

Stoner-Stiles "Open House" at Lake o' Woods

with a cane after his recent mishap [details on another page]. An unidentified arm around Mrs. Lloyd Selby (in grass skirt); Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Leo Davis, houseguest at the Selby's from Caldwell, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Shaw, showing back of them. Mrs. Shaw, still on crutches.

THE OUTDOOR AND INDOOR fireplaces were points of gravitation for the guests—with impromptu conversation—stops en route and at either point. Momentarily indoors were, at the left, Mrs. Rose Poole, here from Harbor with daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stoner, and Dr. Richard Currier; across from them, facing the camera, Mrs. Clara Shaw;

Mrs. Wilfred E. Lamm, back to camera; and Mrs. E. A. Geary, smiling at both of them. In the background (about to be indoor or outdoor customers), Mrs. Stiles (in the straw hat); Mrs. Neil Black, facing away from the camera; and back of Mrs. Stiles, Ed Geary—a guess is, that it's Henry Semon facing Mrs. Black.

SUNSHINE WAS SCARCE . . . but HOSPITALITY was plentiful last Sunday for the 70 some guests who came from various points around the general countryside to join the hosts (above), in celebrating the birthday of Wenona Dyer, from Honolulu, houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stoner, center couple, at their Klamath Falls "River House" on Conger Avenue; and at "The Other House," Lake o' the Woods. Locale of the 2 to 5 p.m. event, was the Lake o' the Woods summer home of the other hosting couple, far left, and right; Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Stiles. Hawaiian-decorated invitations couched in pidgin - Polynesian brought American - gusto responses. The spacious grounds and house of the Stiles' lake menage—and the wide array of interesting food—added to the above-mentioned "hospitality"—were temptations to tarry—and most did. —Photos by Milly Ramsby

A cup of yellow or white cornmeal usually yields about four cups after cooking. The same measurements apply to rice before and after cooking.

Herringshaw-Stephens Rites In Madras Methodist Church

Of interest to friends in the Klamath Basin is news of the recent marriage of Samuel James Herringshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Herringshaw, Culver, former Malin resident; to Irma Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stephens, Madras. The double-ring 8 p.m. ceremony was in the Madras Methodist Church, the Rev. Bill Martin, of Redmond, officiant. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional white satin wedding gown with a net fingertip length veil. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of white and pink roses. Her sister, Mrs. Everett Cloud, was matron of honor and she wore an orchid colored gown. Bridesmaids were Phyllis and Darlene Grant. Phyllis wore a blue gown, and Darlene wore yellow.

All three attendants carried small replicas of the bride's bouquet. Joyce and Dorothy Stephens, sisters of the bride, were candlelighters. They wore gowns of blue and yellow respectively. Dale Herringshaw, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Norman and Howard Herringshaw, also the bridegroom's brothers, were ushers. Norman, serving in the United States Navy, was home on leave for the ceremony. Mrs. Ab. Herringshaw of Klamath Falls, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, played the wedding marches and sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly." She also played her own accompaniment. Peggy Root and Marlene Martin were flower girls.

and Johnny Macy was ring bearer. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue-gray dress and a red rose corsage. The mother of the bride wore a cocoa brown nylon dress with a pink and white rose corsage. At the reception which was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony, the cake was served by Mrs. Dwight Macy and Mrs. Leonard Grant. Mrs. Arthur Herringshaw and Mrs. Bob Herringshaw, both sisters-in-law of the bridegroom, poured. The guest book was passed by Mrs. John Herringshaw; and Shirley Henake and Carolyn Brown had charge of the gift table. Following the reception, the couple left for a short trip to Astoria and the coast, returning by way of Portland. The bride, a 1954 graduate of Madras Union High School is employed at Griffith school company, and the bridegroom farms near Culver where they are making their home.
