New Russian, Chinese Pact Believed Highly Important

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Moscow announcement of a new agreement with Red China is an event of great significance. Among other things, it hints at the existence of strains in Moscow-Peking relations and efforts to ease them.

Since the Russians are notoriously unwilling to get out of any place the announcement that they are leaving Port Arthur by next June can only be viewed with suspicion. Perhaps the Red Chinese politely insisted on the departure.

But there was compensation for this, from the Soviet viewpoint. The communiqué announced that a railway will be constructed from Alma Ata, capital of Soviet Kazakhstan near the China frontier, through remote Sinkiang and Ulan Bator, the capital of Outer Mongolia.

Both Sinkiang and Mongolia appear to have figured largely in strains between Moscow and Peking. It seemed highly significant that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, on his way home from the Geneva conference, chose to stop off at Ulan Bator.

Outer Mongolia once was Chinese territory. Russians infiltrated for many years under both czars and commissars. The Soviets caused it to secede from Chinese rule. First Nationalist and then Red China were forced to recognize the permanent separation of Outer Mongolia from China. But the Chinese never lost interest in the area, now designated a "people's republic" by the Russians.

It is also likely the Chinese are not overly happy about gradual Soviet domination in China's Sinkiang province, which the Russians have been draining economically for some time. It is a rich area, twice the size of Texas, with many natural resources, including uranium.

The Russians apparently want to continue exploiting both those rich areas. To placate the Chinese they agree "to get out of Port Arthur, (2) to increase the number of heavy industrial projects they are helping the Chinese to build from 141 to 155 and (3) to extend a long-term credit of 130 million dollars.

The Soviet Union also will transfer its share in joint Russian-Chinese companies to Peking, but this is no giveaway, any more than the economic help is. Both are paid for by what the communiqué calls "items of usual export" from China. That means more export of what the Chinese can least afford—food.

The new treaty shows that the Moscow-Peking axis still is in working order, because it is to the benefit of both sides. But in the background are the words spoken there in a speech by Premier Chou En-lai, bringing home to his distinguished Soviet visitors that Red China sets great store by her territorial integrity and sovereignty. For the benefit of the visitors, he repeated many of the things he said when he was touring south and southeast Asia after Geneva, spreading the doctrine of "Asia for the Asians" and indicating he did not exactly consider Muscovites as Asians.

The new treaty shows that things are still pretty much of a matter of hard and watchful bargaining between the two big Communist allies. It gives a broad hint that there are more strains between the two than appear on a surface overlaid with tremendous propaganda about their "unbreakable friendship."

Young Musician To Be Arraigned

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jazz pianist George Horne, heir to a meat packing fortune, will appear Oct. 26 for arraignment on a charge of possessing narcotics.

A California Narcotics Bureau officer testified at his preliminary hearing yesterday that the 26-year old musician, arrested Sept. 19, at first denied smoking marijuana but later admitted taking "just one puff."

The officer, Matthew O'Connor, testified that Horne admitted giving $20 to another musician to purchase 26 marijuana cigarettes from a parking lot attendant. O'Connor said Horne's share of the purchase was 13 cigarettes and that they were secreted over the sun visor of his auto, which was seized by state officers. Horne is free on $1,500 bond.
