NATIONAL

Two local branches of national organizations contributed their "bit" to funds which will finance projects in localities on the Atlantic Coast; clearly indicating the closeness of national ties.

Both sponsored teas last Saturday afternoon.

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club invited local women to the Frederick Ehlers' residence, where handmade items from the Settlement School in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, were displayed for sale.

The school is maintained by Pi Beta Phi national to instruct mountain folk in that vicinity in various types of handicraft. Money realized from the annual sale is sent to the school as a source of revenue for the workers from the "Smokies." Sales are sponsored by local alumnae clubs throughout the country; and the local one is always a sell-out.

"DO-GOOD"

By sponsoring a silver tea at the Emil Albrecht residence, the local Girl Scout organization joined other scout groups throughout the nation in a money-raising project to cover the cost of restoring the family home of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement in the United States. The four-story Victorian structure in Savannah, Georgia, after restoration and furnishing is complete, will be a national shrine and center for Girl Scouting.

This country is the only one not having such a national center to house Girl Scout documents and other valuable mementos. Space on the first floor will be converted into permanent meeting rooms where visiting members may gather to exchange ideas pertinent to scouting.
