SPIES

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An Army court sentenced five Army and Air Force officers to death Monday on charges of participating in a Soviet spy network.

The sentences brought to 21 the number of condemned officers who will face firing squads soon unless an appeal court or the Shah intervenes.

RUBE LONG

Chamber Picks 'Grassman'

LAKEVIEW — R. A. "Rube" Long, Fort Rock rancher, has been chosen by the Portland Chamber of Commerce "Grass is Gold" committee as Oregon's Grassman of the Year and next will complete with Washington and Idaho winners for the title of Northwest Grassman.

Rube is a native of Lake County, born at Lakeview in 1898 of pioneer parents. His father was an early settler who brought some of the first cattle to Lake County, and when Rube was two years of age the family moved to Christmas Lake, in northern Lake County.

Long has been ranching in Fort Rock Valley for about 25 years and runs 8000 acres of his own plus about 38,000 acres of leased public and private lands. He raised horses for many years, and spent his winters rounding up and breaking wild horses for sale to ranchers. His summers were spent packing for dudes in the Cascades. About three years ago he quit horses, switched to cattle and today runs about 400 head.

Years ago, Long started rehabilitating the range land, removing sagebrush and seeding to better grasses and he has reclaimed about 1370 acres in this manner. But his principle claim to fame as a dry-land rancher comes from his use of the native range. Long contends that the greatest possibility in developing range feed is the proper use and improvement of the native bunch grasses to give it a better chance to reclaim its own land, and in this his practices have excelled. He has vastly increased the carrying capacity of many acres by good rotation and care of the range lands.

Long's ranch in Fort Rock Valley — the fort-line extinct volcano cone which gives the valley its name is on his ranch — is 120 miles from Lakeview in the far-north end of the county. There is a local farmer phone line, but none connect "with the United States" as Long puts it. Long makes frequent trips to the outside world, as he is prominent in livestock and civic organizations, and has come to be known as the principal communications medium between Fort Rock and the outside world.

RECITAL

MOSCOW (AP) — U. S. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) spent a musical Sunday in Moscow. She attended a recital by the Red Army chorus in the afternoon and went to a ballet performance at the ballet theater Sunday night.

The senator said she had received no reply as yet on her request for an interview with Premier Georgi Malenkov. She said she plans to leave the Soviet Union Thursday.

French Premier Backs New W. German Economic Pact

PARIS (AP)—A determined French Premier Pierre Mendes-France pushed his program for far-reaching economic accords with West Germany today, moving quickly to follow up the Paris agreements for adding German strength to Western defense.

In a fireside radio chat last night, the Premier told his countrymen:

"France and Germany are two countries whose nearness to one another and whose resources and production require their close association together."

His talk came a day after the foreign ministers of 15 Wetern nations signed protocols to three treaties designed to make West Germany a free and equal partner in the Western alliance against the threat of Red aggression. The Paris agreements must be ratified by the national parliaments of the countries concerned. Western diplomats hoped this could be accomplished by mid-1955, but they looked for some rough going with the Soviet Union in the months ahead.

Russia moved within a few hours after the agreements were reached Saturday, calling for a Big Four conference in November on a German peace settlement.

Mendes-France told his radio audience the signing of an agreement Saturday with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on the future of the rich Saar Valley removed that obstacle to French-German cooperation.

Reminding the French that West Germany is their best customer and "second most important provider of goods," the Premier said the two countries need each other.

"Because of this," he said, "we are determined to conclude accords of long duration such as will assure permanent markets for French wheats, sugar, milk products, etc.

"It is also useful to encourage associations between French and German business and financial interests with the aim of making the best of our respective resources, increasing production, and making rercarch to find markets elsewhere in the world."

The Premier said the agreement to Europeanize the Saar within the French economy "satisfied rights and interests of France in a way we had called for in vain for a very long time."

He said the Saar agreement was "not achieved without pain," but discounted fears held in some French quarters that close economic cooperation would give German efficiency supremacy. It was not just a case of dividing present limited markets, he said, but to "enlarge our fields of activity and our markets."

In addition to Soviet roadblocks in the way of Allied plans for West Germany, Western diplomats also expect Mendes-France to run into stiff opposition in getting some features of the agreements through the French National Assembly.

Large segments of the French people in the past have opposed three things contained in the accords — the West Germans will be able to create a general staff of the army level, form military units at the army group level for integration with the other Allied forces and enter directly into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

These factors may sway some votes, but associates of Mendes-France say he is expected to present the entire plan to the Assembly.

The various agreements reached Saturday would end the Allied occupation and rearm West Germany under safeguards within a seven-nation Western European Union and NATO. Twelve German divisions would take their place in the Allied defense line.

The Soviet Union's call for a four-power foreign ministers' conference said the talks should include Western, as well as Russian proposals for free all-German elections.

The United States, Britain and France were reported standing by two conditions for any such conference as outlined in notes to Moscow last month:

1. Russia must agree in advance to holding free, supervised, German-wide elections for an all-German government.

2. Russia must act in advance to conclude a treaty of independence for occupied Austria.
