Monday Found
OKLAHOMA CITY — Albert Henry Jordan, 59, summoned two detectives and told them his billfold was missing. They lifted his mattress and found the missing billfold, containing $1,100. Jordan reasoned: "Guess I put it there and forgot about it."

Eastern Newsmen Convicted Of Advocating Sedition

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 40-year-old newsmen, convicted of advocating sedition was held without bond today while his counsel prepared his motion for a new trial.

A Criminal Court jury returned its verdict against Carl Braden last night and fixed his punishment at 15 years' imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

Braden also was discharged as a copywriter for the Louisville Courier-Journal, where he had been on leave with pay since his indictment.

After the trial, Barry Bingham, president of the Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times, issued this statement:

"This newspaper has gone on the time-honored principles, rooted in our American Constitution, that a man is innocent until proved guilty. . . . His conviction now puts a permanent end to his connection with the Courier-Journal."

Braden's counsel said the motion for a new trial and another for arrest of judgment would be filed Thursday with Judge L. R. Curtis. He must rule on them before bond can be fixed.

If all appeals fail, and Braden is unable to pay all or part of the $5,000 fine, he must serve it out at the rate of $2 a day. His 15-year term would not begin until the full amount of the fine is satisfied.

Under Kentucky law, a person convicted of a felony for the first time becomes eligible for parole after serving a third of his sentence.

In summing up his case, Asst. Commonwealth's Atty. Laurence E. Higgins told the jury it had a simple issue to decide, that "sedition is communism and communism is sedition—there is no distinction."

ISSUE
 Defense Atty. Robert Zollinger declared the issue was whether "a man has the right to an opinion different from those in his community."

Braden was charged with advocating sedition together with his wife and four other persons, after a Negro's new home in a white subdivision was dynamited last June. The Bradens had purchased the home and transferred the deed to the Negro, Andrew Wade IV.

One of the highlights of the two-week trial came with the last-minute appearance of Mrs. Alberta Ahearn, a 44-year-old Louisville seamstress who said she had been working for the FBI as a plant in the Communist cell of which the Bradens were members.

MEETINGS
 She said she was invited to the Communist party by Braden, paid her dues and contributions to him, and attended meetings in his home.

Braden testified that he was not and never had been a Communist.

The Bradens and three other persons were indicted separately on charges of attempting to create ill feeling between Negroes and white persons to promote communism.

Accused in the case are Mrs. Braden, Vernon Brown, a truck driver, accused also of causing the Wade explosion; I. O. Ford, an admitted Communist; and Larue Spiker and Louise Gilbert, former social workers.

The Bradens, Brown, Ford and Lewis Lubka were named in the second indictment charging the Communist plot.

Sheppard Faces Blistering Attack On Witness Stand

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard quietly stuck to his story of innocence today against a thrusting state's attorney who made him relate some of the most intimate details of his life.

He admitted flirtations and marital infidelity but denied they ever spread the shadow of divorce over his marriage.

He conceded that he cannot explain some points in his story of the ghastly night when his wife was murdered but insisted they happened that way nonetheless.

Sheppard, a good-looking quincipath, returned to the witness stand for the fourth consecutive day in his trial on a charge of first-degree murder.

The state contends he killed his pregnant wife Marilyn, and says his relations with other women drove him to the crime. He denies both the act and the alleged motive.

He says a prowler battered his wife while he was asleep in a downstairs room, and knocked him unconscious when he rushed up to help her.

He has told his story, and now he is defending it under cross-examination.

EXAMINATION
 The examination developed into a tense, often dramatic, courtroom duel, accentuated by the contrast between the accused man and the state's attorney, John J. Mahon.

Mahon is a muscular, big-shouldered man with grey hair and a bulldog jaw. He has been elected to a common pleas judgeship, so this probably will be his last case as a prosecution lawyer.

Sheppard, not quite 31, is slim, dark-haired, often boyish in voice and manner. He has been his own star witness in more than eight weeks of hearings.

Mahon frequently raised his voice, booming questions at the witness. He seldom took his eyes off Sheppard. The doctor's replies were delivered in such a low, even tone that the judge several times asked him to speak louder.

Early in the examination, Mahon began asking Sheppard about other women. There were three of them.

DATES
 One was a Margaret Kaiser he met in Los Angeles while he was a hospital intern. They had dates and he called at her home, he said, after his wife joined him in California. But he says he wrote his wife about her.

