porting. They're dangerous. Mahoney was just a curious exception to the generally sound rule that political opportunists are dangerous and unreliable. Apparently he came to the conclusion himself that political opportunism is an unsound philosophy. At any rate, after his brief but spectacular venture into Oregon politics, he settled down and became a solid and useful citizen, serving his country capably and well under General MacArthur in Japan.
Morse is different, Tugman, who knows him well, says that in 1944 he was a New Dealer at heart but ran as a Republican because he thought that to win in Oregon then he had to run as a Republican. Early in 1952, he was a big Eisenhower man. Later in 1952, he turned violently and bitterly against Ike. For a while, he was a Democrat. Now, in order to get back his senate committee appointments, he is being a helpful Democrat. Political opportunism again.
Where he will be in 1956, no one knows. He has changed his colors so often that he has become a political chameleon. My guess is that in 1956 Morse will be campaigning under whatever banner seems to promise at the moment the most votes.

Hermit Places Trust In Trees

TOKYO (AP)—Back in 1912—the story goes—Yoshio Suda was falsely accused of illegally cutting trees. He was 26 and a great lover of the woods.
In the anguish of his deep hurt, he retreated to a lonely hideaway in a northern Honshu mountain village.
The newspaper Asahi told the rest of Suda's story today.
There he lavished his love of vegetation on a bleak mountainside. Every day he set out seedlings and cultivated them carefully until they were strong enough to make their own way.
" Cedars can be trusted much more than human beings," he once confided to a friend on one of his infrequent visits to the village at the base of the mountain.
He lived simply on rice obtained through barter.
Over the years his tiny trees grew into a towering forest of 13,000 trees, and the story of his life became a legend.
Then one day, 12 years ago, love came into his life. A girl came to live with him. She stayed a year and left. Three years later she returned and stayed two more years.
In 1949 she died, the villagers say, and Suda resumed his solitary existence.
He now is 68 and still professes to hate the outside world. He would rather live with his trees.

Tooth Taken From Lung

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Six-year-old Edwin Durden is a mighty proud youngster today. He has just had a tooth extracted—from his right lung.
It took a team of doctors using special surgical equipment flown from Philadelphia to do the trick.
This is how it happened:
One of Edwin's teeth wiggled loose several weeks ago and his father H. E. Durden tied a string around it and yanked.
Edwin gasped, and sucked the tooth down his windpipe.
The surgeon in charge at Macon Hospital, who asked his name not be used, said the tooth was "too smooth and hard to grasp with ordinary forceps and also was embedded very deeply in the lung."
The George P. Pilling Co. in Philadelphia, specialists in bronchoscopic instruments, made three special bead-type forceps and aimed them at Macon. Edwin was operated on and the tooth removed in 20 minutes. The lung collapsed but the surgeon said nature would repair it "good as new."

Scouts Plan Installation

MOUNT SHASTA — Installation of officers of the scouts of the Shasta Silvertip District, will take place at the dinner meeting of the group Tuesday, November 16. The dinner will be held at LaPorta's in Mount Shasta at 6:45.
Dr. Elmo Stevenson, head of the Southern Oregon College, Ashland, and president of the Crater Lake Area Council of Boy Scouts will be the speaker of the evening. He will be accompanied by Clifford Hanson, scout executive and J. A. McDougall, council commissioner.
The dinner will be for leaders from the southern Siskiyou district, including Weed, Dunsmuir, Mount Shasta and McCloud and will include all den mothers and husbands and scouters and wives in the district.
Officers, for the ensuing year, to be installed at the Tuesday night ceremony will be Hubert Hamilton, McCloud, district chairman; and Clyde Shearer, McCloud, district commissioner. John Lachenmyer, Dunsmuir, retiring district chairman, will present the district 1954 report.
Camporee awards will be presented at the meeting.

