Knight Wins California Vote Race

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California Republicans kept Thomas H. Kuchel in the U. S. Senate in Tuesday's voting and were bidding Wednesday to retain their 19-11 House margin by ousting a Democrat once barred from an atomic test as a security risk.

The Republicans also retained state offices, headed by Gov. Goodwin Knight.

Until GOP aspirant John F. Baldwin went ahead of the controversial Democratic incumbent, Robert L. Condon, in the Third District, it seemed likely the Republicans would lose one seat to make the total 18 Republicans, 12 Democrats.

Condon, who was made a special target by Vice President Nixon during a campaign tour of California, trailed Baldwin by more than 300 votes with 188 precincts still out, most of them in territory of Baldwin's strength. Condon has denied there ever was any basis for ruling him a security risk.

Until the switch in the Baldwin-Condon race, a slight gain by the Democrats was in prospect because Democratic aspirant B. F. Sisk, of Fresno, built up a lead of nearly 2,000 over Republican Rep. Oakley Hunter in the 12th District.

James Roosevelt, son of the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, was a certain Democratic winner in the Los Angeles 26th District.

Knight won an easy victory over Richard P. Graves, Democratic candidate for governor, with evident support from the state's 3-to-2 Democratic majority. Kuchel, who played up the pro-Eisenhower theme in his campaign, had a tougher time with Democratic Rep. Samuel W. Yorl.

Roosevelt will take Yorl's seat in the House. Incumbents sought re-election in every Congress district except Yorl's and Republican Rep. Ernest K. Brantlett's 13th District where Republican Charles M. Tague was the front-runner.

The Legislature was authorized, in another measure, to divide the larger counties into districts for elections to the Legislature.

The people agreed with the Legislature that amending the Constitution by initiative should be made harder. From now on, it will take signatures of 10 per cent of the voters to put these proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot. The figure has been 8 per cent.