Another was a former patient, Mrs. Robert Lossman. Sheppard said they kissed each other in a Cleveland park one evening. And he said Mrs. Lossman's husband slapped her once after a walk with him. But he added: "Mr. Lossman said he didn't believe anything had gone on between Mrs. Lossman and me, but that he wouldn't blame me if it had. . . . He felt that she had gotten out of line."

And finally, there was Susan Hayes, a former laboratory technician. Sheppard told substantially the same story she related earlier—that they were intimate over a period of some 15 months, that he gave her a watch, a ring and a suede jacket. But he said that when Miss Hayes raised the question of divorce, he told her he loved his wife and son, who is now 7.

OBJECTION
 The defense objected to this whole line of questioning about Mrs. Lossman and Miss Hayes, describing it as "prejudicial and immaterial." It proves nothing, Sheppard's attorney heatedly argued.

Judge Edward Blythe overruled them.

Another running battle between lawyers flared over the next line of questions. Mahon asked whether Sheppard ever had a discussion

Live Shows Replaced By Films On TV

NEW YORK (AP)—TV rivals a new bride in its fondness for serving canned goods.

At least seven major network program changes are scheduled over the year end in an unusual midseason turnover. In four of them films replace live shows.

From the network's standpoint, this means that the programs can be shown not once, as with live performances, but warmed over again and again. But for the viewer, it turns the TV set into a self-operating home movie projector, giving out a picture of inferior quality—since a print is never as sharp as an original.

On CBS, the live Life With Father expires Jan. 13 to be replaced a week later by a new Phil Silvers filmed program, You'll Never Get Rich. That's My Boy bows off Jan. 1 to be replaced by Professional Father with Steve Dunne, in another film replacement for a live show.

On NBC the Place the Face will give way Jan. 1 to the filmed This Is Hollywood with Mitz Green. On Jan. 8 the live Ethel and Albert will give way to a new Horace Heidt show, but NBC says it hasn't been determined whether Heidt will appear live on film.

The network also has another new filmed show starting Jan. 5, Norby, starring David Wayne, but it will be at an early evening hour when there formerly was not network service.

ABC has the filmed TV Readers Digest coming up Jan. 10 in the Monday night spot heretofore occupied by a live program, called Come Closer. That show, however, wound up last night and Soldier Parade will serve as a fill-in until the new show starts.

Du Mont has no major year-end changes in the work.

Charging to advocates of live television was the survival of the Thursday night hour-long dramatic program on ABC-TV which was canceled as of early January by its present sponsor but immediately picked up by another.

Grass Seed Value Told

The value of Oregon's grass and legume seed production is about one-seventh of the national total, according to a bulletin released by the federal cooperative extension service at Oregon State College.

In 1952, the national produced grass and legume seeds worth more than $200 million. The Oregon seed crop was valued at nearly $25 million. In 1953, the market dropped considerably, and the figures were approximately $112 million and $16 million.

Common ryegrass is listed as the state's most valuable crop. This has been the case every year, since 1944 except in 1951 when ladino clover led. Common ryegrass has topped $5 million in farm value each year since 1950.

Eight other Oregon seed crops are listed as averaging more than a million dollars in farm value in the past few years. These are ladino clover, hairy vetch, tall fescue, chewing fescue, alsike clover, common and Willamette vetch, bentgrass and red clover.

Oregon leads nationally in the production of alsike clover and ranks high in ladino clover and certified red clover seeds. It also produces most of the ryegrass seed used in the United States. The state still produces more than a third of the nation's legume cover crop seed.

Two Tankers Report Fires

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard reported early today that two Norwegian tankers, both racked by engine room explosions, have apparently been able to cope with resulting fire and injuries.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a Coast Guard plane had flown over the stricken SS Fenual and reported that a fire aboard the loaded oil tanker appeared to be under control. A U.S. merchant ship was standing by, some 270 miles northwest of San Juan, P.R.

About 100 miles northwest of the Fenual was the tanker Braconda, which also reported an explosion last night. The Coast Guard said two seamen originally had been reported near death from injuries. Later reports indicated they were out of danger.

The Santa Sofia, a Grace Lines passenger ship, was headed toward the Braconda with a doctor.

Standing by the Fenual was the SS William Humphrey. Two cutters dispatched to the scene are expected to get there by midafternoon.