Wife Slayer Faces Death

RALEIGH, Miss. (AP)—A convicted wife slayer faces death in the electric chair Christmas Eve.
A Circuit Court jury yesterday found 38-year-old Ross Hawkins guilty of murdering his wife and then faking an automobile accident to collect insurance on her life.
The jury, which deliberated 15 minutes, refused to recommend mercy, making it mandatory that Judge Homer Currie impose the death sentence.
Hawkins held two $1,000 policies on his wife, one only a month old, when she was killed Aug. 22.
"If you turn him loose," Dist. Atty. Joe McFarland told the jury, "he'll collect on a third generation—a $1,000 policy on his grandson."
The district attorney referred to the mysterious death of Hawkins' son. The boy was killed while hunting with his father several years ago. Hawkins collected on a $10,000 policy.
Hawkins testified he has collected a total of $17,000 in insurance. He said he collected $10,000 for the death of his son, $750 for the burning of his service station and $1,250 for injuries received when he slipped on a banana peel while stepping from a railroad train.

POLICE REPORT
Charles James Benedict, 60, a well-known patient living at 2346 Kane Street, is reported in serious condition at Klamath Valley Hospital this morning after he apparently tried to take his own life, according to state police.
The victim is suffering a gunshot wound in the forehead near the right eye, allegedly inflicted with a .32 caliber pistol, the report states.
Benedict had been in ill health for some time and had been released from the hospital yesterday morning. It is believed the suicide attempt was made some time Friday evening but he was not taken to the hospital until shortly after 5 a.m. today.

Klamath Agency Resident Dies

A heart attack at 4:30 p.m. Friday, November 12, as he sat in a pickup in the yard of the family home at Klamath Agency, took the life of Earl Phillip Kensler. He was 42 years old.
Mr. Kensler, a surveyor for the past nine years at the agency, had returned from work when stricken. A son Lyle, 13, was in the cab of the vehicle with his father when he slumped over the wheel. He was dead by the time a doctor arrived.
Mr. Kensler was a member of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, Chilcoquin.
Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Flora Kensler; four daughters, Lila, Myrna, Mary, Roseanne, two sons, Lyle and Michael, all of Klamath Agency; two brothers, Emory of Halfmoon Bay, California and Edward of Wapato, Washington; and two sisters, Mrs. Edward LeBeau of Wapato, Washington and Mrs. Clarence Schifferens, Holstein, Nebraska.
The body is at Ward's Klamath Funeral Home.
The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday, November 15 in the Mt. Carmel Catholic Church, Chilcoquin. A requiem mass will be said for the repose of his soul at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, November 16, also at the church.

Scouts To Hold Annual Trek

WEED — The annual trek into the woods by the Weed scouts, scouters and scout parents to cut trees for the Christmas tree sale will be staged Sunday, November 14. The group will meet at the Weed Court Club at 7:30 a.m. The date of the sale will be announced at a later date.
Cutting will take place on the Long Bell Lumber Company property in the Tennant area. A hot lunch, furnished by the Weed scouters, will be served at noon by Clarence Collins, the veteran chief of the tree cutting outings.
Troops 31 and 32 of the Boy Scouts will be represented. Chairman Les Kyle will be assisted by Glenn Tonkin. Kyle is the Boy Scout district commissioner.

Policeman's Dance Slated

A double headline attraction is billed for the 26th annual Policeman's Ball to be held Thanksgiving Eve, November 24, in the armory, Officer Tom Woods, chairman, has announced.
Hours are 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with music for dancing by Baldy's Band. Intermission time will feature a 30 minute show by McConnell and Moore.
The internationally known Gay 90's duo promises entertainment, plus with their juggling acts. Especially entertaining is the over-the-shoulder flip Miss McConnell uses in handling the Indian war clubs, unusual for women jugglers. McConnell and Moore have played leading hotels, night clubs, theaters, fairs and rodeos over the nation.
The annual dance is sponsored by the Police Beneficiary Association, of which Officer Oscar Gerleve is president.
Tickets are available from any member of the Klamath Falls Police Department, and will be on sale at the door.

Clearance Of Stream Finished

An extensive stream clearance project has recently been completed on Floras Creek in Curry County, according to the state game commission. This stream, although comparatively small in size, is one of the better fishing streams on the southwest coast.
Four sizeable log jams were removed from the stream, one approximately four miles above Highway 101 and the other three below the highway.
The jams were removed under contract by the Kerber Logging Company of Langlois under the supervision of Walter Ryckman, in charge of stream clearance for the game commission.
The log jams were removed to a point above the high water line and will be burned at a later date.
The same contractor is moving to Bald Mountain creek, a tributary of Elk River in Curry County, to clean the log jams out of stream.
