Afternoon Rites In Eugene Chapel

Willagillespie Baptist Chapel near Eugene was the scene of the wedding of Barbara Joyce Jeffries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Jeffries, formerly of that city, now of Klamath Falls where both are associated with the McDonald Candy Company. Barbara became the bride of Calvin E. Ketchum in a Sunday afternoon ceremony, September 12, read at two o'clock by the Rev. Glen Camper. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ketchum, Eugene.

Pale pink and white were the featured colors in the floral decorations; chosen to complement the bride's dressmaker suit in pale pink tulle. She wore a tiny pink hat of open work shiny straw trimmed with a wisp of veiling, and pink and gray accessories. A pink throatie white orchid completed her costume for the informal wedding attended only by relatives and a few close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

She was given in marriage by her father; and was attended by Carolyn Ketchum, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a pale pink dressmaker suit with pink accessories. Ellis Stiles of this city served as best man.

The reception was at the Eugene Women's Club; and the same pale pink and white color scheme prevailed.

The tiered cake, decorated with pink roses and topped with white bells nestled in a pink tulle bow, was baked and decorated by the bride's mother. It was cut by Mrs. A. L. Smith, Mrs. Virgil Hughes was at the coffee service; and Mrs. Mary Bingenheimer presided at the punch bowl.

The larger group at the reception included additional friends invited to share in the festivities. The couple left for Fort Belvoir, Virginia; where they will live while Ketchum is stationed there with the U.S. Army.

Klamath Falls friends of Barbara's who assisted were Candice Conner, guest book; Jackie Elliott, Lynette Forster and Barbara Wade at the gift table.
