

PELICAN BEAT

By NANCY CLARK

Well, this columnist is almost three months behind on school news at Klamath Union High School. In fact... this is our first effort at writing a column. . . you see, we're only beginning journalists this year. But this opportunity to write for a real-life daily newspaper is a challenge that can only come once in a lifetime.

If you will bear with me, kind reader, I'll refresh your memory on KUHS happenings during the last three months. I'll be brief, and the next column will contain only current happenings. So here we go in retrospect.

For Klamath Union High School students the school year of 1954-55 made a bombastic start. First of all, our enrollment of over 1400 was a record that tops all high schools, very popular with many Fel students, began the school year with a full agenda of parties, banquets and inductions.

Latin Club, KUHS' largest and most active club under the capable leadership of Mrs. Helen Hoffman, began with a bang with its September 28 annual initiation. Exceptional entertaining skills were staged by initiates who wore togas and flowers characterizing Romans of ancient times. President George Brandt explained the meaning of the club's name, motto, flower, pin and obligation halfway through the ceremony. Besides Brandt, other club officers are: David Landis, vice president; Reva Snell, secretary - treasurer; Wally Wunder, librarian; and Kay Angstead, reporter.

October 13 proved an eventful day for the first year co-ed students who were entertained by their upperclassmen in the Big and Little Sister Party. Carrie Heilbroner, master of ceremonies at the event, introduced the entertainment program which consisted of games, contests and an Indian song and dance. Indian characters were: Jackie Murphy, Mary Ann Munson, Zon Johnson, Jeannie Condry, Reva Snell, Neil McParland, Jan Kenyon, Nadine Wilkerson, Kay Angstead and Gerry Moore.

As always, Klamath Union High School's letterman group, the K Club, staged its annual carnival extravaganza on November 12. Lorne Simons' organization deserves an orchid for their great show which included games, movies, spookhouse, balloon stumping and dart throwing. The success of the carnival is reflected by the excellent turnout of both students and parents. Many expensive prizes were given. Vaughan Schmeck, popular senior, walked away with the door prize which was a handsome portable spotlight. Betty Baggett won a portable freezer as her door prize. Highlight of the evening was the dunking pool where new K Club members were placed in a cage with a collapsible bottom. Directly below the cage was a pool of water and a target for customers to throw baseballs at. A strike to the target would release the bottom of the cage and the first-year members were dumped into the pool. Earl Tichenor's melodic voice waited ballads for the dancing couples in the stomp that followed the carnival. Proceeds of the affair will go into the club's coffers for use on the K Club's annual banquet at the end of the school year. Orchids to "Dutch" Simons and the many K Club members for their many long hours spent to make the carnival a success.

Evaluation has begun at Klamath Union High School, which has been selected with several other Oregon secondary schools. Faculty members, organized into committees, are currently conducting a self-evaluation of their departments and curriculum. Early in April an evaluating team composed of renowned educators and educational authorities will spend three days at the high school for their evaluation which will then be compared to the KUHS faculty reports. The visiting evaluation group, all experts on curriculum from NAA, will weigh all data and determine if an oversight has occurred.

Judge Hears Not Guilty Plea

Eugene Beierle, 37-year-old Flathead Indian from Arlee, Montana, entered a plea of not guilty to pointing a gun at his wife. Eva, when he appeared before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor Wednesday. He was ordered held in the county jail in lieu of $500 bail. Judge Van Vactor deferred setting the case for trial to give Beierle time to consult an attorney.

sports scene at Klamath Union High, and all of us have turned our eyes on the oncoming basketball season. Coach Don Peterson reported to us yesterday that 35 candidates have turned out for early season practice. The team will travel to Reno, December 10 and 11 for a two-game series with Reno High.

Now that you're up-to-date on happenings at KUHS, we'll keep you posted in this column from time to time. Sorry . . . we're late getting started this year. Be Seem' ya'.

Mann Act Charge Filed

A 56-year-old professional diver, known around Klamath Falls night spots as a lavish spender, was held in the city jail here Wednesday on a white slave trafficking charge following his arrest by FBI agents.
