Formal presentation of a certificate signed by national officers of the association was made to Rep. Coon in Bend Wednesday by J. A. Dolphin, president of the tri-county chapter of NARCS. The certificate was signed by Frank J. Wilson, national president. "The 74,000 members of this association are fully aware of the special interest you have taken in their behalf," Wilson said, adding that the special certificate of commendation was in appreciation of the Oregon congressman's "thoughtful consideration and support given to legislation which has helped thousands of former government employees who are dependent on their retirement annuities." RETURN OREGON TO THE PEOPLE
VOTE DEMOCRATIC

Paid by Klamath County Central Committee, Paul Buck, Chairman

Richard L. NEUBERGER

brings YOU some FACTS about YOUR Transmission Lines!

1. When Cordon and McKay sold to the California-Oregon Power Company the great Bonneville line from Redmond to Klamath Falls, the COPCO monopoly was preserved.
2. Under cross examination October 1, 1953, at Medford, the general manager of COPCO, J. C. Boyle, told why COPCO wanted to get possession of the Bonneville line:
"Well, the primary reason was to make some arrangement where our territory would be left intact and not be invaded by Government transmission lines."
3. How do you feel about the rates you now pay to COPCO for 100 kilowatt-hours of power in your home?
Klamath Falls$3.60
Pendleton 3.35
Portland 3.05
Seattle 2.52
4. Low-cost power is the industrial hope of the Northwest, but what chance has Klamath Falls for new payrolls at these COPCO rates?
5. Cordon has said he would like to make "wheeling" agreements with the private utilities for the whole Bonneville grid system. Are these YOUR views?

RICHARD L. NEUBERGER says:

"I will work to restore to the Bonneville trunk system the great 230,000-volt backbone line into Klamath Falls. This can be done by paying COPCO a fair price for the line. But it can only be done if Oregon is served by officials who put the public interest above special interest."
