Ranger's Story Published

Bunstein and his wife, both now employed at the Tulelake Ranger Station. The story relates Bunstein's experiences as a fire fighter, in a simple, interesting account. The magazine also features the story on the cover. Bunstein is now employed as a forest guard, Mrs. Bunstein as a clerk dispatcher. They first visited Tulelake during the summers of 1952-1953, serving as look-out firemen on Timber Mountain Look-out, 30 miles south of here. This is a station on the Doublehead District of the Modoc National Forest under supervision of George Fischer, district ranger. Bunstein is a graduate of the University of Delaware. He received his masters degree in English from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, later taught there and worked toward his doctorate. War service and the desire to write, cut short his studies. Mr. and Mrs. Bunstein came to the Modoc forest and have found the forest service "a gratifying escape from too many cities."
