VISITORS to Klamath Falls and Crater Lake last week were Anne Grisco and Louise Wolstoncroft of Los Angeles on their first trip to the Pacific Northwest. They are with the Elwood J. Robinson Advertising Agency in the California city. While in Klamath Falls they visited the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company hardboard plant, appeared over station KFLW and visited the Herald and News.

Phenix City Jury Expected To Order Vice Indictments

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — A dramatic new chapter in the tale of vice and corruption in fabulous Phenix City unfolded today with a grand jury report expected to contain more than 500 indictments.

Special Judge Walter B. Jones called Circuit Court into session to receive the first presentment three weeks after the 18-man blue ribbon jury began its investigation of widespread racketeering.

Picked teams of National Guardsmen stood ready to arrest the defendants named in the indictments, probably the greatest number ever returned by a grand jury in Alabama. Until the arrests are made, the names of those indicted must remain secret.

Multiple indictments against some of the gambling big shots were expected to account for many of the anticipated 500-odd true bills. As many as 50 indictments were believed likely against some.

Still others may come later in the continuing vice cleanup. Special Solicitor (Prosecutor) George C. Johnson said the jury would go right back to work as soon as the initial report was filed.

It was almost a foregone conclusion, however, that the first interim report would contain no indictments for the murder of anti-vice crusader A. L. Patterson, whose death on June 18 started the unprecedented vice purge in Phenix City, where wide-open gambling and other rackets flourished for years.

State authorities directing the search for Patterson's killer haven't completed their case.

Grand jury testimony is protected by closely guarded secrecy but the identity of many witnesses subpoenaed in the past three weeks indicated the nature of the investigation.

There were leaders in the crusading Russell (County) Betterment Assn., for example, who have charged repeatedly that racketeers controlled election machinery in Phenix City and infiltrated even into the jury boxes to protect their interests.

Patterson, who had been nominated for attorney general of Alabama on a cleanup platform, was the RBA's attorney.

Other witnesses included state investigators, highway patrolmen and National Guardsmen who seized hundreds of slot machines, crooked dice, marked cards and lottery tickets in raids on gambling dens.

Another who went before the jury was ousted Police Chief Pal Daniel, who had said he received orders from Mayor Elmer Reese to let gambling joints operate unmolested. Reese, who denied the accusation, was arrested on charges of wilful neglect of duty.

And there were witnesses who previously had told an investigating state Democratic executive subcommittee of numerous instances of fraud in the May 4 Democratic primary this year.

They said a "crooked" political ring controlled election procedure with a firm grip.
