Segregation Move Halted By Judge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A move by a group of Ohio Negroes to bring about an immediate end to public school segregation has been blocked by the ruling of a federal judge.

In Delaware, Gov. J. Caleb Boggs sought ways to bring peace to troubled areas in the southern part of that state.

In Georgia, Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin accepted the formal Democratic nomination as governor with a renewal of his pledge that "during the time I am governor there will be no mixed schools or colleges."

Democratic domination is the name as election in Georgia. Griffin favors a so-called private school system under which grants of state, county or city funds would be made to individuals in discharge of all state education obligations.

Steel Merger Disapproved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell announced Thursday the Justice Department's antitrust division has disapproved a proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

The attorney general said that Bethlehem and Youngstown rank second and sixth among "fully integrated" steel companies and that there is substantial competition between them in a number of products.

He said his department, which was consulted by the companies about their projected consolidation, had also considered the policy, as expressed in the Clayton Act of "arresting trends toward concentration in an industry."

The department announcement noted that Bethlehem's assets total more than $1,782,000,000 and Youngstown's exceed $513,000,000.

The department said that "a merger does not necessarily have to result in a Sherman Act monopoly to be illegal," and added: "The Clayton Act, as amended in 1950, was designed to reach monopolies and restraints of trade in acquisition of stock or assets where in any line of commerce in any section of the country the effect of such acquisition may be substantially to lessen competition or to tend to create a monopoly."

TRAVEL SMILES

By Merry Miles

The child on the Greyhound bus was four, and bright as a cracker. "I can read the sign," she chirped, and demonstrated on the next one to be passed. "It says twenty-seven miles."

"What else?" I asked. "Oh, I can only read how far," she said, "but not where to!"

Everyone likes Greyhound travel because it's so intimate and personal, as well as low in cost. You are close to everything—scenery, people, the towns, cities and countryside.

If you're setting a few days or a couple of weeks off this fall, ask Greyhound for free literature on the latest Merry Miles Vacations.

Early Xmas Held For Girl

BETTENDORF, Iowa, (AP)—"Merry Christmas, Linda," laughed the merry fellow in the bright red suit, "Merry Christmas!"

It was Christmas for young Linda Cargill. A bit early, but doctors don't expect the 7-year-old girl to live until the real Christmas on Dec. 25.

The excitement of Christmas filled the small family home Wednesday night. If there were any tears among friends and neighbors who stopped by, they were carefully hidden.

The room was literally filled with packages and gifts from all over the country. The festivities centered around the gaily colored Christmas tree which Linda helped decorate.

Wearing a crisp, new pink dress and with a ribbon in her blonde hair, little Linda cried with joy when Santa Claus burst into the room.

Toys, candy, gifts galore were pulled from Santa's bulging pack. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cargill have not told Linda and her two brothers, Robert, 5, and Tommy, 2, that she will die. The early Christmas was explained by telling her she might be in the hospital when the real one comes.

"I wonder if I'll get this match next Christmas?" Linda asked a neighbor. The friend did not reply.

New Air Filter Center Named

SPOKANE (AP)—Geiger Air Force Base announced Wednesday a new filter center will be established at Pendleton, Ore. The Portland filter center now handles the Pendleton area.

"To break up the extra large area served by the Portland center the new center at Pendleton is being planned although an activation date hasn't been set," the announcement said.

The new ninth air defense division will be activated at Geiger this fall.

The filter centers plot aircraft in the vicinity from reports of volunteer ground observers.

Site Of Proposed New KF Armory Discussed At Meet

Representatives of the city council, city planning commission and local National Guard met with state guard officials Wednesday evening at the Willard Hotel for further discussion on the National Guard Armory planned for construction in Klamath in the near future.

Discussion ended with the appointment by Mayor Paul Landry of a committee of seven to decide two major questions:

(1) Is the present considered site, on Victory Drive where the public housing units stood, the best choice from all angles?

(2) Should the community provide only a site and have a strict military type armory or should the community participate financially for a memorial type armory suitable for community use?

This second question brings up additional problems: Is a memorial type armory in the decision, how will it be financed; how large will it be?

The mayor's committee, which is expected to make a recommendation to city council by October 11, will base its decision partly on a forecasted future of Klamath Falls. In long range planning, will a community-use armory be most desirable in terms of growing OTI and the city?

The committee includes Winston D. Purvine, director of OTI; Arnold Grapp, superintendent of city schools; Carol Howe, superintendent of county schools; Ed Bell, chairman of the city budget committee; Don Kenyon and Wendell Smith, councilmen; Howard Perrin, architect, chairman of the city planning commission.

