WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued ahead Friday in new high ground for the past 25 years.

Some gains were extensive, running as much as 2 points at times, while minus signs were not encountered in any vital area.

Trading earlier in an estimated 2,800,000 shares as compared with 2,290,000 shares Thursday.

Former Tulelake Resident Dies

TULELAKE — Word has been received here of the death at the University of California Hospital, San Francisco, of Pamela Lorri Li-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Lark, former residents of Tulelake. The little girl had been ill since birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Lark and one daughter, Diane, live at Rio Dell, California. The family came here in 1950 from Weed and Lark operated the pharmacy in Lark's Market. He was a druggist at Weed for several years.

Funeral services for Pamela were held in Oakland with interment in the Chapel of the Chimes.

Contributions in memory of Pamela have been made with the Pamela Lorraine Memorial Foundation for Fibrocystic Children.

Vandals Wreck Malin Xmas Tree

MALIN — The Malin village and volunteer firemen are incensed at the vandals who attacked the 40 foot Christmas tree the firemen drove 25 miles in the mountains for the main street of Malin for everyone to enjoy.

Before the tree was unloaded from the truck parties unknown tore out about 10 feet of branches at the top ruining the carefully shaped tree.

Since the tree has been put up the colored bulbs are being stolen repeatedly.

The custom of erecting a large lighted tree in the center of town for all to enjoy and carried out year after year by the volunteer firemen is being spoiled by a few destructive persons.

State Teachers Of Year Named

SALEM (AP) — Oregon's Teachers of the Year are Margaret Perry, Monmouth, and Elsie May Cimino, Hillsboro, the State Education Department announced Friday.

Miss Perry, supervising teacher at Monmouth Grade School, was in the elementary division. Miss Cimino, English teacher at Hillsboro High School, topped the high school teachers.

The project is sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education and the National Council of State School Officers.

Both of the Oregon winners are entered in the contest for National Teacher of the Year.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat pounded out sizable gains on the board of trade Friday and the rest of the market also was mostly higher. Only soybeans lagged.

There was a demand for both old and new crop wheat futures. The old crop months were aided by export business in both wheat and flour while a forecast for little or no moisture in the Southwest over the next five days created demand for new crop months.

Wheat closed 1 3/8-2 3/8 higher, Dec 2.28 3/4; corn unchanged to 3/8 higher, Dec 1.50 1/4; oats 1/4-1 1/2 higher, Dec 81 1/4-5/8; rye 2 to 2 1/2 higher, Dec 2.13 3/4; soybeans unchanged to 2 1/2 higher, Jan 2.80 3/4-2.81 1/2; and lard unchanged to 7 cents a hundred pounds higher, Dec 12.40-12.37.

THIS GROUP OF TULELAKE farmers (standing) will help guide work of the Tulelake Growers Association in the coming year. Left to right they are Lester Turnbaugh, vice president; Lowell Kenyon, secretary-treasurer, both newly elected; Ben Reim, sr, president, holdover member of the board and vice president last year; and John Bailey Sr., new director. Kneeling, is Clifford Jenkins, association manager.

Reimer Named President Of Growers Association

TULELAKE — Ben Reimer, holdover member of the board of directors of the Tulelake Growers Association, has been chosen by the board to succeed Stanley Buckingham as president.

The new officers elected at the annual association meeting on December 10 were introduced at the annual banquet Wednesday evening, December 15, which was held in the Tulelake Grange Hall.

Serving as officers with Reimer will be two of the three newly elected board members, Lester Turnbaugh as vice president and Lowell Kenyon as secretary-treasurer. Third new member is John Bailey Sr.

Holdover members of the board are Reimer, Ronald Ward and Charles E. Wiese. Retiring directors are Carl Coglon Jr., Jess Landrix Jr. and Blair Buckingham.

Clifford Jenkins will continue as manager of the association.

In the annual report released at the dinner, it was revealed that the association has a net worth of $71,942.99 as of December 1 of this year. Some 300 members are registered.

During the past year the association acquired orders for, and helped members dispose of some 425,000 worth of hay at a time when the hay market was at low ebb. There was no cost to the membership.

The association was one of two produce groups in the U.S. represented at the alsike clover seed hearing in Washington, D.C. last March which were seeking action of the tariff commission in increasing the tariff on alsike seed being imported in huge quantities from Canada.

Seems of the two groups was the Klamath Alsike Clover Seed Growers. As a result of that intervention on the behalf of all alsike seed growers in the U.S., alsike clover seed is selling this year from 30-32 cents per pound instead of the 15-16 cents it sold for in 1950.

The Tulelake Growers Association is currently seeking lower freight rates from here to the San Francisco Bay area to favorably compete with lowered rates recently allowed by the Southern Pacific from Utah and Idaho points.

Other accomplishments during the past year included remodeling of the office in the Golden Hotel building to include more room for association needs, for the Seed Certification Office, the agricultural inspector's office, the Agricultural Stabilization Committee and the Federal Housing Administration. Expansion of the farm labor camp at Newell to accommodate 75 families was also completed last summer.

