

Enrollment At OTI Hits New High

Advance registration at Oregon Technical Institute Wednesday noon stood at 291, an all time high in the history of the mid-high school.

Wednesday afternoon W. M. Douglass and OTI Director W. D. Purvine went to Salem to meet Thursday morning with the State Board of Education on budgets for the 1955-57 biennium and the 1954-55 fiscal year.

Following that meeting they will confer with the state purchasing department and the director of the department of finance, Harry S. Dorman, to obtain information and approval of necessary moves to meet the influx of students.

"We are better prepared to meet this group of students than we have ever before been," Purvine stated. "This is largely because we have had some warning and a good system of handling such matters has been set up under Dorman's supervision in Salem."

He indicated that this year's students will see considerable new equipment installed. New equipment is arriving daily so that total facilities will be in excellent shape to offer full instructional advantages right from the beginning of the year, he said.

Purvine also announced that Pade Sheet Metal was successful bidder on a new exhaust system for the school. The purchase order has arrived from Salem to install a system of pipes and sections in the diesel engine department for the purpose of exhausting the fumes from running motors set up by students taking the course. All vents will lead outside so that the air in the shop will remain clear and the students will suffer no discomfort from toxic fumes in the plant. The new exhaust system will cost in the neighborhood of $1200.

Authorization has been received, bearing Governor Paul Patterson's signature, for the expenditure of up to $5,000 for remodeling of dormitories and classrooms. Purvine stated. Work is being done by local union carpenters, plumbers, electricians and workmen.

New KF Fair Arena Planned

Plans have been drawn for a new sale pavilion and show arena at the fairgrounds, according to an announcement made by Bryant Williams at the 4-H and FFA auction sale Tuesday night.

The new building is expected to be constructed by fair time next year if the county budget committee approves appropriations, as it has inferred. It will. The sales arena will be the first project in a long range plan for complete re-vamping of all buildings at the fairgrounds.

Howard Perrin's architectural office has drawn plans for the estimated $50,000 building, which include a larger show ring and seating for 1,000 people.

Percy Murray, member of the fairboard with Bryant Williams and J. A. Johnson, Henley, said this morning that the board's building plans have been made as a further step to make the fairgrounds the central place for all county activities. The grounds represent an estimated total investment of $200,000.

Murray reminds county groups that there are kitchen facilities in the main exhibit building and a meeting room which seats 100. Both are available at a nominal cost or no fee at all. Groups should contact the caretaker at the grounds.