Time is of the essence. The local guard is presently quartered at the airbase. When it is reactivated as a jet interceptor base, private planes now housed in the concrete hangar must be crowded out and the logical spot for storage and servicing is the steel hangar, of which the guard now has one-fourth.

On their last visit to Klamath Falls in May, state guard officials, General Raymond F. Olson, assistant adjutant general, Oregon National Guard, and Colonel Paul Z. Kliever, director of armories and facilities in the state, picked a site at the southwest corner of Shasta Avenue and Washburn Way as their first choice.

Mayor Paul Landry told them the site was privately owned and the city had no funds for purchase. Consequently a second choice was made—the site where the housing units stood. The city owns it, and the county will return lots equal to one-half its appraised value for its share in the project.

The question of a memorial type or jet armory type construction also brings up the question of time since experiences in Medford and Stearns ends USAF Service First Lieutenant and Mrs. Ralph Stearns Jr. have returned to Klamath Falls from England where the officer has spent the past year and a half on duty with the U.S. Air Force.

Inclement weather delayed the trip from the usual 16-18 hours to about five days. Several attempts to make the air crossing by Air Force transport were made via the Azores, Paris and Frankfurt, Germany from the point of embarkation in Scotland. Destination of the plane was Westover, Massachusetts.

Stearns has completed his service and has received his discharge. They will make their home in Klamath Falls.

Fendleton with such structures has shown memorial types to be three and two year projects.

The city's stake in OTI and inadequacies of the present armory as a community building were emphasized.

If the armory is strictly military, there will be a concrete floor, office and storage space, rest room facilities, classroom area, an auditorium 60 x 90 feet and no balcony. The government will stand up to only $185,000 for the 13,500 square foot structure.

Gen. Olson said Wednesday night the National Guard can start construction during the present fiscal year.

Present at the meeting in addition to Gen. Olson, Col. Kliever and the mayor were Col. Veatch, Al Schneck, Don Sloan, Ed Bell and John Howard, all of the city planning commission; Capt. Forrest Alter and Lt. Claude Biehn of the local guard; Councilmen Don Kenyon, Frank Tarr, Jim Barnes and Wendell Smith.

Pearson Enters Plea

Leon Pearson, 28-year-old Klamath Reservation Indian, charged with the first degree murder of Gene Ericke, Klamath Falls, entered a plea of not guilty Thursday when he was arraigned before Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg.

Immediately after the plea was entered, District Attorney Frank Alderson filed a motion for a change of judge. This was in keeping with his recent policy of eliminating Judge Vandenberg from the trial of criminal cases in Klamath County.

Attorney George C. Reimuller of Portland, counsel for Pearson, said he believed the case may be retried in December. It also was reported that Circuit Judge Ralph M. Holman of Oregon City may preside at the trial. Judge Holman has a general assignment in Klamath County from the Oregon Supreme Court. Judge Holman is due to arrive in Klamath Falls Tuesday. If given the assignment, it is expected he will set the case for trial at that time.

The alleged homicide occurred August 7 at the Pat Jackson ranch near Chiloquin Junction. Ericke had gone there with two companions to ask permission to fish on the Jackson property.

At a preliminary hearing before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor, witnesses said Ericke was in possession of a toy pistol at the time of the shooting. It is anticipated that Attorney Reimuller will attempt to show that Pearson believed the toy pistol was a real weapon and shot Ericke with a rifle in self defense.

Cattle Tax Meeting Held

California cattlemen who run cattle on Klamath County pastures during the summer were assured of an equitable adjustment of taxes during a meeting of California and Oregon tax experts held Wednesday in the office of A. R. Dickson, Klamath County assessor.

Pro-rating of taxes on transient animals moved principally from Shasta and Tehama counties in Upper Klamath Marsh for summer feed will be worked out between tax offices of the counties in a joint statement.

Stockmen, seeking an equitable adjustment of taxation methods, met with R. O. Olland, chief appraisal engineer, Oregon Tax Commission, Salem, Myron R. Harrison, Shasta County assessor, Waldon Carlson, Oregon State tax commissioner, Salem, Al Meeker, Shasta County supervisor, A. R. Dickson, Klamath County assessor and members of the California Farm Bureau Federation.

Assessments are levied on a yearly basis against California cattle. Klamath County levies a tax for the number of months the cattle are ranged here.

It was agreed that in the future, assessors, under a cooperative plan, will exchange shipping data on all transient animals. Tax adjustments will be made to California stockmen on the basis of these reports.

Tax income of about 40 per head is paid into the Klamath County coffers. This year the total will approximate $12,000.
