

TOWERING PEAKS IN THE BACKGROUND serve to highlight this winter scene shot from the North Entrance road at Crater Lake shortly before the route was opened in the spring of this year. The snow was still plenty deep at this point, being fifteen feet on the ground in spots.

Cameras Make Suitable Gift And Are Fitted To Budgets

A Christmas gift that's truly ideal is one that, besides giving pleasure, also gives cherished memories. And that adds up to a camera.

Cameras are suitable gifts for almost any age group. They enable the gift recipient to keep his happiest moments recorded for years to come. And they're priced to fit every budget.

Box cameras for raw beginners can be had for as low as three or four dollars. One new 34 model takes outdoor pictures on two types of film: full color and black-and-white. Others come with flash attachments for use indoors or at night.

Each of the major firms, such as Kodak, Arzu and Graflex, now sells a special Christmas package. Included in a typical package are camera, flash unit, batteries, flash lamps, film and carrying case—everything needed to take good pictures. Also offered, by some, are booklets on proper technique.

For the photo-bug who is more advanced, there are cameras to fit every taste and every shade of experience. An expert run-down on each can be had from your neighborhood camera dealer.

Sure to wow expert and novice alike are the newest advances in stereo cameras, such as those by Revere and Linex. If you never have seen one work, ask your dealer to demonstrate. When the picture is seen through a special viewer, the scene becomes three-dimensional. Results are amazingly lifelike.

Another popular favorite is the self-developing Polaroid camera. A minute after you shoot the picture, you can take out a finished print.

Child's Gifts Suggested

Do not force the small child to say thanks for a gift. If he enjoys it, that will be sufficient for the giver.

A silver dollar just goes in the top of a stocking. Polish it with silver polish.

The most inexpensive dainties will delight the pre-teen. Ruffy panties, tiny string gloves make appreciated gifts.

Early churchmen could not decide on what date to celebrate the Mass of Christ or Christmas. The observance was not among the earliest church festivals.

FUN IN THE SNOW for the whole family can be had up at Crater Lake. Here, on an early spring day, a group of tourists walk up a tractor-hewn trail to get a better look at the blue lake.