Speaker of the evening, George C. Aldrich, economist in marketing, University of California, was introduced by Ken Bachtell.

Aldrich, speaking on the "Economic Situation and Agricultural Outlook," based his predictions of a stabilized monetary future for many years on four assumptions, no war, no peace, average weather and a balanced economy in industrial government. A further moderate leveling off in farm prices can be expected next year but the economic situation will remain healthy.

Domestic consumers, government spending, foreign markets and public and private investment will stabilize the country's future economy, he said. Consumer money, spent for food, housing, automobiles and hard goods should be as liberally distributed in 1955 as it was this year. Movement of population and industry toward the west coast is another factor in the favorable outlook.

In closing Aldrich said, "The American economy is geared to the middle income group. The increase in population will boost the demands for agricultural products and while the net farm returns will decrease slightly yet from the high peak of 1950, agriculture has a good future."

Joe Allen, Dorris, Siskiyou County supervisor and the "Wheat Pirate," Klamath Falls businessman, entertained.

Dinner was served by the Guild of the Tulelake Community Presbyterian Church.

Officers Catch Game Violators

Two men were apprehended Wednesday by federal game management officers for violations of hunting regulations.

Doyle J. Hankins, 24, of Tulelake pleaded guilty before Justice Victoria Thaeler in Tulelake and was fined $25 for shooting after hours and from a tractor.

John Levy Medford, 42, of Salem, was picked up by officers for shooting 47 minutes after hours. He posted a $40 bond Wednesday night and was cited to appear before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor at 10 a.m. Thursday. He did not appear at that hour.

Xmas Program To Be Presented

The Free Methodist Church, 1918 Oregon Avenue, will present its Christmas program Sunday evening, December 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the church auditorium.

Program will include dramatic and choral presentations with the entire Sunday School organization from pre-school to young adult members participating.

The Rev. Harvey Timm, pastor, will give a brief sermon.

The public is cordially invited to attend both the Christmas program and the regular Sunday morning services — Sunday School at 9:45 and worship service at 11 o'clock.

PELICAN BEAT

By NANCY CLARK

There is absolutely no doubt about it now, everywhere you turn in our beautiful high school there is a breath of Christmas. Trees have brightened various classrooms among school. Among these rooms, Mrs. Peak has acquired one of the largest.

PEA club of Klamath Union High School enjoyed a Christmas party Wednesday night. Mr. Kristian Gipps spoke to the girls on the Christmas trees of Europe. Refreshments, made by a committee of PEA girls, were served to the group around a Christmas tree consisting of handmade ornaments and decorations by the girls. Mrs. Sheppard, adviser of the club, experienced an unfortunate accident coming to school Tuesday morning, falling on the slippery pavement and breaking an arm. She will be hospitalized for three weeks. Her home ec classes are anticipating a quick recovery and speedy return.

Leaks Impede Ice Skating

Tremendous progress was made Thursday night toward getting sufficient ice for skating at the Moore Park rink, but three sub-surface leaks are causing trouble, Bob Bonney, city park and recreation director, reported this morning.

One of the leaks is located where a car was driven over the ice last week. The leaks are not obvious until water is added.

Bonney said department crews feel confident, however, that if present weather conditions prevail, there will be ice by Sunday. This is not definite, but final word will be given over both radio stations.

Another Christmas party delighted the Junior Tri-Hi-Y group Tuesday night. Mrs. Jim Olson, adviser of the group, entertained the girls at her residence. Sandwiches, cookies, candy, and punch were served following a short business meeting and entertainment.

Five KUHS boys out of 11 took an NROTC (Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps) test last Saturday morning. The boys taking the three hour 45 minute test were: Ed Bigby, David Deller, Dick Clark, George England and Rod Van Buskirk. The test provides for those qualified a college education free from expenses.

K Club held a meeting Tuesday to discuss plans for a whiskereno. That's right, girls, a whiskereno. Oh well, boys will be boys! K Club members are: George Arnold, Art Badorek, Bill Badorek, Bob Bagett, Richard Berg, Ed Bigby, Jim Borden, Don Brallier, Leon Brown, Jerry Burke, Marlin Causey, Dick Clark, Ronnie Conner, Pedro Colley, Kent Cooper, Larry Dearing, Gerald DePaul, Dave D'Olivio, Tom Ferrell, Kent Flug, Julio Gonzales, Charles Guptill, Bill Hamblin, Scott Hancock, Bob Harshbarger, Larry Heafon, Modesto Jiminez, Bill Johnson, Bob Kelly, Verlund Kimpton, Jim King, Dave Leeling, Larry Mathews, Craig McCarty, Jim McGee, Elvis Mitchell, Ron Morris, Erwin Mullin, Guy Munsel, George Olsen, Dave Peppin, Gene Perkins, Vince Reece, Gary Rogers, Roy Ropp, Wayne Rodgers, John Shaw, Don Stilwell, Jack Sumbach, Dunn Taucher, Earle Tichenor, Dennis Todd, Don Tilman, Rod Van Buskirk, and Larry Yarnell.
