US Medical Leader Calls For Faith

By FRANK KAREY AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dr. Elmer Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., said today any doctor "who lacks faith in the Supreme Being" has no right to practice medicine.

"A physician who walks into a sick room is not alone," said the Erie, Pa., doctor, who is a specialist in urology. "He can only minister to the ailing person with the material tools of scientific medicine—his faith in a higher power does the rest."

"Show me the doctor who denies the existence of the Supreme Being and I will say that he has no right to practice the healing art."

Hess made the statements in a prepared digest of extemporaneous remarks he planned for the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical Assn. The SMA, with a total membership of 10,000 doctors, ranks second only to the AMA as the largest general medical organization in the country.

"Our medical schools are doing a magnificent job of teaching the fundamentals of scientific medicine," declared Hess. "However, I'm afraid that the concentration on basic science is so great the teaching of spiritual values is almost neglected."

At another point he asserted: "Any man who enters the medical profession with financial gain as his sole objective is a discredit to his colleagues. The market place is where you go to make money, not the sick room. Doctors take care of sick folks—period."

The AMA official declared that organization has launched a long-range program designed to solve the medical care problems of the indigent and the chronically ill.

"Special attention must be given," he said, "to the problems of those who are unable to pay for their own medical care, or buy insurance to protect themselves against such costs. We are urging state and county medical societies to make this a major project."
