

Nation Watches Fight For NY Democrat Nomination

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The campaign for control of Congress was temporarily eclipsed today by a contest between Averell Harriman and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for the Democratic nomination for governor of New York.

The edge appeared to lie with Harriman, former foreign aid director and unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952. But Roosevelt predicted he would win in "a very close contest."

New York Republicans, convening at Syracuse, were prepared to give their gubernatorial nomination to U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's choice to return to private life.

Harriman had the backing of Tammany Hall and other influential party leaders as Ives' November opponent. Roosevelt, however, claimed "surprising" support from New York City to augment upstate strength.

In the Democratic primary in Rhode Island Monday, the state ticket headed by Sen. Theodore Francis Green, 86, and Gov. Dennis J. Roberts had no opposition for renomination. The state GOP primary is scheduled on Sept. 29.

Far to the west, President Eisenhower arranged to confer during the day with Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee, and two of Hall's aides, in a advance of a speaking trip to the West Coast later this week.

The President returned from a mountain vacation to his Denver summer headquarters Monday and did some more work on four speeches he will make during the coming three days.

While other Republican speakers were plugging for continued GOP control of Congress, former Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr. urged replacement of Clifford P. Case as the party's candidate for the Senate in New Jersey. Case, also a former House member, opposes Democratic Rep. Charles R. Howell for the seat being vacated by Sen. Hendrickson (R-N.J.).

Hartley, in a television broadcast from Newark, said Case had "a new deal, fair deal, CIO voting record." Unless the state GOP replaces him, Hartley said, it must "assume responsibility for a Republican defeat in the November election."

Campaigning in the Midwest, Vice President Nixon told a party rally at Omaha the Eisenhower administration has given the nation "built-in" guarantees against a depression. He said a key point in Communist philosophy is to rely on collapse of the U.S. economic system and he added, in obvious allusion to some Democrats:

"Critics who circled like vultures last spring waiting for the American economy to falter could have given no greater comfort to our external foes who hoped for the same thing."

A different view of the economy was taken by President George Meany of the AFL, who told the organization's convention at Los Angeles the administration is "doing nothing — just nothing" about unemployment. "There seems to be a definite campaign . . . of sloth to get the American people to believe that millions out of work is not important," Meany said.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell told the AFL delegates their organization has been unfair in its criticism of the administration. "I would like to suggest to you Mitchell said, 'that if we were as confident of our support when we do right as we are of your criticism when we do wrong, we would be even more effective in your behalf.'"

At Cody, Wyo., Secretary of the Interior McKay said GOP control of the next Congress "is essential if we are to continue to have honesty, integrity and efficiency in government in place of the old chiseling, grafting and extravagance."

At Great Falls, Mont., speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin Jr. predicted a GOP gain of 15 House seats in the Nov. 2 election.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), at a news conference in the nation's capital, said he is convinced many persons "are worried, very worried" about foreign policy and that this may cost the GOP votes in November. "They had developed a feeling that more was to be expected of this administration, which had . . . declared it had seized the initiative from the Soviets," he said.

State-Wide AA Meeting Held

A state-wide conference of Alcoholics Anonymous during the past weekend in Astoria was one of the most successful AA meetings ever held in Oregon, according to Hank H., Klamath Falls delegate, who returned from the party Monday.

Three hundred and fifty AA members from virtually every community in Oregon, attended the sessions. The delegates heard an address by Lyd S., representative of the Alcoholics Anonymous Foundation in New York.

Hank H. said AA representatives from all sections of the state will gather in Klamath Falls for a conference in November.

Friday night Frank Jenkins, publisher of the Herald and News, will speak at a meeting of Klamath Basin AA members and guests at the Alcoholics Anonymous Center, 120 Riverside, Maple Park. The meeting is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. Anyone with an alcoholic problem is invited.

Jenkins' talk will be one in a series of discussions of the alcoholic problem to be given at the AA Center each month by persons not affiliated with the organization.

"Creative Embroidery" was very skillfully demonstrated by Mrs. Earl Bailey and Mrs. Edwin Olson at the first meeting of the OTI Home Extension Unit. The meeting was held at the student lounge on the OTI Campus, Thursday, September 16 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Besides the project leaders, the following members attended: Mrs. John Howard, Mrs. Winston Purvine, Mrs. Jack LaGrande, Mrs. Walter Palmberg, Mrs. H. M. Ridling, Mrs. Carl Stolpe, Mrs. Hal Rotrock, Mrs. Jess Crabtree, Mrs. Richard Hestig, Mrs. Terry Boyer, and Mrs. Joe Hicks.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. John Howard, chairman. The following standing committee chairmen were appointed: membership, Mrs. Hal Rotrock; hospitality, Mrs. Earl Bailey; luncheon, Mrs. Jack LaGrande; recreation, Mrs. Walter Palmberg; publicity, Mrs. Carl Stolpe; 4-H Club, Mrs. Richard Hestig; ACWW, Mrs. Terry Boyer. Reports on the Officers' Training Conference were given by Mrs. John Howard, Mrs. Richard Hestig, and Mrs. Joe Hicks.

The project on creative embroidery was very interesting and educational. Many new and different embroidery stitches, some plain, some elaborate, were demonstrated. Their application to dress and samples of work were displayed.

Touch-up for wood furniture will be the project for October. This meeting will be at 10 a.m. on Thursday, October 21, at the student lounge on the OTI Campus.

Hope L. Holbrook, county extension agent will give the demonstration. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in attending this and future meetings.

Cow Belles Plan Luncheon

A luncheon has been arranged for Friday at 12:30 p.m., at the Pelican Cafe for all members of the Klamath Cow Belles Association and other women interested in beef cattle.

The Cow Belles have been asked to help out in the beef promotion campaign being conducted in Oregon and other states. This program will be explained at the luncheon. The award given by the Cow Belles to the leading 4-H beef breeding cattle project will be presented to the girl who won the award.

Other activities of the organization will be discussed. Applications for membership will be accepted for both active and associate members.

It is necessary to make reservations for the luncheon, according to Mrs. Dave Campbell, president. She asks that women planning to attend call her at Bly 671, or any of the following: Mrs. Robert Hunt, Klamath Falls 2-1995; Mrs. Taylor High, Poe Valley, 2-1257; Mrs. Louis Randall, Fort Klamath 2385, or Mrs. Stanley Johnson, Malin 191.
