Surprise Party

A birthday cake with "Lois" inscribed in frosting formed the centerpiece flanked with lighted tapers on the table for the surprise dinner party given Lois Robertson, by her mother on Lois' 14th birthday anniversary.

All of the eight guests are close friends of the celebrant and all are freshmen at KUHS. After school by prearrangement, one of her classmates, Gwenlea Hansen, casually invited Lois to her home for awhile; and when Lois returned from there she was greeted by the other girls who had arrived in the meantime.

Games were played and prizes were awarded to Darlene Buchholtz and Sandra Gurtle. Guests included Gwenlea Hansen, Virginia Walkley, Sandra Gurtle, Dena Ross, Darlene Buchholtz, Janice Menti, Pat Case and Sandra Starbuck. Lois' young sister, Hazel, also joined in the festivities.

Library Club

Calling them "women of vision," Mrs. Addie Mae Nixon, city librarian, reviewed for the members of the Woman's Library Club, the lives of women prominent in Oregon's history, at the meeting, Monday, October 11.

Introduced by Mrs. A. Ivan Thompson, program chairman, Mrs. Nixon recalled incidents typical in the lives of pioneer Oregon women. Her discussion was in keeping with the celebration of the local club's 50th anniversary.

All past presidents of the Library Club were honored during the afternoon. Those introduced by Mrs. Clarence Ward, president, were: Mrs. L. P. Carter, Mrs. George Lindley, Mrs. George Myers, Mrs. Robert A. Thompson, Mrs. Fred Hoagland, Mrs. Glen Kent, Mrs. Ralph Macartney, Mrs. Stephen Sabo, Mrs. Dean Osborn, Mrs. Loren Palmerion, Mrs. Horace Gels, Mrs. Charles Larkin, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Claud Davis and Mrs. R. E. Wattenburg.

Mrs. A. F. Herringshaw, accompanied by Mrs. Don Zumwalt, sang "My Laddie," "Thayer," "The False Prophet," "Scott," and "Who'll Buy My Lavender," German.

Mrs. G. H. Hancock and Mrs. Hugh O'Connor arranged an interesting display of club scrapbooks dating from 1904.

Mrs. Dean Osborn was in charge of decorations, assisted by Mrs. Ellis Matthews, Mrs. Charles B. Larkin, tea chairman, was assisted by Mrs. W. Ray Lamb, Mrs. P. D. Mead and Mrs. C. J. Cox.

Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. George Lindley and Mrs. R. E. Wattenburg, both past presidents.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Robert A. Thompson, Mrs. Lloyd Young, Mrs. Lewis Stanley, Mrs. Joe Hicks and Mrs. Walter Weisendanger.

JO ANN SISEMORE LOVELY BRIDE IN SACRED HEART CHURCH

In one of the prettiest fall weddings of the Basin Area Jo Ann Siseamore, Klamath Falls, daughter of Mrs. Paul Hesseleger, Brothers, Oregon, became the bride of James Gillis Hannigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden E. Brooks, Sprague River. The 10 o'clock nuptial mass was Saturday morning, October 9, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, with the Rev. T. P. Casey officiating.

Bouquets and gold chrysanthemums of varying sizes were placed in bouquets on the altar level and in beauty baskets to the front and sides of the altar with lighted tapers in candelabra behind each basket. Deep bronze and pale gold satin ribbons marked the pews.

Mrs. D. C. Heffley, organist, played the wedding marches, accompanied the Sacred Heart Academy Madrigal choir, the soloist, Elida DeBortoli, Chiloquin, who who sang Schubert's "Ave Maria." The bride, escorted down the aisle by her uncle, L. Orin Siseamore, brother of her father, the late Jerry Siseamore, wore a white lace and nylon floor length gown fashioned with lace Peter Pan collar, round shoulder inset of pleated nylon, lace bodice, sleeves, cutaway over-skirt and a pleated nylon skirt. Her nylon fingertip veil was held by an open-work band of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of large yellow throned white orchids surrounded by Eucharist lilies and stephanotis.

Maid of honor for her college friend was Eileen Sussbauer, Salem. She wore a metallic-green crystalline wall length frock with square neckline, puffed sleeves, gathered bodice and very full skirt. Her flowers were deep bronze chrysanthemums encircled with lighter pompons with green ivy.

Bridesmaids were Bonnie Bressler, Berkeley, California sister of the bride, Marilyn Mason, Etna, California, sorority sister of the bride, and Patricia Nicholson, Fort Klamath, lifelong friend of the bride and also sorority sister. The three girls wore gowns identical in style to that of the maid of honor in autumn gold and their flowers were in lighter shades.

Best man for his brother-in-law, was Paul Dolan, Seattle. Ushers were Remo Minato, Chiloquin; Howard Luderman, Chemult; and Paul Hanson, Eugene.

The bride's mother chose a pearl gray tulle fitted suit with gray metallic accessories and a white fitted feather hat. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Brooks, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue lace dress with fitted jacket, and navy blue velvet accessories. She also wore an orchid corsage.

A reception in the parish hall followed the double-ring ceremony. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Paul Dolan, Seattle; and his aunt, Helen McMonagle, Olympia, poured coffee.

