

The Feminine Side Of City Life

S
O
C
I
E
T
Y
by Pati
O'Connor

"THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE rules the world." More specifically in Klamath Falls, hands that rock cradles (for their children, grandchildren, nieces or nephews) guide the city in several key positions. The feminine five featured here include, upper right, Laura (Mrs. Carl) Overoem, city hall office manager and property clerk since 1947 who will retire December 17; upper left, Babs (Mrs. Howard) Barnhisel, member of the city park and recreation committees since 1947 and one of two women in such city posts; center, Ella Redkey, who has served as teacher for 17 years, Girl Scout executive for nine years, the first manager of Klamath Falls Municipal Swimming Pool and aunt to 13 nieces and nephews; lower left, Ruth (Mrs. Stanley R.) Berry, city treasurer for 10 years who will retire at the close of this term in December, 1956; lower right, Addie Mae (Mrs. Jack) Nixon, city librarian for six years who has been with that library a total of 14 years. (Additional story on inside page.)

— All photos by Don Kettler, Staff Photographer

