New Stage Theater To Be Opened By Grocery Heir

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Monday night grocery heir Huntington Hartford offers his answer to those who think the living theater is dying. He is opening a new theater that has everything from Helen Hayes to a bar.

The Huntington Hartford Theater will have all the aspects of a big movie premiere on Monday. There will be searchlights, ogling fans and a telecast to record the arrivals of the film stars. The only difference will be that the actors on the stage will be three-dimensional and alive. Miss Hayes will be appearing in her old standby, "What Every Woman Knows," with Kent Smith.

But the star of the evening will also be the theater, which Miss Hayes has called the most beautiful she has ever played in. It will certainly stand out like a beacon among the legitimate houses of the nation, most of which are old, musty and decaying.

For $250,000, A&P heir Hartford bought the Vine Street Theater, which is half a block south of the famous Hollywood Blvd. and Vine corner. The house had a checkered history. It started out in the '20s as a site for second-rate legit shows. For a brief spell during the depression Howard Hughes ran it as a movie show. It returned to legit and ended up housing radio shows, principally Lux Radio Theater.

Hartford left last November for the East and London, where his wife, Marjorie Steele, opened "Sabrina Fair." He left the refurbishing of the theater in the hands of decorator Helen Conway.

Not until he returned yesterday did he see the finished product. He also saw the bill: $750,000.

The front of the theater is covered with white Vermont marble ($12,000). Inside, theatergoers will be greeted by a huge mirror, said to be the biggest ever installed ($1,000). The carpet throughout is a specially designed pattern of black and silver stars on green ($44,000). The front curtain was a beautiful hand-woven job ($7,000).

Mica was mixed in the white paint for the exterior, so that the place sparkles in the California sun. The bar is sumptuous.

I caught Miss Hayes backstage between rehearsals for the Barrie play, and she was still rhapsodizing over the theater's facilities.

"Why don't we treat New York playgoers like this?" she asked plaintively. "After all, the theater is a great asset for New York; it attracts thousands of visitors; it is the center of our culture."

SACRED HEART NOTEBOOK

By BEATRICE WALSH

Trojans will clash with the Chiloquin Panthers Saturday afternoon at the Chiloquin field. It will be Sacred Heart's first league game this season.

Initiation, the event which all freshmen anticipate with dread, was held Wednesday. Strange costumes and weird hairdos could be seen in the halls all day, and shouts of "Bow, Rook, and Carry the books" were heard. During the official ceremony Wednesday afternoon the auditorium stage was the scene of many odd actions, including many song and dance skits and impromptu numbers. James Holland, a senior, received his first proposal from one not-so-bashful rook.

The Mother's Club of SHA is now engaged in a membership drive. All mothers whose children attend the academy are invited to join.

Juniors have started their first activity for a successful Prom by selling red and white pom-poms.

DEMAND

TOKYO (AP)—About 1,000 members of Japan's biggest labor union demonstrated before Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's official residence Friday night, demanding that he give up his plan to leave Sunday on a tour of America and Europe.

Sixth Winning Ticket Drawn

William E. Smith of 2561 White Street holds the sixth ticket drawn for the award of a Nash automobile by Fortune Stations, it was announced. If none of the five prior tickets are checked in at a Fortune Station here or in Medford or Grants Pass by 8:00 p.m. Monday, Smith will win the car, but ticket holders have until that time to check winning numbers at the stations, according to John Milnes, manager.
