Fish Die From Suffocation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Suffocation apparently caused the death of thousands of fish found floating on the surface of the Chesapeake Bay over the Labor Day weekend, marine experts say.

Paul McKee, director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission, said engineers reported that an upwelling of lower water containing very little oxygen had caused the fish to suffocate. The recent hurricane winds were blamed for the upwelling.

Growers Warned Of Need For Work Insurance

TULELAKE — Either the farmer or the labor contractor must carry workmen's compensation on all men employed on ranches during harvest time, warns the Tulelake Growers Association in their bulletin released August 27.

Farmers are advised that they should obtain the name of the company carrying compensation on the workmen from the contractor, and should get the policy number and policy period.

If the contractor has a "certificate of insurance" the information is all contained on the certificate.

If the grower doesn't have evidence that the contractor is insuring his men, the grower must assume liability for their injuries, if hurt, and must pay the compensation on them to the growers own company.

Russians Invite Labor Men

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikolai Schvernik, president of the Soviet Union under Stalin and now head of the nation's trade unions, has invited British labor men to visit Russia.

The invitation was sent by telegram yesterday to the British Trades Union Congress. The move was part of the Russian campaign to woo Britain, especially her workers and the Labor party, to friendship with the Soviet Union.

Schvernik said discussions between the trade unions of the two countries could lead to prohibition of hydrogen and atomic weapons as well as collective security.

Dewey Plans To Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas E. Dewey, one of the most powerful figures in national Republican politics since 1940, is returning to private life after 12 years as governor of New York.

Dewey, twice a nominee for President, said in a statewide telecast last night that he would not under any circumstances be a candidate for public office this fall. He gave no reason other than a desire to return to private life.

The decision, which Dewey has closely guarded as a secret, came despite repeated urging by many Republican leaders that the 52-year old governor seek a fourth term.

President Eisenhower, who "had hoped" Dewey would run again, was told in advance that he would not. But the announcement caught many state Republican leaders by surprise.

It came only one day before a scheduled meeting of the State Republican Executive Committee. Formation of a "draft Dewey" move reportedly was to have been the meeting's main order of business.

Dewey's withdrawal was expected to have powerful repercussions at state and national levels.

At every Republican National Convention since 1940, he had been a leading spokesman for the so-called "liberal, internationalist" wing of the party.