Serving at the punch bowl were Emmett Siseamore, Fort Klamath, bride's uncle; and Mrs. Bill Nicholson, Fort Klamath. Cutting and serving the beautifully decorated four-tiered wedding confection were Mrs. Marvin Roeder and Mrs. Loren Miller Jr., Fort Klamath, Marie Nicholson, Fort Klamath and Cornish, registered the guests.

Mrs. Hannigan chose a wine wool suit with black accessories for travel. Following a wedding trip to Reno, Carmel and San Francisco the couple will stop over in Klamath Falls en route to Pendleton, where they will make their home.

Hannigan is a graduate of Chiloquin High School, attended Gonzaga University in Spokane, and received his degree from Oregon State College where, after a term in the armed forces, he also took graduate work in forestry.

The bride is also a graduate of Chiloquin High School and has attended both Marylhurst College at Portland and Oregon State College. In addition to local guests, many attended from the Fort Klamath-Chiloquin area. Those from out of the basin included Mrs. J. J. Wilkinson and Mrs. R. A. Miksche, Medford; Robert Crites and Paul Hanson, Eugene; Betty Alvig, La Mesa, California; and Mrs. Carol Pittman, Ashland.

Mrs. W. R. Patterson, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Luderman, Chemult; Bonnie Bressler, Berkeley; Marilyn Mason, Etna, California; Eileen Sussbauer, Salem; Helen McMonagle, Olympia; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dolan, Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. I. G. McMonagle, J. Collins McMonagle, and Marilee McMonagle, Hoquiam, Washington; Dr. and Mrs. George A. McMonagle, Menlo Park, California, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goffin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goffin and Mrs. Zoe McCormick, Salem.

Hartley-Simpson Names Union

ALTURAS — Virgie Simpson, lovely 19 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson, Alturas, was united in marriage October 2, in Reno to James Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hartley, Wilmington. The bride wore a blue tulle dress embroidered in white wool, with a small white shell cap trimmed with rhinestones. Accessories were white.

Accompanying the young couple to Reno were Mrs. Simpson, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Lois Beardall and small daughter Sherry. The young couple will live in Wilmington where the bridegroom is employed.

M. B. Hartley was formerly an employe of the White Pine Lumber Company in Alturas.

SADDLE CLUB

The Klamath Saddle Club regular October meeting was held at Blanche Balsiger's home October 5 with 21 members present: Bessie Lilly, Vi Hill, Beverly Negrevski, Lyvina Mattoon, Bonnie McMahon, Audrey Herrick, Dorothy Kirkpatrick, Pat Kirkpatrick, Gladys Orrell, Pat Beyer, Ernie Read, Darlene Blackman, Dottie Poole, Georgia Lane, Mary Gerbino, Vi Ruge, Blanche Balsiger, Lura Dunlavy, Jo Matt, Joyce Riker and Lucille Ring.

The overnight ride and potluck dinner at Dottie Poole's ranch was postponed until next spring as so many are away hunting at this time. It was decided to participate in the Merrill Potato Festival parade October 23 and details will be phoned to members.

The annual Christmas party will be chaired by Georgia Lane, and her committee, Bonnie McMahon, Vi Ruge and Joyce Riker. A tentative date, December 4, at the Yacht Club, has been set.

The cowboy breakfast, given by the Saddle Club and Posse for the Real Estate Convention was a successful and pleasant project. Breakfast was served at the Williams Ranch October 2 from 9 to 12 a.m. and approximately 130 real estate men and women were served sourdough hotcakes, ham, scrambled eggs, fried potatoes, grapefruit juice, orange juice and coffee. Lorraine Emrick and her committee, Dorothy Kirkpatrick and Ruth Williams worked hard and many members turned out to help cook and serve. The House Brothers sang and entertained with numerous songs.

WALES FAMILY HAS REUNION

The first time in years that so many of the Wales family were together, occasioned a family group picture.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Wales and their children and families during the family reunion decided that even though two were unable to be there — a picture was indicated, since even that many might not be assembled in one place for another period of years.

Daughter Charlotte and her husband, Larry Worstell, live in Oakridge. He was recently assigned to ranger duty in the Willamette forest and was unable to leave his new post during the fire season.

The Lieuellen's (Barbara) live in Mouthout where Elwayne is registrar at the Oregon College of Education. The family had been living in Menlo Park for four years while Elwayne was studying for his doctorate in education; and the stop for the family reunion was made while they were moving from Menlo Park to Mouthout. The others in the picture live in Klamath Falls.

William Wales Jr., other absent member, had made a previous appointment at the time the photographer was available.

PLAYERS CLUB

Hunting season was the inspiration for decorations at the Players Club meeting, Wednesday night, October 5, in the Library Club Room; and hostesses were all dressed for a hunting trip.

Continuing the hunting theme, the center table was draped with burlap and centered with a frying pan filled with flowers. Place mats and tallies at the card tables were cutouts of ducks.

Hostesses for the evening were Stieve Maguire, chairman; Nellie Jacobsen, Vivian Landes, Elyra Lien and Mildred Dimbak.

After the short business meeting, cards were played. Bridge prizes went to Bonita Johnson, Opal McDonald and General Stockburg; pinochle to Florence Oppelt, Vivian Fisher and Mrs. A. Boyle.
