

DISCUSSING PLANS FOR FORMATION of a new unit of Klamath Marines, to be known as Klamath Basin Marines, are from left, M-Sgt. Charles A. West and S-Sgt. William M. Allen, local recruiters, and Major W. F. Simlik, officer in charge of Marine Corps recruiting for the district of Oregon from Portland.

Marines Plan Klamath Unit

Plans are being formulated to enlist another squad of men from the Klamath Basin in January, M-Sgt. Charles A. West, one of the local Marine Corps recruiters, announced today.

The new group, similar to the Pelican Leathernecks who were enlisted in June of this year, will be called the Klamath Basin Marines.

It is planned they will leave Klamath Falls January 23 and remain as a unit while undergoing recruit training. Reason for enlisting units such as the Pelican Leathernecks and the Klamath Basin Marines is to instill greater pride in the individual and the Marine Corps, inasmuch as recruits will be with buddies from their home town, Marine officials say.

Letters will be mailed soon to men whose names are on file in the Marine Corps Recruiting Office as initial members of the new unit, informing them of the date of departure. Others are welcome to inquire about chances of enlisting with the unit.

A banquet will be held the latter part of January at which swearing in ceremonies will take place. This is the first time, according to the Marine recruiters, that a swearing in ceremony has been planned by any branch of the service in Klamath Falls.

The officials also stated that in the future, recruits will be flown to Portland for their physical.

Tours of duty with the Marine Corps are three and four years. Further information may be had by contacting the Marine Corps Recruiting Station in the courthouse, or telephone 4455.
