

Climbing For First Win

UCLA, Maryland Tangle Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Maryland and UCLA, both ranked among the nation's top ten, open a full weekend of intersectional tests tonight in Los Angeles, but the game that really excites the imagination of college football fans is scheduled at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow.

That's where Notre Dame, still the process of proving the ability of young Terry Brennan as head coach, lines up against Purdue, a team seldom mentioned among the nation's best, but always "up" for the Irish.

It was on a bright October afternoon just four years ago that the Boiler makers crushed Notre Dame's proud 39-game winning string—a performance that marks them for special attention by Brennan, who made an impressive entrance to big time coaching with a 21-0 victory over Texas last week.

Two other top games tonight moved Baylor to Miami (Fla.) University and Wichita to Drake. On tomorrow's schedule, Iowa, ranked No. 4 on the basis of its 14-0 victory over Michigan State last Saturday, slips away from Big 10 Conference action for what should be a breather against Montana, but Michigan State continues its tough opening schedule against Wisconsin, the No. 5 team, at East Lansing.

Surprising Duke, rated seventh after shutting out Penn and scoring 52 points, is at home to Tennessee, and Mississippi, No. 8, plays at Villanova. Southern California, No. 9, mixes it up with Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., in another intersectional match, while Penn State, an unexpected top ten member by its upset victory over Illinois, relaxes at Syracuse.

Other major games tomorrow: East—Brown at Yale, Navy at Dartmouth, Massachusetts at Harvard, Colgate at Holy Cross, Fordham at Rutgers, William & Mary at Penn, Princeton at Columbia, Boston College at Temple.

South—Vanderbilt vs. Alabama at Mobile, Auburn at Florida, Texas A&M at Georgia, LSU at Kentucky, North Carolina at Tulane, North Carolina State at Wake Forest, Arkansas State at Mississippi State.

Southwest—Arkansas at Texas Christian, Texas Western at Arizona State, Utah State at New Mexico, Oklahoma A&M at Texas Tech.

West—Washington at Oregon State, Utah at Oregon, Denver at Wyoming, Brigham Young at Colorado A&M.

KC Paint made their debut in the City League bowling picture last night and seemed to make a run-away attempt of everything and moved into a percentage wise lead of the 10-team league.

The Paint five rolled a 3012 series total, while their high game score was 1001 pins. In the runner-up spots were Griggs Food with a 2879 series, while Lucca Cafe had a 1937 pin second high game score.

Individual scoring was led by Duane Block in series and George Chin in high single game totals. Block rolled a 601 series to beat out Gene Doughty who had a 567. In game action Chin had a 224, while second place was held by two bowlers as they tied with a 222. Ugo Mazziari and Block both rolled the second high series total.

Lending an oddity to the evening's action, Merle Smith rolled a 5-10 split three times and then collected a 6-10 combination.

Celebrity Rating Hits Giants' Dusty Rhodes

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Dusty Rhodes is getting accustomed to being a celebrity.

When he first was projected into the limelight as a result of his fantastic pinch hitting performance, he was uneasy and a little bewildered.

In the clubhouse of the New York Giants after they beat the Cleveland Indians, 3-1, to take a 2-0 World Series lead yesterday, Rhodes, who hit a homer and a single, was as relaxed as all get out.

Of his home run, a really solid poke, Rhodes said:

"He (Cleveland pitcher Early Wynn) threw me five knucklers. He wasted one fast ball. It was a knuckle ball I got hold of."

"But I was only following orders. My son told me to hit one for him before I left home."

Rhodes seemed happiest that his home run wasn't of the "Chinese" variety, meaning a short one like the one he hit to win the first game.

While Rhodes was drawing the huzzahs, many of the Giants pointed to Catcher Wes Westrum as one of the big reasons why Leo Durocher's outfit won the first two games. He has been doing a fine job handling the pitchers.

"We won the game," said the modest Wes. "What more would anybody want. Johnny Antonelli pitched a great game. He was a little wild in the early innings, but from the fourth on, his fast stuff was his best and we went for that."

"The Indians left 13 men on base again. That ought to be the answer to the kind of pitching Johnny did in the clutch. I don't want any credit. He had to throw the ball."

If Westrum wasn't looking for any credit, he would have been embarrassed to hear Captain Al Dark call him the "unsung hero."

"He was terrific behind that plate," said Dark. "He called for a tremendous assortment of stuff and Johnny went with him except for only one pitch that I know of. Johnny shook him off on a change up to Vic Wertz in the ninth inning, but otherwise, they worked perfectly."

Antonelli denied that there was really anything wrong with his control.

"It was just that I was being so careful," he said. "So much depended on every pitch. I was tired at the end. But I still felt I had my good stuff."

How about the opening-pitch home run by the Indians' Al Smith?

"It was a real good fast-ball, but he got around on it real good, too."

Durocher was all smiles. He said he never had any thought of taking Johnny out even though he went out to talk to him a couple of times.

Vic Wertz, the nemesis of the Giants in the first game, got only one hit in three at bats and Durocher was asked how come.

"We changed our strategy pitching to him," he grinned. "How we did it, I won't say. You wouldn't want me to reveal our secrets, would you?"

Over in the Cleveland dressing room, you could cut the gloom with a knife.

Al Rosen, the big man of the Indians' batting order, was disgusted with himself.

"I don't know what to do," he said. "I want to play, but I'm not helping the club. One minute I say to myself that we ought to get a helathy guy in there. Then I think that this is the World Series and you never know when you might get into another. Then I want to play."

Rosen has a bad muscle pull in his right thigh and he failed to score in the firsting inning from second on a clean single by Wally Westlake. Instead, he was held up at third and never did get all the way around.

I know Willie Mays made a great throw on the play," he grimaced. "But if I were healthy I would have scored on it. There aren't many who can beat me going from second to home. Mays would have needed more than an arm to get me."

Manager Al Lopez was understandably discouraged.

"The balls are falling in the right places for them," he said. "They are getting his, even if they are cheap hits and they are getting them at the right time. We've hit the ball hard at times, but it goes right at their fielders. I know one thing: We've never left 13 men on bases two days in a row all last season. Antonelli pitched a good game and so did our man Early Wynn. We need more speed and hitting."

Wynn was perhaps the most dejected of the team. He had pitched a four-hitter and lost.

"What kind of a pitch did he throw Rhodes when Dusty hit the home run."

"A knuckler that didn't knuckle,"

Weiser Drops TKO Decision

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Ken Davis, 124, took every round but the first Thursday night en route to a unanimous decision over fellow-Los Angelean Cecil Schoonmaker, 121, in a 10-round feather-weight main event boxing match.

Dixon Hoxsey, 142, Seattle, was awarded a technical knockout over Ralph Weiser, 144, Portland, when Weiser failed to answer the bell for the fourth round of their scheduled six-round semi-final. Weiser said later he thought one of his ribs was broken.

Mighty Mo, which won the National Cup steeplechase at Fair Hill, Md. on last Sept. 11, began racing on flat dirt. Then jumped to steeplechasing.
