus was filed by Zumwalt's attorney, U.S. Baletine.

At a hearing on the writ before Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg, Baletine was sustained in his contention that the complaint filed against Zumwalt and Mrs. Anderson by the district attorney's office was defective.

District Judge D. E. Van Vactor, who ordered the couple held for the grand jury, appeared as a witness at the habeas corpus hearing. He said the district attorney's complaint was defective but that he had held Mrs. Anderson and Zumwalt because of the sordidness of the case.

It was shown that the complaint failed to establish the fact that the crime occurred in Klamath County, a necessary element in all criminal actions.

Judge Vandenberg recessed the hearing and Judge Van Vactor then went to his courtroom and issued an order setting aside his previous order holding Zumwalt and Mrs. Anderson for the grand jury. Anderson also would have gone free at that time but he had waived preliminary hearing and was being held for the grand jury under a separate order.

The Andersons have been made a ward of the juvenile court.

Barley Processing Phases Discussed At Merrill Meet

A barley school Thursday afternoon and a meeting Thursday night at the Recreation Hall in Merrill was well attended by barley growers and handlers.

Orme Kellet, representative of the Great Western Maltine Company, Vancouver, explained to the group the different processing phases necessary from the time their grain is received by the maltsters until the finished product is ready for the brewers.

Stressing the importance of the new standards recently applied to the first three grades in malting barley, Kellet asked growers in this area to be especially careful about shipping injured grain, naming specifically that hurt by frost, heat or mold. Such seeds cannot be used for the making of malt and buyers will not purchase it for malt purposes, he stated.

Tulelake Grower Meeting Planned

TULELAKE — A meeting has been set for Monday, August 16, at 8 p.m. (DST) at the Tulelake Growers Association offices for the purpose of discussing the Northern California Potato Marketing Order as it will apply to seed growers.

The meeting has been called by Glen Arthur, chairman of the 20-man marketing order committee. All seed growers and interested commercial growers are urged to attend.

Rhee Cheered On Return To Korea

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee returned today and was met by cheering thousands after his 20-day visit to the United States where he called for renewal of the Korean War.

"The hearty welcome and sympathy expressed by multitudes of the American people everywhere were far beyond my expectations," Rhee said in a prepared statement.

The President said he found responsible American officials, congressmen and people "greatly sympathetic" to Korea.

Handers should be extremely careful about shipping malt barley in dirty cars, Kellet warned, adding that the malting and brewing industries are governed by pure food laws and it is within the power of pure food inspectors to turn down carloads of dirty grain.

Farmers were also warned against mixing dry grain with some containing too high moisture content in order to meet the moisture grade of 13.5 per cent. Mixed grains of this type will not malt uniformly, Kellet added.

Bert Whitlock, of the Portland USDA grain inspection office recommended to farmers that they have their barley tested before selling so they would know what grade they have.

Dr. D. D. Hill, head of the agronomy department at Oregon State College outlined work being done by the college on barley research. Two years ago several large grain companies turned over a sum of money to the college to be used in malting barley research.

This work, while still in its infancy, has already indicated that desirable protein content can be attained through the proper use of fertilizer. Extensive tests are being made on the use of nitrogen on barley ground, Hill stated.

The present estimates on brew barley acreage in Oregon are comparable to last year's acreage, according to Ray Teal, marketing specialist at Oregon State College. Willamette Valley raised 161,000 acres and Klamath County 46,000 acres last year.

There is some indication that brewing barley in the Midwest and parts of California has been damaged by the drought and this could help to strengthen prices on premium malting barley, Teal stated. About 100 million bushels of malt type barley are used each year for human consumption and brewing purposes.

In discussing barley prices for this year's crop Teal said he could only quote prices at Minneapolis terminals as the first malting barley reached their August 6 No. 2 malt barley sold for $59.15 to $60.40 a ton. While this was malt type grain it was not Hannechen, Teal concluded.

Carl Richardson of the U.S. Market News Service spoke briefly on the formation of his organization which started furnishing crop reports to the public as early as 1915. Since that time additional crops were reported on each year until now all crops are included in the Market News Service reports. He also stated that the estimate on Canadian crops is to be released today, and indications are that the barley crop there will be down about 12 per cent under last year.
